TWO RIFLES ON A LINER

Italian Ship May Be Interned.

Crewmen of the Royal Navy Reach New York as Part of Verdi's Crew.

Liner with a Range of Four Miles Mounted on Decks of the Craft.

Washington Orders an Inquiry to Determine the Status of the Steamer.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Italian liner Giuseppe Verdi, which arrived at New York today with two 3-inch rifles aboard and manned by gunners of the royal navy, will be refused clearance papers until the guns have been disarmed and removed. Moreover, State Department officials said tonight, investigation would be made to determine whether the liner is armed merely for defense, and not as a ship liable to internment.

Action will be taken to insure strict observance of violation of the general rules recognized by the United States defining the status of armed merchant vessels using its ports.

The State Department probably will confer informally with the Italian ambassador the question of removing the ban, acting on the precedent established in the case of the Wilhamana, a British vessel, which was allowed to clear from New York with papers recently until the guns were removed.

WILSON'S NAME ON THE BALLOT.

President Disregards Platform Pledges and Agrees to Run Again.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 6.—All doubt about President Wilson's willingness to accept a renomination notwithstanding the one-term plank in the Democratic platform was removed late this afternoon, when authority came direct from the White House to place the President's name on the ballot to be voted at Indiana's first primary election to be held in March. A petition signed by more than 500 Indiana voters and requesting that Wilson's name go on the Presidential ballot was filed with the Secretary of State today. Tomorrow is the last day of grace for filing the petition.

WILSON WAR ENVOY ARRIVES IN LONDON.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Col. E. M. House, President Wilson's personal representative, the only alien passenger on the steamer Rotterdam, was permitted to land immediately on the vessel's docking at Falmouth and arrived in London in time to take breakfast with Walter Hines Page, the American Ambassador, today.

Col. House declined to say more about his mission than to reiterate his announcement that he was looking over the war situation in Europe.

He will spend two weeks in London, departing thence for Paris, where he will remain for a few days. On his return here he may go to Berlin, but this part of his itinerary has not yet been arranged.

GREECE SECURES LOAN FROM THE FRENCH.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—An Athens dispatch to the Havas Agency says the French government has informed the Greek government it has placed 10,000,000 francs at the disposal of Greece. This sum is an advance on a loan of 40,000,000 francs now being negotiated.

New Pan-American Policy Explained.

Peace in Western Hemisphere and Political Freedom Guaranteed.

To Settle Boundary Disputes Amicably by Impartial Investigation.

Insists Monroe Doctrine will Always be Maintained by United States.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The United States government's Pan-American policy was revealed in detail by President Wilson tonight in an address before the second Pan-American Scientific Congress. He explained the proposals submitted to South and Central American diplomats here last week by Secretary Lansing as a basis for an effective agreement between all the republics of the western hemisphere "not only for international peace of America, but the domestic peace of America."

This programme, as outlined by the President, proposes that all the American nations shall:

Unite in guaranteeing to each other absolute political independence and territorial integrity.

Agree to settle all pending boundary disputes as soon as possible by amicable process.

Agree to handle all disputes arising among them by patient, impartial investigation, and to settle them by arbitration.

Agree that no revolutionary expedition shall be outfitted against or supplies for revolutionists shipped to neighboring states.

"These are very practical suggestions," said the President, "and I, for my part, believe that they are going to lead the way to something that America has prayed for for many a generation."

He said the Monroe doctrine had been and always would be maintained by the United States on its own authority but that the doctrine did not disclose what attitude the United Sates would assume toward other nations of the hemisphere and consequently, the other nations had been distrustful of it.

Enthusiastic applause from the delegates greeted the President's remarks.

WILSON'S ADDRESS.

After expressing regret at his inability to be present to greet the congress at its opening session, the President said:

"I have been told so much about the proceedings of this congress that I feel that I can congratulate you upon the increasing sense of comradeship and intimate intercourse which has marked its sessions from day to day; and it is a very happy circumstance in our view that this, perhaps the most vital and successful of the meetings of this congress, should have occurred in the capital of our country, because we should wish to regard this as the universal place where ideas worth while are exchanged and shared.

"The drawing together of the Americas, ladies and gentlemen, has long been dreamed of and described. It is a matter of peculiar gratification, therefore, to see this great thing happen, to see the Americas drawing together, and not drawing together upon any insubstantial foundation of mere sentiment.

"After all, even friendship must be based upon a perception of common sympathies, of common interests, of common ideals, and of common purposes. Men cannot be friends unless they intend the same things, and the Americas have more and more realized that in all essential particulars they intend the same thing with regard to their thought and their life and their activities. To be privileged, therefore, to see this drawing together in friendship and communion based upon these solid foundations affords everyone who looks on with open eyes peculiar satisfaction and joy; and it has seemed to me that the language of science, the language of impersonal thought, the language of those who think, not along the lines of individual interest, but along what are intended to be the direct and searching lines of truth itself, was a very fortunate language in which to express this community of interest and of sympathy.

"But, ladies and gentlemen, our thought cannot pause at the artificial boundaries of the fields of science and of commerce. All boundaries that divide life into sections and interests are artificial, because life is all of a piece. You cannot treat part of it without by implication and indirection treating all of it, and the field of science is not to be distinguished from the field of life any more than the field of commerce is to be distinguished from the general field of life. No one who reflects upon the progress of science, or the spread of the arts of peace, or the extension and perfection of any of the practical arts of life, can fail to see that there is only one atmosphere that these things can breathe, and that is an atmosphere of mutual confidence and peace and of odd political life among the nations. Amidst war and revolution even the voice of science must, for the most part, be silent, and revolution tears the very roots of everything that makes life go steadily forward and the light grow from generation to generation. For nothing stirs passion like political disturbance, and passion is the enemy of truth.

"These things were realized with

WIFE SUES SEX EXPERT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—Robert Herrick, University of Chicago, professor, novelist and war correspondent, was made defendant today in a divorce bill filed by his wife, Mrs. Harriet P. Emery Herrick, his first cousin, to whom he was married in 1898. Mrs. Herrick charges desertion and asks that the novelist be forced to provide for her and their 16-year-old son, Philip.

Thomas W. Swan, attorney for Herrick, filed an answer denying the allegation of desertion and averring that Mrs. Herrick is not entitled to the relief sought.

Mr. Herrick has attracted international attention by his treatment of the problem of sex and of modern influences on women in his novels. Probably the best known is "Together," an exceedingly frank narrative of the relations of man and wife.

INSISTS KAISER HAS A CANCER.

FORMER BALTIMORE PHYSICIAN AUTHORITY FOR NEWS.

Specialist in the East is Informed of Exact Nature of Wilhelm's Ailment—Severe Treatment may be Necessary to Adequately Cope with the Disease.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BALTIMORE (Md.) Jan. 6.—Kaiser Wilhelm has a cancer. The exact nature of his illness, while well known to the imperial physicians, has been made clear for the first time in this country by a prominent specialist of this city today. The specialist explained he had secured his information from Dr. James J. West, a former Baltimorean and now eminent in Berlin medical circles.

Two years ago there was considerable talk of the Kaiser being in poor health and that an operation would be necessary. According to information conveyed to the specialist by Dr. West, the operation was performed, and it was for an ulcer on the right side of the larynx.

Dr. West advised that the ulcer be burned out. This was done, and the Kaiser improved.

Dr. West is now at the head of one of the largest cancer clinics in Berlin. Ulcers of the larynx have sometimes been cured, and radium has played a most important part in their treatment. In the case of the Kaiser, however, according to Dr. West, the ulcer was not entirely cleared away, and it was only a course of time before it would reappear. The only thing that can be done in the case of a cancer of the throat is to cut away the larynx and insert two tubes, one for breathing purposes and the other for carrying the food to the stomach.

Seven Battleships and Other Warcraft Leave for the Caribbean.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Four battleships, commanded by Rear-Admiral Coffman; the scout cruiser Birmingham, flagship of the torpedo fleet, commanded by Rear-Admiral Gleaves, and the repair slip Vestal, commanded by Rear-Admiral Pond, left here today for winter maneuvers in the Caribbean Sea. The battleships are the Virginia, Rhode Island, New Jersey and Nebraska.

MORE LEAVE NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Three battleships, the New York, Texas and Utah, and three destroyers, the Nicholson, Cushing and Balch, left the Brooklyn navy yard today. It is understood they will join the battleships and cruisers that left Boston at the same time for maneuvers in the Caribbean Sea.

UNIONITES AGAINST IT

Sharp Hostility to the Conscription Bill.

But the Measure Passes First Reading in the House of Commons.

Three British Ministers Resign as a Result of the Labor Propaganda.

LONDON, Jan. 6, 5:30 p.m.—Organized labor of Great Britain, sitting in congress in London today, decided against the government's compulsion bill by the overwhelming majority of 1,998,000 votes to 783,000.

Hostility to the government's measure was uncompromising and necessitated the resignation from the coalition ministry of all three Labor members—Arthur Henderson, William Brace and George H. Roberts—holding, respectively, the offices of president of the Board of Education, Parliamentary Undersecretary for Home Affairs and Lord Commissioner of the Treasury, and their resignations were announced during the evening.

The labor congress was in many ways the most important body of the kind ever assembled. More than 1000 delegates were present, representing 400 unions and 3,000,000 workers.

In addition to the formal vote against the government's compulsion bill, the congress rejected by four to one a motion pledging support to the principle of compulsion for single men, and passed by two to one another motion directing the Labor party to oppose the bill in all its stages in the House of Commons.

The congress closed with an enthusiastic scene, the feature of which was the singing of the Socialist anthem, "The Red Flag."

LABOR PARTY MEETING.

A meeting of the Labor party in Parliament, to be held immediately, has been summoned. It is expected that Arthur Henderson, president of the Board of Education and leader of the party; William Brace, Parliamentary Undersecretary for Home Affairs, and George H. Roberts, Lord Commissioner of the Treasury and Labor whip in the House of Commons, will resign their government positions.

Ramsay McDonald, a Labor member of the House of Commons, opposed anything in the nature of support for the compulsory service bill.

President Bellamy of the Railway Men's Union, in moving the passage of the amendment recommending that the Labor members of Parliament oppose the compulsion bill, said he believed that what was aimed at was to put a chain around the neck of the working classes of the country, which would prevent them from exercising their rights as free men. Putting such a bill on the statute books, he said, ultimately would arouse such passion that even the King's government might not be able to stand against it.

The delegates met in the so-called Central Hall, a large new building erected by the Wesleyan Methodist churches, opposite Westminster Abbey, and a stone's throw from the Parliament buildings, as the denomination's national headquarters.

The proceedings opened with a formal summary of the situation, followed by the introduction of the official resolution which was moderate in tone, the substance of it being that the Labor members of the House of Commons should be left free to vote as they saw fit on the question of compulsion.

Some sections of the audience were inclined to be restive during these formalities and when later there came a succession of impassioned orations against compulsion, the opposition, which at first had been audible only in interjections and murmurings, gradually hardened and there were loud demonstrations from every part of the hall.

One of the early speakers, James Henry Thomas, assistant general secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, kindled his hearers to fierce enthusiasm. His was an out and out anti-compulsion speech, appealing to the trade unions "not to sell their heritage of freedom."

A speech by Arthur Henderson, president of the Board of Education, spoke calmly and logically defending, not merely the resolution before the meeting, but also the compulsion bill itself. But his effort was insufficient to turn the tide of opposition.

With the exception of the Miners' Federation, which refused to participate owing to internal differences with the joint board, virtually every trade union of importance in the country was represented in the congress. The number of societies voting is given from one source as 409, made up as follows: Trade unions, 311; trade councils and locals labor parties, 83; independent labor party organizations, 15.

Col. John Ward, M.P., who calls himself an "Independent Laborite," declared in the House tonight that the decision of the labor congress could not be regarded as actually representing the will of the labor men of the country.

"For," said he, "you must consider the fact that certainly from one-half to one-third of the members of the trade organizations which met in Congress are either in the trenches or preparing to take their places

Overindulgence in Joys of the Exposition Affected Standing of Many.

BERKELEY, Jan. 6.—Overindulgence in the joys of the Panama-Pacific Exposition was given as the reason today for the unusual number of students refused admission to the University of California on the ground of defective scholarship. Out of a registration of 5977 194 students have been notified that their scholastic standing during the exposition year fell below the minimum requirements, and that they would be excluded from college for six months.

FORD PEACE PARTY TRAVELS BY TAGS.

TRIP THROUGH GERMANY IS A STRENUOUS EXPERIENCE.

Each Member is Known Only by a Number Which Corresponds to a Certain Designated Seat on the Train and They are Forbidden to Make Any Changes.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN (via London) Jan. 6.—When the Ford peace expedition leaves Copenhagen tomorrow morning on a special train bound through Germany for Holland, each member of the party will be known only by number. Each man or woman of the party throughout the trip in Germany must occupy the seat in the train bearing the number given him or her. Each number will correspond with one placed on each passport by the German Consul at Copenhagen, and one in the hands of the authorities of the railroad.

If any seat in the train is unoccupied, or the numbered person is missing from it, the manager of the tour has been told that this fact likely would lead to complications.

The German railroad officials have explained that, owing to the need of coaches for transporting wounded, the accommodations for the Ford delegates must be limited. They therefore will be without sleeping or dining cars. At the Benthein frontier in Holland everybody aboard will be subjected to a personal search. The Hague will be reached Saturday.

PEACE PARTY ENJOYS FUN.

DENVER (Colo.) Jan. 6.—Experiences of the Ford peace party on the trip from New York to Christiania are recounted by Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver in a letter to attaches of the Juvenile Court here today. The letter tells of the search of the steamship Oscar II December 12 by jackies from a British warship and the confiscating of considerable contraband.

Referring to the diversions of the peace party en route, the letter says:

"There has been a merry company on board. The newspaper men and college boys and girls are a gay company. We tried Sam McClure for 'Corrupting the Youth' by making a speech for preparedness. I was prosecuting attorney. Also tried Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Chicago for being a militarist and Dr. Aked (the English divine) for being a German spy."

SWINDLED AT FARO.

Six St. Louis Men are Said to have Lost $175,000 Through Operations of a Gambling Syndicate in New York City.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6.—The statement that six citizens of St. Louis were swindled by a fake gambling syndicate and that their losses would approximate $175,000 was made today by a New York detective who has been working here in connection with the case.

Four men said to be connected with the alleged fraudulent scheme were arrested in New York yesterday, and one was arrested in St. Louis.

According to the evidence secured by the police, the victims were led to believe that by cheating at faro they could make a fortune. The victims were taken to New York, where they were conducted to an establishment said to be run by an old man who had gambling houses in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Havana. The dealer was the son of the owner, the victims were told, and he was willing to defraud his father because the old man had disinherited him.

Only one alleged St. Louis victim is known to the police, who are looking for the other five. Henry Galiant, a pawnbroker, the police say, has admitted the loss of $70,000.

Suit Charges Oakland Men With Fraud and Conspiracy.

OAKLAND (Cal.) Jan. 6.—A suit charging fraud, conspiracy and misappropriation of funds was filed in the Superior Court here today by Dudley Molton and Joseph Loeb, minority stockholders, against the Western Commercial and Savings Bank of Oakland and against B. B. Dudley, E. R. Dudley and Clarence A. Brown, described in the complaint as controlling owners of the bank.

The Western Commercial and Savings Bank, formerly the Harbor Bank, transferred its deposits a few months ago to the Central Savings Bank and the Central National Bank of Oakland and is awaiting a court order to sanction its dissolution.

All the parties to the suit filed today were formerly, it was said, associated together in the oil business at Bakersfield.

John Sharp Williams, Defending President, Warns Us Against Germany.

After the War, He Fears, the Kaiser will Start in to Bully Uncle Sam.

BY HARRY CARR.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—Defending President Wilson's Mexican policy from a withering attack by Senator Lodge and other Republicans, John Sharp Williams of Mississippi made a sensational speech in the Senate today, predicting that after the war the United States will be bullied by Germany beyond the point of toleration. The ruction started with a resolution introduced by Senator Fall of New Mexico, calling upon the President for information regarding conditions in Mexico. The resolution was adopted without opposition. With bitter sarcasm, Senator Fall said the Senate would like to know whether the President, in arranging to send an Ambassador to Mexico, had made any arrangement for the payment of American claims for damages. He said that it was currently reported that Carranza did not dare to enter Mexico City and that Zapata and Gonzales have divided the City of Mexico between them and are collecting the taxes.

"Carranza has refused to become President pro tem," he went on, "so we are asked to send an Ambassador to what is called the first chief of the de facto government."

"Are we also going to send an Ambassador to the second chief?" inquired one of the Republican Senators.

"We have already sent ambassadors to the second, third, fourth and all the chiefs," replied Senator Fall.

"At least the President has sent special agents to Villa, Congales, Maytorena, Zapata and Carranza."

Senator Fall closed by inquiring if the President's words of 1913 were intended only for home consumption while "our troops had to be withdrawn behind a hill to keep from being shot, and while American women were being outraged in Mexico."

LODGE'S ARRAIGNMENT.

Senator Lodge followed Senator Fall with a bitter arraignment of the President. He said that the Senate might not be held to possess a very diseased form of curiosity if it asked where this Ambassador was to go.

"I have no objection to Mr. Fletcher," he said. "In fact, he is an excellent choice. I think, further, that it is desirable that someone should go there to look after whatever fragments of American-owned property remain, but to whom and where is Mr. Fletcher to go? Is he to go to Mexico City or is he to follow the fleeting and flitting camp of Mr. Carranza?"

He said that the Senate had a right to know to whom the Ambassador, if confirmed, was to be accredited, and what negotiations had led to the recognition of Mexico by Americans.

"By reason of our course in Mexico," he said, "we have placed ourselves in a position where we may well be held responsible for the damages suffered by other countries in Mexico. We intervened to overthrow a government recognized by other countries and we have thereby opened the door to enormous claims from other governments."

CARRANZA CIRCULAR.

By way of a final slap at Carranza he read a circular issued by the Carranza military Governor of Yucatan, who announced that "religion is ignorance; God wanes as the revolution advances."

No doubt the two most scholarly and brilliant men in the Senate are Senator Lodge and John Sharp Williams. The latter rarely speaks. He looks in upon the Senate for a little while every day, surveys the assembled Senators with a smile of bored cynicism and yawns as he makes his exit. The polished sarcasm of Senator Lodge aroused him to speech. Looking very sarcastically over at the lean figure of Senator Lodge, he spoke of "perambulating missionaries of good government." He said if Mexico had a right to govern itself it had a right to govern itself badly. "If we want to civilize and unbarbarize the place we must do it by annexation, and even then we could not do it. You can't legislate a man into a Chinaman or a Chinaman into a nigger. Mexico must be left to work out its own salvation with blood, robbery and horror until it stands in fear and trembling before God."

He said the situation was just like the French revolution even to the blasphemous proclamation of the Carranza Governor. At that time Austria and Prussia wanted to forcibly intervene, but George Washington held that France had a right to manage her own affairs, well or badly.

SALE OF MUNITIONS.

Senator Williams turned suddenly to the question of selling munitions of war, upon which point the estimable George W. also left a precedent.

"And that opinion," he said glaring at the Republican Senator who had spoken the day before in favor of an embargo, "is not founded on gain as

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

The fighting on the Bessarabian border between the Germans and Russians is admittedly less acute than it has been and the situation at Czernowitz is still in doubt. That the Russians have really retaken the city from the Austrians is not yet asserted as a known fact in London. The Kaiser's illness continues to engage attention of the world. The inside story of the Suvla Bay fiasco is related for the first time by Gen. Ian Hamilton. The conscription bill has passed first reading in Commons and the British union laborities have officially made known their unalterable hostility to the measure.

The facts about Mexico may yet become known. The Senate has adopted a resolution that the President and the State Department make a report of all negotiations between the Wilson administration and the various Mexican factions.

DISASTER AT SUVLA BAY EXPLAINED BY BRITISH.

Poor Generals and Untried Men were Responsible for Failure.

Lack of Water is Alleged to Have been the Third Factor Contributing to Perhaps the Greatest Disaster the Allies Have Suffered in the Whole Course of the War—Troops' Sufferings Described.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Jan. 6, 8 p.m.—Gen. Ian Hamilton's report on the British operations on the Gallipoli Peninsula was published in the official Gazette tonight. It tells the story of the fighting on the peninsula from the beginning of May to the middle of October.

The Suvla Bay landing failed to accomplish its object, the report shows, partly because the force consisted largely of untried troops under generals inexperienced in the new warfare and partly through the failure of the water supply. The sufferings of the troops for lack of water make painful reading.

AS TO THE LANDING.

Probably no more important contribution to the history of the present war has yet been made. The report throws light on the great landing at Anzac Cove and Suvla Bay August 7, which has been the subject of strong attacks upon the military administration of the government, the whole operations requiring the combined action of the army and the navy.

The handling of the masses of troops within a limited area probably was the most complicated ever undertaken and the military men are not surprised that some important details failed to work out as planned.

Gen. Hamilton bestows the highest praise upon the bravery of the men. He believes that after the middle of August the Turks outnumbered the British and had plenty of fresh soldiers and munitions while the British government was unable to furnish him with the reinforcements he wanted.

The general strongly opposed the abandonment of any of the bases held by the British troops.

Gen. Hamilton's report, which was submitted to Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, Secretary of State for War, carries the story of the Dardanelles operations up to mid-October, when he relinquished his command.

RETIREMENT.

Concerning his retirement Gen. Hamilton reports:

"On the 11th of October your lordship cabled asking me for an estimate of the losses which would be involved in the evacuation of the peninsula. I replied in terms showing that such a step was to me unthinkable. On the 16th of October, I received a cablegram recalling me to London for the reason, as I was informed by your lordship on my arrival, that His Majesty's government desired fresh, unbiased opinion from a responsible commander upon the question of early evacuation."

The most stirring passages of the document describe the ill-fated landing at Suvla Bay and Anzac early in August, for securing command of the heights on the middle of the peninsula and cutting off from their base the Turkish forces at the lower extremity where the Entente allies' armies made their first landing.

This operation began on August 6. The climax was reached at daybreak on the 10th, when the Turks made a grand attack from the summit of Chunnuk Bair hill upon a short front held by two battalions of the Sixth North Lancashire and the Fifth Wiltshire regiments, which Gen. Hamilton describes as weakened in numbers though not in spirit.

"First our men were shelled by every enemy gun," he says, "then assaulted by a huge column consisting of no less than a full division plus three battalions. The North Lancashire men were simply overwhelmed in their shallow trenches by sheer weight of numbers, while the Wiltshires, who were caught out in the open, were literally almost annihilated."

SWARM OF ENEMIES.

"Ponderous mass of the enemy swept over the crest and swarmed round the Hampshires and Gen. Baldwin's brigade, which had to give ground and were only extricated with great difficulty and heavy losses.

"Now, it was our turn. The warships and the New Zealand and Australian artillery, an Indian mountain artillery brigade and the Sixty-ninth Brigade Royal Field Artillery were getting the chance of a life time. As successive solid lines of Turks topped the crest of the ridge, gaps were torn through their formation and an iron hail fell on them as they tried to reform in the gullies.

"Not here only did the Turks pay dearly for their recapture of the vital crest. Enemy reinforcements continued to move up under a heavy and accurate fire from our guns. Still they kept topping the ridges and pouring down the western slopes of Chunnuk Bair, as if determined to gain everything they had lost. But once they were over the crest they became exposed, not only to the full blast of the guns, naval and military, but a battery of ten New Zealand machine guns, which played upon their serried ranks at close range until their barrels were hot.

"Enormous losses were inflicted and of the swarms which had once fairly crossed the crest line only a handful ever straggled back to their own side of Chunnuk Bair.

"At the same time strong forces of the enemy were hurled against the spurs to the northeast, where there arose a conflict so deadly that it may be considered the climax of four days' fighting for the ridge. Portions of our line were pierced and the troops were driven clean down the hill.

"The Turks came on again and again. Fighting magnificently and calling upon the name of God, our men stood to it and maintained by many a deed of daring the old traditions of their race. There was no flinching; they died in the ranks where they stood. Here Gens. Cayley, Baldwin and Cooper and all their gallant men achieved great glory. On this bloody field fell Brig.-Gen. Baldwin, who earned his first laurels at Ladysmith. There, too, fell Brig.-Gen. Cooper, badly wounded.

"Toward this supreme struggle the absolute last two battalions from the general reserve were now hurried, but by ten in the morning the fleort of the enemy was spent. Soon their shattered remnants began to trickle back, leaving a track of corpses behind them. By night, except for prisoners or wounded, no live Turk was left upon our side of the slope."

Two lesser attacks were made by the Turks the same day. Gen. Hamilton continues:

"By evening the total casualties of Gen. Birdwood's forces had reached 12,000 and included a very large proportion of officers. The Thirteenth Division of the new army under Maj.-Gen. Shaw had alone lost 6000 out of a grand total of 10,500. Brig.-Gen. Baldwin was gone and all his staff men and commanding officers, thirteen, had disappeared from the fighting effectives. The Warwicks and Worcesters had lost literally every single officer.

"The old German notion that no unit could stand the loss of more than 25 per cent. has been completely falsified."

The British had held all they gained except two important salients, one a hill, momentarily carried by the Gurkhas, and the position on Chunnuk Bair, which had been retained forty-eight hours.

"The grand coup has not come off; the narrows were out of sight and beyond field-gun range, but this was not the fault of Gen. Birdwood or any of the officers or men under his command."

The first operations in the Anzac zone appeared to have been carried out with comparative success. The Suvla Bay expedition, which has been the subject of the greatest criticism, suffered various misfortunes. Elaborate plans were worked out by the army staff with Admiral De Robeck.

During the night of the 11th a division consisting of the Thirty-second and Thirty-fourth brigades were brought from Imbros to Suvla. Three brigades with three batteries were landed in the darkness. The Turks were completely surprised.

Gen. Hamilton lays stress on the fact that a large proportion of the troops were new men.

HOT WEATHER.

The weather was hot. The new troops suffered much from want of water. There was disorganization, inevitable after a night landing, followed by fights here and there with an enemy scattered over a country unknown.

"These pleas for delay," says Gen. Hamilton, "were perfectly well founded. But it seems to have been overlooked that the half-defeated Turks in front of us were equally exhausted and disorganized and that an advance was the simplest and swiftest method of solving the water trouble and every other sort of trouble.

"Be this as it may, the objections overbore the corps commander's resolution. But it was lack of artillery support which finally decided him to acquiesce in the policy of going slow. The divisional generals were informed, that, in view of the inadequate artillery support, Gen. Stopford did not wish them to make frontal attacks on intrenched positions, but desired to try to turn any trenches which were met with. Within the terms of this instruction lies the root of our failure to make use of the priceless daylight hours of the eighth of August."

Gen. Hamilton explains that artillery could not be disembarked before on account of the necessity of disembarking mules for carrying the water supply, and argues that, while normally infantry cannot advance, driving power and a certain ruthlessness were required.

The remainder of the story of Suvla consists largely of misfortunes. Gen. Hamilton explains that the senior commanders lacked experience in the new trench warfare and in the Turkish methods, and appreciation of the paramount importance of time. On the 15th Gen. Stopford was relieved of the command of his division corps. Gen. Delisle succeeded, him.

SUFFERING OF SOLDIERS.

The accounts in the report of the suffering of the soldiers from lack of water are graphic. An enormous quantity was secretly collected at Anzac, where a reservoir holding about thirty thousand gallons, with distributing pipes, was built. Oil tins, with a capacity of eighty thousand gallons, were collected and fitted with handles, but an accident to the steamer delayed part of the supply at the time of landing.

Describing the operations on August 10 Gen. Hamilton explains why all the reserves were not available.

"At times," he says, "I thought of throwing my reserves into this stubborn central battle, where probably they would have turned the scale. But each time water troubles made me give up the idea, all ranks at Anzac being reduced to a pint a day. True thirst is a sensation unknown to the dwellers in cool, well-watered England, but at Anzac, when the mules with the water bags arrived at the front, the men would rush up to them in swarms just to lick the moisture that exuded through the canvas bags. Until wells had been discovered under a freshly-won hill, the reinforcing of Anzac by even so much as a brigade was unthinkable."

Concerning the water supply for the troops landed at Suvla on the 7th he says:

"As it turned out, and judging merely by the results, I regret to say that the measures actually taken for distribution proved to be inadequate, and suffering and disorganization ensued."

The distribution of water from the beaches failed to work smoothly. The sailors cut the hose to fill their water bottles and lighters grounded so far from the beach that the men had to swim to them to fill their bottles.

In the middle of August, Gen. Hamilton estimates, the Turks had plenty of ammunition and reserves, while the British divisions were 45,000 below their normal strength. Gen. Hamilton wanted 50,000 fresh rifles. He sent a long cablegram asking for reinforcements and munitions, believing that with them furnished at once—he underlines "at once"—the troops could clear a passage for the fleet to Constantinople.

"It may be judged how deep was my disappointment," he says, "when I learned that essential drafts of reinforcements and ammunition could not be sent, the reason being one which prevented me from further insistance."

HEAVY LOSSES.

The report describes fighting, partly successful, and with heavy losses, on the 21st of August, which was designed to consolidate the British positions. Important fighting ceased then.

"Sickness, the legacy of a desperately-trying summer, took a heavy toll of the survivors of so many arduous conflicts," the report continues, "but all ranks were cheerful. All remained confident that so long as they stuck to their guns, the country would stick to them and see them victoriously through the last and greatest of crusades."

An important feature of the document is the description of the joint army and navy plans for probably the most difficult and complicated operations ever attempted on so large a scale. It was impossible to concentrate a third of the fresh troops to be launched in an attack on Suvla and Anzac, within the confines where the British held ground. Part of the forces were at Imbros, part at Mudros, and part at Mytilene, respectively fourteen miles, sixty miles and 120 miles from the arena in which they were to appear simultaneously with munitions, stores, animals, vehicles and, particularly, water.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT PROMISED IN MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Jan. 6.—Juan Sanches Ascona, formerly private secretary to President Francisco I. Madero of Mexico, but now Ambassador from the Carranza government to the whole of Europe, reached San Antonio today on his way to Queretaro to present to Gen. Carranza the official documents from Great Britain, France, Spain, Russia and Italy formally extending recognition to the de facto government.

Senor Ascona said that the first chief had called a conference of military and civil chiefs for the near future at which plans will be made for the restoration of civil government throughout Mexico.

LOSS OF CZERNOWITZ DENIED BY AUSTRIA.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (via Sayville.)—A denial of news agency dispatches from Petrograd reporting that the Austro-Hungarians had evacuated Czernowitz and of the Russian official claim to advances near that city, is made by the official press bureau in Vienna, the Overseas News Agency announced today. Its statement says:

"News agency reports from Petrograd state that the Austro-Hungarians evacuated Czernowitz, as the Russians had occupied heights dominating that city. Vienna press headquarters states that this report is an invention, as is clearly demonstrated by the Austro-Hungarian headquarters report of January 5.

"Vienna further states that the Russians have not advanced beyond the positions which they have occupied for months on the frontier east of Czernowitz, so that the Russian headquarters' report of January 3, which tells of a continuous Russian advance, is untrue."

BIG FRENCH LINER OUTRUNS SUBMARINE.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—A Havas dispatch from Marseilles says that the French steamship Karnak, with a large number of passengers on board has arrived from Alexandria and Malta, having been pursued for several hours on Monday evening by a submarine.

Capt. Lancelin of the Karnak ordered that his vessel be sent ahead at full speed as soon as the submarine was observed and to follow a zigzag course. The passengers slept all night in the saloon after putting on life belts.

LOSS OF PERSIA STILL MYSTERY.

Washington Abandons the Idea Ship was Torpedoed.

Three Hundred and Thirty-six Persons Were Drowned.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Hope of obtaining from survivors conclusive proof that it was a torpedo that destroyed the liner Persia virtually was abandoned at the State Department today when Consul Garrels at Alexandria, Egypt, cabled that no new facts were contained in the affidavits he had gathered.

Secretary Lansing is hopeful that inquiries made by Ambassador Penfield at the Vienna Foreign Office may clear up the situation. A dispatch announcing the presentation of the inquiry was received by the Secretary today, and information concerning a reply is expected before tomorrow night.

Various aspects of the submarine crisis probably will be discussed by President Wilson and his Cabinet tomorrow. The President is understood to have told Senators who called upon him today that as soon as the necessary information was at hand he would take action which he believed would satisfy the people of the United States.

The matter also is expected to come up before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee tomorrow when it holds its first meeting of the session. The committee discussion may extend to the question of submarine warfare in general, the sinking of the Persia, the Lusitania case and other incidents of the European war in which Americans are involved. Chairman Stone said tonight he believed the committee would map out a programme of procedure with regard to all pending matters, including treaties awaiting ratification and resolutions regarding the European situation.

FORESAW DEATH ON THE PERSIA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE (Cal.) Jan. 6.—Prof. Homer R. Salisbury, reported to have been lost on the steamer Persia, was superintendent of the India Union Mission field of the Seventh Day Adventists, and was returning to his post from the world council of the denomination, recently held at Loma Linda, Cal. Prof. Salisbury was fearful of the route through the Mediterranean Sea, and expressed his fears to intimate friends at the time of the council meeting near here. Day after day during the session he watched the reports in the newspapers, and a few days before he left for the East said that if any more ships were sunk by submarines in the Mediterranean Sea he would return to India by way of Japan. However, he decided at the last moment to take the Atlantic route because it would save him considerable time, and he wished to reach his field as quickly as possible.

Prof. Salisbury took charge of the Indian field in 1913, succeeding Prof. H. S. Shaw. In accepting the new position in the Orient Mr. Salisbury surrendered the place as educational secretary of the Seventh Day Adventists for the world field, which office is now filled by Prof. Frederick Griggs, with headquarters in Washington, D. C. The Adventist leader had been engaged in educational lines for many years before going to India. Entering this work in America, he went to England in 1902, where he established what is now Watford Missionary Training College of the Adventists. It was then carried on in London, and it was Prof. Salisbury who was instrumental in the purchase of the Watford property.

His interest in missionary work among Mohammedans led him to accept the superintendency of the Levant Union Mission, including at that time Egypt, Turkey, Syria, Palestine and Greece. A few months later, however, he was asked to return to America to take charge of the newly-organized Washington Foreign Mission Seminary, now known as Washington Missionary College, at the nation's capital. It was this work which he was doing when asked to become educational secretary for the general or world conference previous to taking charge of the Indian field.

India was made a part of the newly-organized Asiatic division conference at the last meeting of the world conference council at Loma Linda, Cal., last November, and President Salisbury was expected to attend a large conference meeting in Shanghai, China, next November, when he would represent his field and help in laying plans for pushing Adventist missionary work in India with renewed vigor. His loss will be felt keenly by the field he represented and by his many friends in America.

SAYS SALISBURY IS LOST.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Rev. Homer R. Salisbury, the Seventh Day Adventist missionary, superintendent for India, who sailed on the liner Persia from Marseilles, is given up for lost in a report which the Peninsular and Oriental line has transmitted to the American Embassy in London. The report was transmitted today to the State Department.

there. I, for one, have done my best in the past to oppose conscription but I never contemplated the circumstances which have now arisen, and I, in common with many other thinking labor men, will support this compulsion bill."

CONSCRIPTION BILL PASSES.

The conscription bill passed the first reading in the House of Commons tonight by a vote of 403 to 105.

The vote was taken shortly after 11 o'clock. The minority was composed of Nationalists, some Laborites and a few Radicals.

Henry E. Duke, Unionist member from Exeter, characterized the measure as the vilest form of coercion ever applied by any man in any emergency.

William O'Brien, leader of the Independent Nationalists, opposed the stand taken yesterday by John Redmond, speaking for the Nationalists, and gave the bill his hearty support.

"I would not consent to strike a blow at this country, France or Russia," he said, "by doing anything which would wreck this bill."

Mr. O'Brien said the most amazing thing to him was the fact that England had clung so long to a system of national denfense as obsolete as bows and arrows.

Herbert Samuel, Postmaster-General, said he was driven to support the policy represented by the bill, by the hard, cold logic of facts, although it was against all his predilections. All were agreed, he continued, that this country ought to put its whole strength into the war, but it would not be doing this if it put its whole strength into the trenches.

Great Britain was the chief munitions factory of the alliance and its financial strength. It was necessary to keep in this country an adequate number of men for fulfillment of these essential functions.

Arthur Henderson, president of the Board of Education and leader of the Labor party, in the House of Commons; William Brace, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Home affairs, and George H. Roberts, Lord Commissioner of the Treasury, also Labor party leaders, have resigned from the Ministry.

The resignations of Mr. Henderson, Mr. Brace and Mr. Roberts were the direct outcome of the Labor congress held today, which was followed by a two-hour conference among the Parliamentary Labor members.

At the close of the latter conference the announcement was made of the withdrawal of the three Labor members in the Coalition Ministry.

It is understood that Mr. Henderson will take an early opportunity to explain his position to the House of Commons, probably at next Tuesday's session.

There are now four vacancies in the Coalition Ministry, including that caused by the resignation of Sir John A. Simon, the Home Secretary. Gossip already is busy over the probable successor of the out-going ministers.

JUDGE'S ADVICE TO HYPHENATES.

Opinions of Foreign Nations of but Little Account.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—An invitation to "hyphenated citizens who put the interests of their native country before those of America" to "get off the face of the earth" was issued here today by United States Judge Henry D. Clayton of Alabama. Judge Clayton's remarks were made in addressing the grand jury that was empanelled to resume the investigation into the activity of German agents in this country.

"You, gentlemen," he said, "are entering upon your duties as American citizens. If any of you have had the misfortune to be born in a foreign country, I hope that you can truthfully say now that you love America now more than the land of your birth. I have no sympathy with any naturalized citizen who is given to carping criticism of this government, or who cannot say that he loves America first, last and forever. If any citizen has come here from another country to evade military service let him not criticise our institutions here. If he desires to do so let him get off the face of the earth or go back and fight for the country from whence he came.

"We do not care what foreigners or foreign nations think of our methods of government. So far they have proven pre-eminently successful. At present we are doing our best to carry out the precepts of the great father of our country, George Washington, by keeping our minds strictly on our own business and avoid entangling alliances or by meddling in the affairs of European nations."

The grand jurors will continue the inquiry into strikes in munitions plants and explosions in factories and ship yards which has already resulted in the indictment of Congressman Frank Buchanan of Illinois and seven others.

ADMINISTRATION WEAKER ON NEW NO-PARTY BILL.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 6.—No compromise is the slogan of the opposition in the Assembly to the Young no-party bill. At an executive conference tonight the opposition forces prepared a plan of battle for the contest which will open this morning when the Young bill comes from the printer for final passage.

"While we have no desire to pose as obstructionists," said Chairman Carey, "we are a unit in the determination that we shall not aid the administration with our votes to pass a new no-party bill which is in direct conflict with the expressed wishes of the people." This refers to the compromise which was discussed by the Committee on Elections this afternoon.

That the administration will go into the Assembly fight tomorrow much weaker than at any time during the last session is apparent. The air is filled with rumors of desertions and some of the more enthusiastic of the opponents claim that the administration vote has fallen to thirty-eight votes or three less than a majority.

In the Elections Committee this afternoon the break became apparent when the following five members of the Progressive majority in a committee of fourteen voted against the administration bill: Grant Conrad, Republican, San Diego; Roger G. Edwards, Republican, Ventura; George H. Johnson, Republican and Democrat, San Bernardino; Ira A. Kramer, Progressive and Republican, Santa Barbara; W. W. Harris, Socialist, Progressive and Republican, Bakersfield.

WEBB'S OPINION.

During the executive session of the Elections Committee Atty.-Gen. Webb gave an opinion which clears up all doubt as to the form of registration now taking place all over the State. He told the committee that under the law as it now stands a voter may make a party declaration without invalidating his registration. In addition to this registration blanks were filled with the committee showing that there are two blank spaces on the registration blank which are not provided for in the registration bill. There is nothing in the registration act providing for either stating naturalization or military service. Yet a blank for each of these appears on the registration certificate in the same form as the blank for stating party affiliations.

This is held to settle the controversy over the legality of registering party affiliations under the present law. If the present bill should pass and enforcement be suspended by the referendum the primary elections would be held under the same law as in 1913.

On the Election Committee are fourteen "Progressives" and one Democrat. But the "Progressive" members themselves could not agree to follow the Governor's lead still further afield in nonpartisanship. Half the committee favored a compromise which would enable the bills to become a law without opposition from the minority. They proposed that the registration law should be so amended that an elector might either express his party affiliation when he registers or reserve that right until he asks for his ballot on primary day.

MAY BE SECOND CALL.

After adjournment this afternoon a number of administration Assemblymen are reported to have agreed to support a resolution asking the Governor to issue a second call for a special session including the mooted 1915 registration law among the subjects to be considered. It was pointed out that this procedure would be similar to that of the special session of 1911. The Governor could call a special session to meet Monday morning, and the Legislature could adjourn sine die tomorrow to meet Monday under the new call.

When this suggestion was carried to the Governor he denounced those favoring it as traitors and said that the Young bills must be passed just as they went to committee. This probably means that there will be a long fight over this suggested compromise in the session tomorrow.

Some of the "Progressive" members are being bombarded with telegrams from their constituents warning them not to come back home with the record of trying to foster further nonpartisan legislation on the State. The northern press is strongly opposed to the Governor's bills; a number of papers that supported the nonpartisan bills last fall are opposed to any further attempt to force nonpartisanship down the throats of the voters.

By simple measurements any interested person can determine the actual volume of advertising printed in any newspaper, but it is more difficult to verify exaggerated circulation statements.

In the total volume of advertising printed in 1915, exclusive of office advertising—that is advertising exploiting its own business—The Times led its nearest morning contemporary by 3,499,230 lines.

In total display advertising The Times' lead over the second morning newspaper was 1,987,256 lines.

In classified advertising its lead was 1,511,974 lines.

In local display advertising, The Times' lead over the second morning newspaper was 1,880,456 lines.

In foreign or out-of-town advertising, its lead was 106,800 lines.

The Times' lead over the second morning newspaper in display automobile advertising printed in 1915, exclusive of the thousands of columns of classified advertising printed in this newspaper, was 103,082 lines.

The foregoing figures cannot be successfully challenged, and The Times will gladly demonstrate their accuracy to advertisers and other interested persons. "It fears no foe."

SHORTCOMINGS OF OUR MILITIA.

Vital Prop of Our Defenses Knocked from Under Us.

Greatest Difficulty is the Lack of Interest of the Men.

BY HARRY CARR.

[SPECIAL STAFF CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—One of the main lines of our national defense has been kicked out from under us.

As the second line of defense, supplying our little regular army in time of future war, the United States has looked trustingly upon the National Guard. Well, a verdict has just been rendered against the National Guard.

Both the administration plan and the War College plans have practically eliminated it. They have declared inferentially, to be an experiment that failed.

Both State governments and the federal government have been spending millions of dollars a year on the thing, this verdict is rather startling. Imagine that readers of The Times would like to know what is the matter with the dern thing and why it has been practically heaved overboard with a splash in a gory sea.

In order to examine the causes of this colossal failure, it will be well to analyse the ingredients that were put into the mess.

ORGANIZED MILITIA.

According to the latest report from the division of militia affairs of the War Department, the organized militia of the United States consists of 8,000 commissioned officers and 120,000 men.

Of this force, there are 1567 companies of infantry, organized into 124 regiments, twenty separate battalions and twenty-six separate companies. Finally there are eight and one-half cavalry regiments. In the field artillery there are seventy batteries. In addition coast artillery are 123 companies. All this sounds like a formidable force, but it isn't.

To begin with, this force is organized into forty-eight little armies, each responsible to the Governor of a State, subject to the call of the Federal government only under certain conditions. It would be better to say under certain conditions. If the militia were perfect in every other way, this would be an almost fatal defect.

But it is not perfect otherwise.

Another fatal defect in the make-up of the militia is the method of selecting the commissioned officers—by the votes of the men. When you try to run an army over into a democracy you are stepping off with the left foot. Officers chosen by election would kill the Prussian Guard, the Coldstream Guards, or any other famous regiment.

Another fatal defect of a large proportion of the militia officers are men of intelligence and capability. They give their time and money in the main, but the system by which they get office is a severe handicap to them.

How were the officers selected by the War Department? From high heaven there is no authority to give militiamen the training that is necessary for efficiency.

Take all the training possible to a company of a national guard company is a waste of an hour or two one night a week.

This drill, of necessity, consists merely in company maneuvers on a polished drill floor. Occasionally this may be varied by indoor target practice.

But company drill has no military value except to teach men to obey orders on the instant. Armory drill does not teach a soldier his craft. The only benefit comes from these weekly armory drills is merely physical and mental.

In Germany I saw many troops in the summer camps going through maneuvers. I didn't see these German troops doing anything that I ever saw done in a militia armory.

THE REAL WORK.

The real work of preparing troops for war is hard and practical and dirty. The German recruits I saw were digging trenches. I saw them on their hands and knees crawling like gophers to approach trenches. I saw them charging with padded bayonets. I saw them in trenches, practicing bomb throwing. And they were always marching and marching and marching. Most of the work of the German recruits consists of almost impossible practice marches. They start at day break and come back at dusk. A big military band sometimes meets them at the outskirts of the city to bring them back home in triumph. All of these exercises are, of course, impossible for militia organized as they are to a drill once or twice at night in an armory.

The War Department tried to overcome these obstacles by having great field maneuvers every alternate year. These failed of their purpose—their purpose was to bring the militia to a point of efficiency.

There were two or three difficulties in the way. The encampments were usually ten days. The personnel of the militia changes so rapidly that, practically speaking, it was a new set of men who went to each camp. The records of the War Department show that one-third of the men of a militia company left each year. As the Federal maneuvers were held every other year, the result was that two-thirds of the company consisted of men who had never been to camp before. Another shortcoming of the maneuvers was that they were designed more to give general officers a chance to handle large bodies of troops than for the instruction of the men. Owing to the short term plan of Congress in keeping the army among many years, these militia maneuvers were the only opportunity of the regular officers to command troops in the field.

But the greatest difficulty of all is the lack of interest on the part of the men. The records of the War Department show that 27 per cent of the National Guardsmen fail to report to attend twenty-four drills in the year. Assuming that all the drills were held during the year, this is equivalent to 74 per cent. of the men being absent from all the drills. With such a condition, real training is impossible. The truth is, that the call for volunteer militia for service at camp time, is lacking because there are too many other things for them to do.

HELLER'S REPORT.

A. L. Mills, chief of the division of militia affairs in the War Department, has just presented a report to Congress in which he speaks plainly of the National Guard. Among other things, he says that it would require "six months of very active preparation to fit the militia as a body for encountering in the field a well-disciplined enemy."

As the German officers train recruits to take the field in fourteen months, this verdict of Gen. Mills is about equal to saying that, after all their training and after all the money that has been spent on them, the militiamen are little better than raw military material.

One of the almost inestimable advantages that the planned-for citizen army will have over the militia is that of having a reserve. Col. Mills points out this defect as one of the worst features of the militia.

From the moment troops are sent into the field a stream of individual soldiers begins to flow backward from the firing line. It is estimated that 50 per cent. of all the forces engaged is a fair proportion of the wastage to be expected in a six months' campaign.

The National Guard has no method of providing a reserve to fill up this wastage. The new citizen army, on the other hand, provides for a reserve. The soldier enlisting in this proposed army will serve three years in the active line and three years on furlough with the reserves.

Excited.

UNIONITES OPPOSE THE STOP WATCH.

TAYLOR SYSTEM A THORN IN THE WALKING DELEGATE'S TOE.

Furuseth is in Washington Lobbying in the Interest of the Lazy and Incompetent and Also Against Repeal of the Law that Drove Americans from the Pacific.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—Andrew Furuseth of San Francisco, the head of the labor union lobby, is in Washington. He and other laborites have had several councils of war relative to legislation that is to come before Congress this session.

On Thursday a hearing began before the House Committee on Labor relative to the child labor bill. The unions demand the passage of a bill to prohibit the shipment between States of goods upon which child labor has been used. The proposed bill also affects the shipment of coal.

What the unions are most excited about, however, is a fight to throw the so-called "Taylor system of shop management" out of all government institutions. It is expected that the fate of scientific shop management in private institutions will also be dependent upon the outcome of this fight.

The Taylor system is one of the expressions of modern efficiency. It is designed to increase the amount of production without increasing the cost thereof. The various operations of every workman are timed with a stop watch. A record sheet, for instance, is kept of the time it takes each workman in seconds and fractions of seconds, to do each part of his work.

LOAFING DETECTED.

The observation sheet of a workman at the Watertown arsenal states in fractions of seconds how long it took the workman to pick up the piece and walk to the machine, how long to set the piece in the holder, to set the spring gauge, to remove the spring gauge, to remove the shell, to walk with shell and place it on pile, to walk to the other pile and pick up another piece.

By means of this observation sheet the exact productivity of each human machine is accurately gauged. If it is desired to speed up the production a glance at the sheets shows which workmen are not trying their best.

A standard of work being established by the stop watches, the Taylor system provides for cash rewards to all workmen beating the schedule. A price is generally set upon each piece of work and the workmen paid accordingly. If the price of labor to be expended upon turning out a certain piece of work is $15, the men who complete the job in two days will get $7.50 a day for it. If he dawdles away five days on the job, he gets paid at the rate of $3 a day.

SYSTEM A SUCCESS.

This system was put in operation with excellent results at various government arsenals. The workmen, however, petitioned to have it abolished. Their petition was taken to the Secretary of War, who referred it to the Commission on Industrial Relations, who employed Prof. R. F. Hoxie of Chicago, a well-known efficiency expert, to report upon the Taylor system. His report has been filed with the commission, but not yet made public. It is understood, however, that he has condemned some features of the system and indorsed others. The result is that the whole question will be passed up to the Committee of Labor in the House.

Representative Nolan of San Francisco, who is one of the leaders of the union-labor contingent, says that union labor will fight the stop watch system in all its ramifications to the last ditch. He takes the position that a change in the managerial methods of the arsenals will increase the production; that stop-watch systems benefit only extraordinarily-proficient workmen, etc., etc.

FAVOR SEAMEN'S ACT.

Another measure against which the unions are preparing for battle is the suggested Seamen's Act repeal. The disappearance of the American flag from the Pacific since the passage of the law makes the union labor support of the bill a difficult one. Furuseth contends that the Pacific Mail and the Dollar line steamers were sold for other reasons, and were not driven from the Pacific.

The California delegation in Congress seems to have caved in to the unions in this regard. It is not yet plain how the two California Senators will stand, but not a single California Representative who favors the repeal of the bill can be found.

RELIEF FOR THE JEWS.

Resolution Passes the Senate Without Any Opposition.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Senator Martine's resolution asking the President to set aside a day as Jewish relief day for Jewish war sufferers was adopted today after Chairman Stone of the Foreign Relations Committee had said that while he approved such a cause in relation to the Poles and Jews, whom he said were without a government of their own, he hoped it would not extend to any organized nations.

ARMY OFFICERS FREE TO EXPRESS OPINIONS.

Legislative Machinery Set in Motion on Administration Plans to Lay Down Definite Policy for National Defense. Garrison Advocates Wilson's Continental Idea and Asks for More Aid for the Militia.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Legislative machinery was set in motion today on the administration plans to lay down a definite policy for the building up of a citizen army adequate for national defense.

Secretary Garrison appeared before the House Military Committee, flanked by a score of army generals, heads of the various bureaus of the War Department. He read an exhaustive explanation of his scheme to spend $600,000,000 in the next four years to create a mobile army of 500,000 men, greatly increase coast defenses and store up an adequate reserve of arms, ammunition and war equipment.

The Secretary assured Chairman Hay that army officers whom he had directed to be in readiness to appear before the committee or any others who might be called had full liberty to express their personal views on any phase of the subjects to be discussed. He added that the department was anxious to supply all data in its possession to aid the committees.

QUESTIONS PROPOUNDED.

When Mr. Garrison concluded his statement, Chairman Hay announced that members of the committee in the order of their rank would propound questions. For an hour the questioning continued, and Representative Kahn, ranking Republican member, was drawing out the Secretary's views on various suggestions as to the National Guard, when the hearing was adjourned until Saturday.

Secretary Garrison made clear his opinion that no effort to Federalize the National Guard would solve the country's military problem, and laid great stress upon his contention that a regular army of approximately the size he has proposed, 141,000, would be ample to train a Federal citizen army. Increasing the regular establishment beyond that figure, he said, would add enormously to its cost, with a net result of only a few thousand of additional soldiers.

Replying to Representative Kahn, Mr. Garrison said the Monroe doctrine was a menace to the country's peace and should either be abandoned or preparation made for its defense. He agreed that the territory between the Panama Canal and the southern border of the United States was a source of peculiar danger.

GARRISON'S VIEW.

"The integrity of the nation and its very existence," Secretary Garrison said, reading from a lengthy statement he had prepared, "may depend upon what is done in this matter at this time. This great opportunity will be lost unless a wise, sensible and practical policy is the result of the consideration and action of this Congress."

Referring to the far-spread military responsibilities of the nation, reaching into the insular possessions, Cuba, Alaska and the Panama Canal Zone, Mr. Garrison added:

"We have determined and announced that the sovereignty of the other republics on this hemisphere shall remain inviolable, and must therefore at all times stand ready to make good our position in this connection.

"There is a disposition upon the part of some," he continued, "to assume that we are forcing a crisis. The only way to meet any emergency is by adopting emergency measures. The personnel and material needed for military purposes should be immediately mobilized. Every nerve should be strained and every resource drawn upon and nothing overlooked necessary to preserve and defend us, regardless of cost and of other considerations.

"There is common agreement among those who have studied the subject intelligently that we should have a force in the continental United States of 500,000 men subject to instant call.

"Our immediate problem, therefore, seems to be how shall we meet these requirements.

"The adjutant-general reaches the conclusion that he can not expect under present conditions to recruit more than 50,000 men per year for the army. It would, therefore, seem impracticable in the last degree to consider that the problem can be solved by providing for a standing army of the size necessary for this solution."

Turning to the National Guard, Mr. Garrison said:

"At the present time this force consists of approximately 129,000 men and officers, and it would therefore be necessary, if it is to be expanded to 400,000 to add 271,000 men and officers.

"I, therefore, propose a large addition to the federal aid extended to the National Guard, so that the system may be operated to its maximum capacity and be available for the Federal purposes specified, in its most effective condition."

CONTINENTAL ARMY PLAN.

The Secretary then outlined the continental army plan which proposes to raise 400,000 men in annual increments of 133,000 each from districts approximating the 400 Congressional districts, each to supply 333 men annually. The men would enlist for three years with the colors and three years on furlough and will be armed, equipped and officered. Their training would be done by the officers and men of the regular army organizations and they would be paid during the time of their service on the same basis as the regular army.

Turning to the question of the size of the regular army necessary to train the continentals and carry on the various military activities of the War Department in normal times, Mr. Garrison said it had been demonstrated to him that a mobile force of 50,000 and 20,000 coast artillery troops would serve all needs. Such a force, an increase of nearly 40,000 over the present army, he said, would be comparatively inexpensive, would require no additional quarters and could be recruited. For these reasons he recommended the addition of ten regiments of infantry, four regiments of field artillery, fifty-two companies of Coast Artillery, fifteen companies of engineers and four aero squadrons to the present force, bringing the enlisted strength in two years up to 134,707 and the number of officers to 7086.

OFFICERS ESSENTIAL.

"The officers and men of the new organizations are absolutely essential if the War Department plan is to be fairly tried out," he added. "In the plan of the War College division of the General Staff an army of about 250,000 is so distributed that in continental United States there would be left 121,000 mobile army troops. In the War Department plan, these divisions are at peace strength, so that they are capable of expansion. The War College division plan proposes a two-year enlistment, with six years in reserve, and eventually at the end of eight years, makes up a line of 500,000 men of the regular army of whom 121,000 would be with the colors and 379,000 in reserve."

Chairman Hay asked if recent orders of the War Department would prevent army officers from giving the committee free expression of their individual view.

"They are free as air," the Secretary replied. "They are bound only by vocabulary and conscience."

NO OPPOSITION.

The Secretary developed no definite opposition to his plans during the early part of his examination by members of the committee. Representative Kahn, Republican, asked if the Monroe doctrine was not a constant source of danger to the country, against which preparation must be made.

"Absolutely," said Secretary Garrison. "We must be prepared to defend it or abandon it."

Mr. Garrison believed enlistments in the National Guard would increase if the State forces were freed from the liability for service in labor disorders.

He disapproved a suggestion by Representative McKellar that additional Federal military academies would be necessary.

The committee will continue examination of Secretary Garrison and general officers next Saturday.

CHINA FIGHTS JAPAN FOR COTTON TRADE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Chinese cotton manufacturers, with government aid, have made far-reaching plans to wrest from the Japanese their heavy trade in cotton goods and yarns in China, according to information reaching official circles here. China, the largest market for cotton goods in the world, long has been supplied chiefly by Japan and India.

The Chinese government has just subscribed 40 per cent. of the capital to be invested in two cotton mills at Shanghai and Tien-tsin. Seven hundred thousand dollars worth of machinery has been ordered from American manufacturers through an agent of the Foreign and Domestic Commerce Bureau of the Department of Commerce. American superintendents will direct the work of the plant.

CONSTITUTION IS SAVED.

Famous Old Frigate to be Preserved as a Relic.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Complete rehabilitation of the historic frigate Constitution which has lain at the Boston navy yard since 1897, where she was launched a century before, is planned by the navy, which asked Congress today to appropriate $150,000.

The Constitution, famed in song and story for daring exploits in the War of 1812, was once ready to be sold for junk, but the House, swayed by a recitation of Oliver Wendell Holmes's famous poem, changed its mind on the verge of voting and determined to keep her as a relic.

TO REMODEL SUBMARINES.

F Group to be Repaired and Put Into Seaworthy Condition.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Estimates submitted to Congress today disclose that the Navy Department proposes to spend $205,000 each in remodeling the submarines F-1, F-2 and F-3, sister ships to the F-4, which sank in Honolulu Harbor last year with the loss of all on board. An estimate of $1,255,000 for repairs to the battleships North Dakota and Georgia, and estimates totaling $1,360,000 for repairs to other warships were included.

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice inside bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.

FRIENDS THOUGHT COULD NOT LIVE

Alice Wilson Was Unconscious Hours at a Time and Mind a Blank.

A startling statement was made recently by Mrs. Alice Wilson, wife of Charles E. Wilson, who resides at No. 137 Fortieth street, Pittsburgh, Pa., regarding Plant Juice, the great system tonic. She said:

"If anyone knows what stomach trouble is, it is surely myself. For the past eight years I have suffered from severe pains; at time I would become so bad that I was unconscious for hours at times and my mind would fail me for days—a perfect blank. My circulation would almost stop, and my hands and feet would become cold and clammy. Food would not lie on my stomach and I was compelled to subsist on liquids and a very light diet. I lost flesh and my weight was reduced from 186 to 143 pounds. My neighbors did not expect me to live and gave me up to die. My husband, who was employed at the Clark Mills, brought me home a bottle of Plant Juice. Before I had used one-half of it I began to feel better and my strength to return. I have used Plant Juice now for the past five weeks and want to state publicly that I have entirely regained my health. I can eat any kind of food and digest it perfectly and have not an ache or pain in my entire body. I am doing all of my housework for the first time in the past eight years and am so happy that I sing from joy, for I am a well woman once more—entirely cured—and I give all praise for same to Plant Juice. I am recommending your medicine to all of my friends."

Such words as these are being received every day from enthusiastic users of Plant Juice who have been cured from ailments of long standing and are only too glad to lend their names in testimonial thereof.

MARE ISLAND GOOD AS ANY.

Admiral Admits Battleships Can be Constructed There.

Private Owners to Fight Government Building Plan.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—That western shipbuilders intend to fight against the construction of warships at Mare Island was strongly hinted at this morning at the session of the House Naval Committee. While Admiral Standford was on the stand, Representative Roberts of Massachusetts asked him all manner of questions tending to show the shortcomings of Mare Island in the matter of depth of channel, limited facilities, etc.

Representative Stephens of Los Angeles came to the rescue, however, and put the admiral on record as conceding that during certain hours it is safe to take any warship into Mare Island; that there are facilities there to build a battleship and to take it out when finished; that there is no navy yard in the United States except Puget Sound free from shoals; that all have to be dredged, and that Mare Island can be kept in condition for $65,000 a year.

Speaking of a new navy yard on the Pacific Coast, Admiral Standford said Yerba Buena would be a good place, but stated in reply to a question by Mr. Stephens that no recommendations would be made until the ports of Southern California had been examined.

BANKS CAUTIONED REGARDING LOANS.

COMPTROLLER OF CURRENCY ASKS ADDITIONAL FACTS.

Government Wishes to Learn if Money is Being Placed at Usurious Rates, and Whether Borrowers are Required to Carry a Deposit Before Being Accommodated.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. — The Comptroller of the Currency today issued a call to all national banks requiring them to report to him their condition at the close of business on Friday, December 31.

In today's call the Comptroller goes further than at any previous time to learn if money is being loaned by national banks in violation of State usury laws. He asks for a list of loans by all banks during 1915, "upon which interest was charged or collected, either in the shape of interest, discount or commission, at rates which would amount to more than the equivalent of 6 per cent. per annum."

"Banks are cautioned," says the call, "to prepare this statement with care and accuracy. If errors or discrepancies should be discovered which may seem to make it necessary to verify the reports submitted by all banks, the bank examiners will be given instructions accordingly."

The call also asks banks to state whether it is their custom to require borrowers to carry deposits when loans are granted, how much they are now loaning to nondepositors, and how much is loaned and not secured by collateral.

The aggregate of amounts which borrowers have refused to pay banks because of alleged usury is asked, and also the total payments made by banks as penalties for usury. The call asks for complete information as to the liabilities, salaries and connections of omicers and directors of banks.

CHICAGO DEPOSITS GROW.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—The largest deposits ever reported by Chicago national banks were shown today in statements made to the Comptroller of the Currency in response to a call for reports of conditions at the close of December 31. As compared with the last statement, dated November 10, the deposits of the eight largest national banks here show an aggregate increase of $17,774,898.

PRICE CASE OUTLINED.

Minneapolis Man Accused of Throwing Wife from a Cliff.

MINNNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Jan. 6.—The prosecution's case against Frederick T. Price, charged with the murder of his wife, was outlined to the jury here today.

Prosecutor George Armstrong declared that Price decided to rid himself of his wife so that he could obtain her money.

"We will show," he said, "that Price, after throwing his wife from the East River road cliff the night of November 28, 1914, became frightened lest passing automobilists hear her moans, and accompanied by Charles D. Etchison, went to her side, not to aid her, but to crush her head with a rock."

Etchison, the State's chief witness, has declared he accompanied Price on the night of the alleged crime for $4700 because of his indebtedness to Price and his need of money.

DEMOCRATS MIXED.

There Seem to be Many Ways of Selecting Delegates.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) Jan. 6.—Delegates to the Democratic National Convention do not have to run in State primaries but must be elected by the State conventions of that party, according to a statement issued here today by W. F. McCombs, national Democratic Committee chairman.

Mr. McCombs's explanation was given in view of the fact that the Arkansas committee had declared that delegates must seek nomination in primary and because he said he understood that a dozen other States were contemplating similar procedure.

"The plank adopted at the Democratic convention in Baltimore was a suggestion and is not mandatory," said Mr. McCombs.

CITRUS STATION PLAN COMPLETE.

Four Main Buildings will be Put up at University.

Separate One-story Structures for the Laboratories.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Jan. 3.—Plans for the new $125,000 citrus experiment station and tropical school of agriculture, which the university is to erect at Riverside, are now in the hands of officers at Berkeley.

Four main buildings will be constructed, a laboratory building, with two stories and basement; two smaller separate buildings for special laboratories, and a director's residence. There will also be barns, stables, wagon shed, carpenter shop, blacksmith shop, corrals, etc., and a dwelling for the superintendent.

Bids for construction are to be called for as soon as a few minor changes are made in the plans.

SPANISH TYPE.

The design of the buildings, which is after the mission type, will suggest the Spanish inheritance of California. Tiled roofs, plastered walls, arched Spanish doorways, together with the pilastered facade and picturesque open arcades leading from building to building will add another group of beautiful Spanish-type buildings to the environs of Riverside.

In the main laboratory building will be the offices of Director H. J. Webber, offices for the university extension; laboratories for plant breeding and insect work, the entomological collections and private libraries of the scientific staff.

On the north a separate one-story building, reached by an open arcade, will contain the chemical laboratories, and on the south a similar building will contain the laboratories for the study of abnormal physiological conditions or infectious diseases of plants.

For the director's residence the architect, Lester H. Hibbard of Los Angeles, has planned an attractive California home with sleeping-porches, an open loggia and a sunroom.

EXPANSION POSSIBLE.

In designing the buildings the possibility of growth has been kept in mind. The construction and placing is such that additions may be made without disarranging the buildings now planned.

The Riverside site comprises 471 acres, located on the Box Springs boulevard, three miles from the center of Riverside. Already, the university has collected here a great collection of citrus trees—more than 140 varieties—and many other plants.

WIDE RANGE OF WORK.

A wide range of work is to be done at the new plant. A study of soil improvement, plant physiology and pathology, insects, irrigation methods and many other branches of agricultural research are to be taken up.

Ample irrigation for the experimental planting now in progress is assured by a well guaranteed to produce 120 inches.

Several important pieces of scientific work have already been accomplished by the Riverside station, such as the usefulness of green-manuring crops and low-grade nitrogen fertilizers in preventing mottleleaf, the superiority of "bitter clover" to other clover crops, etc.

BODIES FLOATING DOWN THE OHIO.

FIFTEEN ARE LOST IN WRECK OF A RIVER STEAMER.

Three Victims are Recovered and Identified, but Twelve are Still Missing—Divers to be Taken to the Scene to Search the Interior of the Ship.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PARKERSBURG (W. Va.) Jan. 16.—A vigilant search was made today in the vicinity of the point where the steamer Kanawha of the Kanawha Packet Company struck a pier and sank in the Ohio River nine miles below here last night, but so far only four bodies have been recovered. Twelve persons are missing.

Capt. Berry of the packet claims, however, that there were about twenty passengers and a crew of forty aboard, but so far the number of survivors reported total only forty-five. Of this number, ten were passengers and thirty-five members of the crew.

The bodies recovered were identified as those of Mrs. Ollie Fitspatrick, John Sloan, and Anna Campbell, chambermaid, Pomeroy, O.

The known missing are:

Lloyd Gee, steward, Gallipolis, O.

Mrs. E. C. Atkinson, Racine, O., passenger.

W. L. Hoblitzell, Sr., and wife, Washington, D. C., passengers.

W. L. Hoblitzell, Jr., and wife and infant, Washington, D. C., passengers.

Mrs. Ulysses Beagle, Racine, O., passenger.

Arthur Beaver, watchman, Dorcas, Ohio.

Burt Wolfe, head purser, Rockland, O.

J. D. Hoblitzell, Washington, D. C., passenger.

Five-year-old son Mrs. Ollie Fitspatrick, Johnstown, Pa.

Arrangements have been made to take divers to the wreck to examine the interior of the packet and search for bodies, while notices have been sent to points down the river to keep a watch out for bodies.

Several investigations into the cause of the accident began today. Government steamboat inspectors conferred with Capt. E. W. Roe, owner of the packet, but refused to make any statement. E. E. Winters, State railway inspector, is also investigating the accident for the State.

PROHIBITION VALID, SAYS FEDERAL COURT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Jan. 6.—Three United States judges refused today to enjoin the prohibition law and denied the entire petition of the Seattle Brewing Company, which had also attacked the State initiative and referendum and the Federal Webb-Kenyon Act. The decision was unanimous. Attorney Piles for the brewery argued for a rehearing, and an order to have the Seattle Brewing Company's stock of beer put in the court's hands pending disposal. The motion was refused.

TO REVISE "GRANDFATHER LAW"

Legislature of Oklahoma Called in Extra Session by Governor.

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Jan. 6.—Gov. R. L. Williams issued a proclamation today convoking the Legislature of Oklahoma in extraordinary session January 17.

The proclamation does not mention questions that the Governor may submit for consideration, but it is believed here that the so-called "grandfather law" will be submitted for amendment and the Legislature asked to enact a more stringent anti-usury law.

Provisions of the "grandfather law," imposing qualifications for voters in this State, recently were declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States because the effect of the law was to disfranchise negro residents.

Lyttle, State Veterinarian, to represent Oregon at a conference at Winnemucca on January 11 to adopt measures for the control of rabies. Representatives of Oregon, California and Nevada and the Federal government are expected to be present.

WIDNEY RELEASED ON A CASH BOND.

MUST ANSWER TO CHARGE OF UTTERING COUNTERFEITS.

Large Amounts of Carranza Currency Said to Have been Bought by Supposed Agents of Espee Railroad in Mexico, When Country was Flooded with Spurious Stuff.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—Robert J. Widney, arrested last night on a charge of selling Mexican money, said to be counterfeit, was held to answer today by United States Commissioner Francis Krull and released on $1000 cash bail. The hearing in the case of Walter S. Williams and Phil Thom, arrested at the same time on charges of uttering counterfeit money of a foreign country, were also held to answer, bail in each case being fixed at $1000.

Large amounts of Carranza currency, now alleged to have been spurious, were bought by supposed agents of the Southern Pacific Railroad of Mexico, according to testimony given at the preliminary hearing of Widney. The purchases were said to have been made before the resognition of the present de facto government when Mexico was flooded with counterfeit money.

These purchases amounted to 150,000 pesos a month and were made for several months, it was testified by J. M. Arriola, a Mexican secret service agent, who ran down the men and caused their arrest by United States secret service agents late yesterday. No testimony was given to show whether or not the purchasers doubted the genuineness of the money.

Phil Thom, one of the three men under arrest, who asserted that he acted as an innocent broker, said after the hparing that he acted as broker in the sale of 50,000 pesos of the alleged spurious money to the Southern Pacific of Mexico. He said the company's experts passed upon it and that it was delivered to the Banco de Sonora at Nogales, Ariz.

PHONY PAPER.
MUCH OFFERED LOCALLY.

The arrest in San Francisco Wednesday of Robert J. Widney, former Los Angeles real estate broker, charged with attempting to sell $1,000,000 of spurious Mexican treasury notes at the rate of 3½ cents on the dollar, developed the fact that large amounts of the counterfeit paper had been offered for sale in this city.

A well-known real estate man said that Widney wrote to him not long ago from San Francisco stating he was in a position to secure large sums of Carranza money and that it might have a market value here.

"Widney sent me some specimens of the paper money," the realty dealer said," with a suggestion that I investigate the matter. I took the bills to two banks, the Mexican Consul and a leading capitalist, one who is acquainted with Mexican affairs. All of them reported that the money seemed to be genuine. There had never been any intimation that the money might be spurious, but I wanted to make sure."

About two weeks ago a man who is believed to have been a secret service agent, called the local real estate operator over the telephone and inquired about the money. When he was told that there was none here, but that he might get in communication with Widney the incident was closed. No more was heard here of the transaction until the dispatches came, telling of Widney's arrest.

GEN. TREVINO IN COMMAND.

Assumes Military Jurisdiction on Mexican Border.

His Plan to Exterminate Gen. Villa and His Band.

Madero Family's Property is Due to be Restored.

EL PASO (Tex.) Jan. 6.—Gen. Jacinto Trevino arrived at Juarez from Chihuahua City today to assume military jurisdiction on the border from Presidio, Tex., to Hachita, N. M., under the new title of Commander of the Northeastern Corps of the Mexican Army.

Gen. Trevino, under a reorganization of the de facto government's army now in progress, will have military command, it is said, of the States of Chihuahua, Nuevo Leon, Tamaulipas, Coahuila, Zacatecas and Durango. Upon his arrival with Gen. Luis Gutierrez from the West Coast, Gen. Trevino dispatched 1200 cavalry under Gen. Ismael Lozoya to the Guerrero district west of Villa Ahumada, Chihuahua, to begin a campaign to exterminate Gen. Villa and his band.

With the special train which carried Trevino and 800 men of his staff, arrived a score of merchants with goods and renew acquaintance with Americans exiled during the Villa regime.

A number of mining companies today announced intentions of returning to work in Chihuahua and Durango States.

At the Mexican Consulate, it was said, a decree had been issued at Mexico City giving mining interests until January 31 to comply with the provisions decree of March 1, 1915, increasing property and output taxes and that after January 31, unless would release concessions to delinquency.

Among mining men it was said there was a possibility that by the return of constitutional government, through Villa, the increased tax decree of March, last, would be invalidated.

A representative of the Madero family stated today that through the action of Lieut.-Col. Julio Madero, a nephew of the Madero family whose recently confiscated by the de facto government are to be returned to the family. The properties of Francisco Madero, Sr., and his immediate family will be returned immediately. These holdings represent several millions of dollars of cotton land in Coahuila State.

In addition it was said amnesty is to be extended to Francisco Madero, brother of Francisco I. Madero, and his sons and daughters excepting Emilio and Raoul Madero.

PAN-AMERICANS TO MEET IN PERU.

CONVENTION TO BE HELD FIVE YEARS HENCE.

Location of Southern Country as Convention Place is Accepted as Kind Evidence of the Desire of the Republics of the Western Hemisphere for Closer Relations.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Lima, Peru, was selected today for the next meeting of the Pan-American Scientific congress which meets in 1921, the centennial of Peru's declaration of independence. The choice, made by the executive Committee, was on suggestion of the delegation from Chile, whose chairman, Ambassador Suarez Mujica, is president of the congress. Delegates generally regarded the selection of Peru and the manner in which it came about as another evidence of the universal desire for closer relations among the American republics brought sharply to the fore during the two weeks' session of the congress here.

The work of the congress virtually has been completed. Most of the delegates held only short meetings today, many of the delegates and their families going in an excursion to Mount Vernon. Tonight President Wilson entertained the delegates at a joint reception.

Some of the sections tomorrow will hold even briefer than those held today. At the joint meeting Saturday, closing day, various resolutions recommended evolved in sectional meetings will be taken up.

One resolution to be considered, adopted today by the section on transportation and commerce, recommends that steps be taken toward uniform customs regulations at all American ports. The section also will indorse a resolution for uniformity of systems, but will pass it to the joint meeting without recommendation.

FOR SUPREME COURT.

President is Indorsed for Place of Late Justice Lamar.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Wilson told callers today that before appointing a successor to the late Supreme Court Justice Lamar, he would thoroughly canvass the situation.

Senator Newlands of Nevada told callers he thought if the President decided to appoint a Democrat, Judge Lake should be selected, and that if a Republican former President Taft should be named.

Taft has been indorsed in many letters received at the White House.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach, sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative" and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggists for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scurf will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Wilson's Revelation.

peculiar vividness and said with unusual eloquence in a recent conference held in this city for the purpose of considering the financial relations between the two continents of America, because it was perceived that financiers can do nothing without the co-operation of governments, and that if merchants would deal with one another laws must agree with one another; that you cannot make laws vary without making them contradict, and that amidst contradictory laws the easy flow of commercial intercourse is impossible, and that, therefore, a financial congress naturally led to all the inferences of politics. For politics I conceive to be nothing more than the science of the odd progress of society along the lines of greatest usefulness and convenience to itself.

"The conference to which I have referred marked the consciousness of the two Americas that, economically, they are very dependent upon one another; that they have a great deal that it is very desirable they should exchange and share with one another; that they have kept unnaturally and unfortunately separated and apart when they had a manifest and obvious community of interest; and the object of that conference was to ascertain the practical means by which the commercial and practical intercourse of the two continents could be quickened and facilitated.

"For my own part, I congratulate myself upon living in a time when these things, always susceptible of intellectual demonstrations, have begun to be very widely and universally appreciated, and when the statesmen of the two American continents have more and more come into candid, trustful, mutual conference, comparing views as to the practical and friendly way of helping one another and of setting forward every handsome enterprise on this side of the Atlantic.

"But these gentlemen have not conferred without realizing that back of all the material community of interest of which I have spoken there lies and must lie a community of political interest. I have been told a very interesting fact—I hope it is true—that while this congress has been discussing science, it has been, in spite of itself, led into the feeling that behind the science there was some inference with regard to politics, and that if the Americans were to be united in thought they must in some degree be united sympathetically in action. What these statesmen who have been conferring from month to month in Washington have come to realize is that back of the community of material interest there is a community of political interest.

"I hope I can make clear to you in what sense I use those words. I do not mean a mere partnership in the things that are expedient. I mean what I was trying to indicate a few months ago, that you cannot separate politics from these things, that you cannot have real intercouse of any kind amidst political jealousies, which is only another way of saying that you cannot commune unless you are friends, and that friendship is based upon your political relations with each other perhaps more than upon any other kind of relationships between nations. If nations are politically suspicious of one another all their intercourse is embarrassed. That is the reason, I take it, if it be true, as I hope it is, that your thoughts even during this congress, though the questions you are called to consider are apparently so foreign to politics, have again and again been drawn back to the political inferences. The object of American statesmanship on the two continents is to see to it that American friendship is founded on a rock.

"The Monroe doctrine was proclaimed by the United States on her own authority. It always has been maintained and always will be maintained upon her own responsibility. But the Monroe doctrine demanded merely that European governments should not attempt to extend their political systems to this side of the Atlantic.

"It was a hand held up in warning, but there was no promise in it of what America was going to do with the implied and partial protectorate which she apparently was trying to set up on this side of the water, and I believe you will sustain me in the statement that it has fears and suspicions on this score which have hitherto prevented the greater intimacy and confidence and trust between the Americas. The states of America have not been certain what the United States would do with her power. That doubt must be removed.

"And latterly, there has been a very frank interchange of views between the authorities in Washington and those who represented the other states of this hemisphere, an interchange of views charming and hopeful, because based upon an increasingly sure appreciation of the spirit in which they were undertaken. These gentlemen have seen that if America is to come into her own, into her legitimate own, in a world of peace and order, she must establish the foundations of amity so that no one will hereafter doubt them.

"I hope and I believe that this can be accomplished. These conferences have enabled me to foresee how it will be accomplished. It will be accomplished in the first place by the states of America uniting in guaranteeing to each other absolutely political independence and territorial integrity. In the second place, and as a necessary corollary to that, guaranteeing the agreement to settle all pending boundary disputes as soon as possible and by amicable process. By agreeing that all disputes among themselves, should they unhappily arise, will be handled by patient, impartial investigation and settled by arbitration and the agreement necessary to the peace of the Americas, that no state of either continent will permit revolutionary expeditions against another state to be fitted out on its territory and that they will prohibit the exportation of the munitions of war for the purpose of supplying revolutionists against neighboring governments.

"You see what our thought is, gentlemen, not only the international peace of America, but the domestic peace of America. If American sates are constantly in ferment, if any of them are constantly in ferment, there will be a standing threat to their relations with one another. It is just as much to our interest to assist each other to the orderly processes within our obrder as it is to orderly processes in our controversies with one another.

"These are very practical suggestions which have sprung up in the minds of thoughtful men, and I for my part, believe that they are going to lead the way to something that America has prayed for for many a generation. For they are based, in the first place, so far as the stronger states are concerned, upon the handsome principle of self-restraint and respect for the rights of everybody. They are based upon the principles of absolute political equality among the states, equality of rights, not equality of indulgence. They are based, in short, upon the solid, eternal foundations of justice and humanity.

"No man can turn away from these things without turning away from the hope of the world. These are things, ladies and gentlemen, for which the world has hoped and waited with prayerful heart. God grant that it may be granted to America to lift this light on high for the illumination of the world."

Classified Liners.

AGATE TYPE ONLY.

Accepted subject to the following rates and rules: Rate: The rate for inserting Want Ads in the Daily Times is 1c per word each insertion; is to be cash in advance; 10c per word each insertion; to be charged for if ordered inserted and to stop after a specified number of insertions, 20c; cannot order by the month; 10c per line per Sunday; 5c per line per week; 25c per line per month; no display or space charges; applicable to a single insertion and to each non-consecutive insertion. 20c daily; 10c Sunday; 5c weekly; 25c monthly. "Proposals," "Special Notices," "Lost," "Found," "Strayed," "Stolen," "Wanted," "Rooms," "Board and Room," "Money to Loan," "Help Wanted," "Situations Wanted," "Partners," "Medical," "Dentistry," "Manufacturers" and "Rates and Measurements."

An extra charge of 25 per cent. is made for One, two or capital letters.

Minimum charge for classified advertisements ordered for more than one insertion, 15 words.

White space and display are charged for on the basis of 10c per agate line.

Ads not solid are counted strictly by the word. Any hyphenated or run-in-up matter set to occupy space is counted by the word. Count 15 words to the line; estimate the display space. Words to the line; estimate the display average words to the inch. Count the title (which is not to be counted) as one number of words to the inch. Count the actual number of words in numerals, and each group of words added for such matter. The Times reserves the right to classify all advertisements under appropriate headings.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in classified advertisements.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Errors not the fault of the advertiser, which slightly affect the value of the advertisement, will be rectified only by republication, without extra charge, on presentation of receipt within five days after insertion. No allowance will be made where the error does not materially affect the value of the advertisement.

No advertisement will be made for advertising items and refunded for any error or omission that may occur in other items in the same advertisement. Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times for copies sold them," as no mistake can be rectified without them.

The Times will not accept items or verbal orders to discontinue or change "till forbid" advertisements.

Telephoned orders to discontinue advertising in The Times are numbered in the order of their receipt, and it is impossible to guarantee the exact order in which the advertisements are stopped unless a record thereof is made in writing. In case of dispute no charge for advertising will be refunded unless the "stop" order in question is proved to The Times by the advertiser.

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, should be received before 9 o'clock Saturday night. All other classified "Wants," "To Let" ads, received ever counter or by telephone until 11 a.m. Saturday, may be inserted under heading. "To Let to Classify." Rate, 1½ cents per word.

The number circulation of The Times exceeds 100,000 copies and more "Wants" are regularly printed in its columns than in the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times." Main 8200. Home 10091, any time of day or night, and more prompt and careful service.

"BE QUICK TO KICK IF THINGS SEEM WRONG; BUT KICK TO US AND MAKE IT STRONG."

FOR SALE—
Country Property.

FOR SALE—

100 ACRES, ALL IN ALFALFA.

100 acres of land, level as a floor, all in alfalfa. Fine stand, sandy loam, best grade alfalfa dark silt soil. Will grow all kinds deciduous fruits, berries and vegetables. Rabbit-tight, heavy net wire fencing.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Brick residence, outhouses, garages, warehouse, stables, sheds, stock yards and hay shed that cost $9000; well that never water, windmill, tank, water piped to house and stock yard, mimo shade and fruit trees.

IRRIGATION—GRAVITY.

There goes with this place one of the oldest water canals of the Gila River; running right alongside of this farm. Water costs from $1 to $1.50 per acre, depending upon the quantity used.

CLIMATE AND LOCATION.

This property is located within four miles of Florence, the county seat of Pinal county, Arizona, situated on the Gila River and Railroad. It is also within 60 miles of the San Carlos Consolidated Copper Mines and other large mining industries, and one of the largest cement plants in Arizona. These industries are the largest of their kind in the world, and are creating thousands of men and forty important towns that are within easy rail-road, auto truck and stage transportation of this farm, affording a market for the farm and dairy products. Raising it is the opposition for high-grade Jersey cows, hogs, poultry, chickens and grain sheep, as there is plenty of suitable range adjoining this property, and, according to estimates of people who have similar farms in this district, just can get from $30 to $40 per acre worth of alfalfa seed picked privately, per year from this farm, making it an ideal proposition and paying investment.

The climate of Florence is similar to that of Southern California. In fact, I venture the statement that it is ideally as good with the exception that it becomes a little warmer in the summer time. The winter is good, altitude medium, and it is a very healthy place to live. There are good schools, churches in Florence, and the high school building now being erected at a cost of $20,000 towards this farm from a high school center in Florence, making it only 4½ miles to high school from this farm. Terms, $11,000 cash, balance to suit purchaser. Will consider good business or residence property in Los Angeles or San Diego up to $10,000. Address owner, R. B. LANE, 3049 Utah st., San Diego, Cal.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Officers will Report.

Reports of officers for the past year will mark the meeting tonight of the Federated Improvement Association to be held in Burbank Hall at 7:45 o'clock.

Joint Installation.

The Robley D. Evans Women's Relief Corps and G.A.R. will hold a joint installation in Patriotic Hall, Hall of Records, Saturday night. All friends and members are invited to attend.

To Discuss New Charter.

George E. Dunlop, who was a member of the Board of Freeholders, will address the City Club on the subject, "The Proposed Charter," at a luncheon to be given tomorrow in the Men's Grill, Broadway Department Store.

Dedicate New Building.

The Fourteenth street intermediate school will dedicate its new building this afternoon, the exercises to start at 1:30 o'clock. Ex-Judge Bordwell of the Board of Education and Supt. Francis will make short addresses.

Inaugurate President.

Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt, head of the department of economics in the University of Southern California, was inaugurated president of the Historical Society of Southern California last Tuesday evening, at a meeting in the Museum Building in Exposition Park.

Will Interpret Salome.

Dr. Nathaniel I. Rubenkam, director of the University Forum, will give a philosophical interpretation of the music drama, "Salome," at the College Theater, on Hill street, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The public is invited.

Stanford Luncheon.

Graduate co-eds and present women students of Stanford University will hold their annual luncheon in the Hotel Clark today. Miss Alma Holmes will preside, Miss Maud Howell will give a reading and Miss Gladys Percy will sing. Officers for the year will be elected.

New Plan at Cunnock.

A new department to be known as the extension division will be formed immediately in Cumnock School of Expression, for the benefit of women whose duties make it impossible for them to enroll for the usual school hours. The source of study will be the same as in the regular work.

Funeral of Mrs. Wolfskill.

The funeral of Mrs. Susanne B. Wolfskill, a pioneer of California, having come to the State sixty-four years ago, who passed away Tuesday afternoon at her home, No. 222 Arroyo Terrace, Pasadena, was held yesterday morning at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, Dean MacCormack officiating. Interment was at Inglewood.

For Wounded Soldiers.

The Sewing Committee of the German-Austro-Hungarian Relief Society, under the auspices of the German Red Cross, will meet at the gymnasium of the Turnverein Germania, No. 1345 South Figueroa street, the 17th-21st inst., for the purpose of sewing hospital garments for the wounded. Ladies willing to assist are heartily welcomed.

Club to Celebrate.

An elaborate dinner and speeches will mark the annual meeting of the Southern California Congregational Club to be held next Monday evening at the Hotel Clark. Dr. Albert P. Fitch, president of Andover Theological Seminary, and Dr. Charles W. Huntington, acting pastor of Claremont Congregational Church, will address the club.

For Mail Payments.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution yesterday, favoring vesting the Interstate Commerce Commission with control over the entire matter of payment to the railroads for the carriage of mail. Copies of the resolution are to be sent our delegtion in Congress and to all members of both the Senate and House committees on postoffices and post roads.

Cirgonian Club Meeting.

Councilwoman Mrs. Estelle Lawton Lindsay spoke before the Cirgonian Club at the Hotel Clark yesterday noon, taking as her subject, "What the Business Man can do for Los Angeles." Dr. O. S. Beebe presided as chairman of the day, and covers were laid for eighty members. Miss Dagmar Nielson sang two soprano solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. L. T. Keller.

Condition is Critical.

The condition of Mrs. J. W. Summerfield, wife of Justice Summerfield, and a leader in club and social circles, who was stricken suddenly ill several days ago, was reported yesterday to be critical. Mrs. Summerfield is suffering from a goitre and a nervous collapse. Dr. G. A. Lauberaheimer, the attending physician, said yesterday that while Mrs. Summerfield is in a serious condition, she will recover.

Train Schedule Changed.

The running time of Santa Fe passenger trains between this city and San Bernardino will be cut from five to ten minutes, according to a new schedule becoming operative next Sunday. This action, is is said, is for the purpose of offering competition to the Pacific Electric. Other changes on the Santa Fe will drop two trains that have been running to San Bernardino and make provision for the inauguration of the de luxe extra fare train between Los Angeles and Chicago. This service will start today with the arrival of the first train from Chicago. The first east-bound de luxe will leave here next Tuesday.

Celtic Club Meeting.

The Celtic Club will entertain notable guests and elect officers for the year, at the meeting next Tuesday night, the 11th inst., in the Sierra Madre Club. Among the guests will be Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Foley, Sydney Francis Gilben of Australia, Miss Audrey St. Clair Creighton and E. M. Bonnell.

Republicans to Meet.

The new South End Republican Club is preparing for a grand reception and housewarming, plans for which are in the hands of Doc Whiteside, manager of the club. The date has not been announced, but arrangements for a large gathering are being made, and Frank Domingues has consented to speak. Walter F. McIntire is president of the club.

EXTENSIVE DEBATE.

Schools to Discuss Subject of Protective Tariff.

The most extensive debate ever held in Southern California is to occur tonight in the Los Angeles High School, Manual Arts, Polytechnic, Hollywood, Santa Monica and Long Beach auditoriums. Six schools will participate in the arguments. The question will be, "Resolved, that our legislation should be shaped toward a gradual abolishment of the protective tariff."

The schools pitted against each other are: Los Angeles High vs Santa Monica, at Los Angeles; Manual Arts vs. Los Angeles High, at Manual Arts; Manual Arts vs. Hollywood, at Hollywood; Polytechnic vs Long Beach, at Long Beach; Polytechnic vs. Hollywood, at Polytechnic; Long Beach vs. Santa Monica, at Santa Monica.

Past records point to a victory for Manual Arts, although the Los Angeles High School will give them a hard fight. Polytechnic is handicapped by the loss of its star debater, Alfred Bennett, who was forced to drop his position through ill health.

RID STOMACH OF GASES, SOURNESS, AND INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large 50-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

THE WEATHER.
[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Jan. 6.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.] At 8 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 30.06; at 5 p.m., 30.08. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 45 deg. and 54 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 97 per cent.; 5 p.m., 47 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., east, velocity 4 miles; 5 p.m., southeast, velocity 5 miles. Highest temperature, 59 deg.; lowest, 43 deg. Rainfall for season, 5.91 inches; last season, 4.46 inches. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The area of high pressure which was over Montana, moved rapidly eastward and now overlies the Great Lakes; this movement resulted in lowering the temperature 30 or 40 deg. throughout its path. Chicago reported a drop of 45 deg. in twenty-four hours. Freezing weather is general throughout the northern half of the country. At Havre the temperature is 8 deg. below zero, with a wind of forty-four miles per hour; another area of low pressure is entering the Northwest, giving showers to Washington, Oregon and Northern California. The area of low pressure which caused Wednesday's storm in Southern California moved rapidly eastward and is now central in New Mexico. The area of high pressure, which closely followed this depression, is to the coast south of the Tehachapi, and will insure fair and moderately cool weather in Los Angeles and vicinity Friday. Light frosts are indicated in exposed places.

LOCAL FORECAST.

For Southern California: Friday cloudy; frost in exposed places Friday morning.

STATE FORECAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—Forecast: San Francisco and vicinity, Northern California, Sacramento, Santa Clara and San Joaquin valleys: Unsettled weather, with occasional rain Friday; light southerly winds.

Southern California: Generally cloudy Friday; light northerly winds.

ARIZONA FORECAST.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Forecast for Arizona: Friday and Saturday generally fair; not much change in temperature.

Strong Words.

FOR NAVAL DEFENSE OF THE PACIFIC COAST.

Senator Smith Says the Fleet Should Come Here Every Year.

Michigan Statesman and Boston Merchant Expound Solid and Impressive Views on the War and its Lessons to a Large Assemblage of Representative Men — Pledge to Build up Army and Navy is Cheered.

THE FOLLOWING are some of the most pertinent paragraphs from the speech of Senator Smith:

"Oh! the wonderful Pacific Ocean! There is no defense that it needs that it cannot and should not rightly ask for, and that it ought not to have."

"I have said to the Secretary of the Navy, and I say it again here, that our fleet ought to come to the Pacific Coast every year, and that it ought to be a permanent factor in the Pacific Ocean."

"I believe with Maxwell that we must augment our military power and must not let them rust and decay from inaction.

"We are short of officers in the navy. When I get back to Washington, if I can assist in any way in securing another military academy, and in securing it for California, I shall do so gladly."

These pertinent themes were discussed at the Chamber of Commerce last night—"Preparedness and National Defense of the Pacific Coast" and "Effects of the War Upon American Business." These themes were presented by two notable speakers—Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, and Edward A. Filene, one of the principal merchants of Boston and ex-president of the National Chamber of Commerce. Not for many years has such strong meat been served before the thinking men of the city.

A dinner drew together an assemblage of representative men of the city. The assembly-rooms were filled to capacity and the closest attention was given to both speakers, who were frequently given warm applause.

President Bulla was indisposed and unable to preside, so this office was filled by John S. Mitchell, who has been nominated for the presidency of the Chamber of Commerce for the ensuing year. Mr. Mitchell in a graceful manner introduced Senator Smith, stating that, while the Senator served the State of Michigan, as well as the country at large, he had the good judgment to provide for his family residing in California. He stated that as a member of the Senate Committee on Commerce, the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the Committee on Naval Affairs, and the Committee on Cuban Affairs, Senator Smith was in a position of national importance, and one of especial importance to the Pacific Coast.

Senator Smith spoke briefly of his career in Congress for more than two decades, of his love for California and his pleasure in having members of his family enjoying the delights of this fascinating country. He referred to the message brought by Mr. Filene, declaring it to be one of the utmost importance.

PREDICTS ACTION.

"I want you to hear it and to remember what is said," declared the speaker. "I suppose I will hear it later with my colleagues, and later on I expect that the representatives of this country will take appropriate action."

He then discussed the present peculiar situation in world affairs, declaring that in the atmosphere of today we have only to lift our eyes to see the rise and fall of the fortunes of war in the many countries of Europe, with no one to foretell the end.

"The prayers of people throughout the world are raised in unison for peace," said Senator Smith, "yet war is not necessarily an unmixed evil. This might sound cruel, but as I cast my eye over history of the world I find war has played an important part in fixing the status of humanity.

"There would have been no French republic had it not been for the Napoleonic wars. There would have been no United States had it not been for the valor of Washington and his compatriots. Valley Forge and Bunker Hill and Plymouth Rock each played

Mitchell, nominated for next president of the Chamber of Commerce, who presided and introduced the speakers.

Mr. Filene's Address.

GRAVE PROBLEMS TO FACE AMERICA AFTER THE WAR.

THE subject on which Edward A. Filene spoke at the Chamber of Commerce last night was "Economic Effects of the War and American Business." The address showed that deep thought had been given to the subject by the great merchant and his discussion of proposed fundamentals for an international court was received with intense interest.

Mr. Filene declared that the business men of America must foresee that if the present war is settled as all previous wars have been, without providing for some means other than war for dealing with international disputes, there will be added to its charges the still greater charges due to rivalry in preparations for the next war, and that the European nations at almost any cost will be forced to re-establish their industries in order to provide for armaments and for settling their debts, so as to have their credit good for the next war.

With this premise the speaker declared that students of world affairs predict these necessities will cause the European nations to make sacrifices of natural profits, to lower their scale of living and to create a competition of unexampled severity, all of which would be ominous for the higher-wage market of America.

The greatest economic dangers, said the speaker, lie in the destruction of natural international trade and business relations, and the desperate struggle of each nation for trade.

The payment of war debts, said the speaker, must be in one of three ways—either by gold, securities or goods. He argued that the European nations after the war can only pay for the necessary purchases of food and raw materials by exporting goods to us—that this is the only practical solution of the question and that, under such a situation foreign-made goods will be sold here at a profit, if competition will allow it, but unprofitably if necessary—at cost, or less than cost, if necessary, because the need of debt-paying will be imperative.

This, argued the speaker, means that such a condition will force the European manufacturer to reduce the price of wages, and there must follow a reduction in the scale of living until affairs have been regraded so that the manufacturers can again make a profit on their goods.

Mr. Filene declared that his careful study had forced him to conclude that unless the settlement of this war is such as to remove to a great extent the fear of recurring wars, there is no prospect of the upbuilding of Europe, except under staggering conditions—that wages will not be higher in Europe because of the number of workers killed and the necessity for reorganization of industries.

The speaker declared his belief that America would suffer most from this forced export of goods; that at the close of the war America will be the far richest and best market of the world; that the deep feeling engendered between the warring nations will make them unwilling to buy of

GIVE SELLING OPTIONS ON UNITED PETROLEUM.

Light is Thrown on Gigantic Deal Now Pending in Union Oil and Allied Interests by Former's President in Official Statement — First Open Step in Formation of Hundred-million-dollar Combine.

DEFINITE light was thrown last night on one phase of the large oil deal concerning which rumors have been in circulation for many weeks. A statement was issued by W. L. Stewart, president of the Union Oil Company, stating that an option for the sale of their stock had been given by the controlling shareholders of the United Petroleum Company. The statement also asserts that it is a condition of the exercise of the option in question that each individual stockholder of the Union Oil Company, the Union Provident Company and the United Petroleum Company shall receive an offer for his holdings in exactly the same terms in every respect as the stockholders of the United Petroleum Company, who are placing their shares under option. It is reported that the price is $95 a share.

The same deal, according to report, involves the controlling interest in the Associated Oil Company, the Mexican Petroleum Company, the California Petroleum Corporation (two Doheny concerns) and the holdings of a number of the Independent Agency properties. It is along the lines of the $100,000,000 merger proposed some months ago.

E. L. Doheny, who left Monday night for New York, is understood to be heavily interested in the transaction. Strong Wall street interests are among the purchasers, and the belief is entertained in certain local circles that the Standard Oil Company is back of the entire transaction. Mr. Doheny has been working in the interest of the deal for several months and has been in consultation with foreign and American interests, preparing the way for the transaction. It is believed in certain quarters that he will head the new company growing out of the merger. Among the foreign interests concerned in the deal are Andrew Weir and his associates.

STOCKS STRONG.

Stock of the Union Oil Company, the Associated and several of the Independent Agency properties have shown unusual strength of late on the local exchange, and large buying orders have been received from New York. Union is now selling at nearly $80, while Associated is close to $70. Traders' Oil, one of the Independent Agency properties which some time ago was at less than $20, is now selling in the neighborhood of $50. The advances in other instances have been phenomenal.

The exact identity of the purchasers is being kept in the dark, but is expected to be made known in a few days. It is understood that the option on the stock of the United Petroleum holders was given to Mark L. Requa, chairman of Independent Oil Producers' Appraisal Committee, which estimated the value of the agency properties, with a view to forming a consolidation. It is known that the name of the new corporation is to be the Pan-American Petroleum and Transportation Company. Bernard Baruch, New York financier, is said to be largely interested in financing the transaction.

THE STATEMENT.

The statement issued by W. L. Stewart last night is as follows: "In order to avoid any misconception, as a result of imperfect and misleading information, it is desirable to announce that an option for the sale of their stock in the United Petroleum Company has been granted by prin-

SUPPLIES FOR WATER WAGON.

Million Gallons of After New Year Fluid for San Francisco.

Speaking of that well-known craft called the water wagon, the Southern Pacific had a string of twelve through here yesterday, all loaded to capacity with mineral water, about a million gallons of it.

No, the mineral water was was neither headed desertward nor to the Northwest's new drouth zone, but was billed special to San Francisco, where the new year resolvers are evidently emulating the mustard plaster this year.

Getting down to cases, the shipment was the biggest of its kind that was ever handled by the Southern Pacific. The shipper was a mineral springs company of Waukesha, Wis., and the Southern Pacific was chosen because its line runs well below the frost belt, frost being the sworn enemy of bottled shipments.

BARRETTO IS WINNER.

Santa Monica's Commissionership of Finance is Lost by Whelan by Margin of Nineteen Votes According to Official Court Count.

The recount of the votes cast at the recent election in Santa Monica, resulting in M. K. Barretto winning the Commissionership of Finance by five votes over James P. Whelan, was completed in Judge Conley's court yesterday, giving Mr. Barretto a lead over Mr. Whelan of nineteen votes. The recount showed that 1422 votes had been cast for Mr. Barretto and 1404 for Mr. Whelan. The suit brought by Mr. Whelan for a recount was dismissed without prejudice.

Mr. Whelan alleged irregularities, claiming that votes were cast for Mr. Barretto which should have been cast for him; that in marking the ballots, more votes were counted for the successful candidate than he was entitled to. At one stage of the recount, Mr. Whelan led Mr. Barretto. But this was only temporary, the final precincts increasing the lead for the incumbent.

COMES TO THE EARTH.

Pacific Electric, Long "Up in the Air" Legally and Literally, Given Permit for Graded Track to Street Level on San Pedro.

After being technically and legally "up in the air" for three months, the Pacific Electric Railway was permitted to get back to earth again yesterday when the Council passed an ordinance granting a revocable permit for a temporary track from Wall street to San Pedro street on a grade that will permit operation of trains from the proposed elevated structure down to the surface tracks in San Pedro street. The company obtained an elevated track franchise through from the rear of its Main-street station two years ago and recently it was ordered by the Utilities Board to make terminal improvements that included construction of the elevated tracks from the rear of the station eastward to San Pedro street. Then it was discovered that there was no provision for getting the tracks down to terra firma and a maze of legal difficulties was untangled yesterday by the City Attorney.

WIFE'S PREROGATIVE?

Society Woman Says She Told Husband He Could Give up Friend or Go—He Went and Now She Asks Divorce for Desertion.

Mrs. Margaret M. Lindsay, well known in local society, testified in Judge Wood's court yesterday that she had put up an alternative to her husband, Charles H. F. Lindsay, an insurance broker. This was breaking off an alleged friendship or leaving home. She brought suit for desertion. But in the mind of the court, it was a question if the alternative was not a consent to his going away. Authorities will be filed by Attorneys Carpenter and Fouri to show that a wife may order her husband to break objectionable friendships or leave her.

Mr. Carpenter was a witness for his client. He said he had tried to reconcile the couple, but Mr. Lindsay was not yielding, declaring that the home atmosphere was not agreeable. He said he would never return.

He was served with the papers in the case at Chicago and was again served in this city. He agreed to pay Mrs. Lindsay $200 a month.

CAPITALIST CALLED.

Real Estate Investor Who Helped Upbuild South Passes On.

David R. Brearley, capitalist and prominent real estate investor, who had been seriously ill in his apartments at the Melrose Hotel for the past two months, succumbed to the infirmities of age Wednesday morning. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Pierce chapel.

Mr. Brearley was 81 years old and one of the men who worked zealously for the progress of Los Angeles during the past three decades. He came here from Chicago, where he was a member of the Board of Trade for many years.

BELIEVES RIDDLE OF THE SOUTH SEAS IS READ.

Master of Expeditionary Ship to Easter Islands Here with Secret.

Captain of the Mana, Which Carried Scientific Party on Famous Trip to Mysterious Seat of Stone-age Civilization, Declares Puzzle of Origin of that Long-extinct Race may Now be Solved.

CONVINCED that they will be able from their data to unravel the mystery of the original inhabitants of Easter Island, which is located in the eastern part of the South Pacific Ocean, 2000 miles from the South American coast, an expedition party of anthropologists, archeologists and geologists sent from England three years ago under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society and the British Admiralty, is in California en route home. The explorers made some startling discoveries, according to Capt. H. J. Gillan, master of the expeditionary ship, who arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, but he declared it would be a violation of the trust placed in the party for anyone of them to divulge the results of the extended research. He is at the Melrose.

The party was led by Dr. W. S. Routledge, an eminent English anthropologist, who left Southampton early in January, 1913, with O. S. Crawford, an archeologist; F. Corry, geologist, and a few others, including his wife and daughter. The purpose of the expedition was to explore several of the islands in the South Pacific, but most of the time—fourteen months—was spent on Easter Island.

Easter Island was first reported by Davis in 1686, and is sometimes marked Davis Island on the maps. There was some dispute as to the authenticity of the reported discovery and when Admiral Roggeveen landed on its shore Easter Sunday, 1722, he named it Easter Island. At that time there were from 2000 to 3000 inhabitants of the Polynesian race who came from one of the Austral group.

OCEAN ENIGMA.

In the past two centuries many ships have landed at the island and many people have made a superficial examination of the isolated place but no one has ever been able to solve the deep mysteries suggested by colossal stone images and other relics of a prehistoric age.

Dr. Routledge, who is in San Francisco with his family, believes he has unearthed some significant facts which may solve the mysteries. While he has said nothing for publication, keeping it secret until he makes his official report to the English authorities, the anthropologist, according to Capt. Gillan, is satisfied that the present inhabitants of Easter Island are not direct descendants of the race that littered the surface with the huge and interesting relics.

These images and statues seem to be relics of the stone age. The archeological remains are said to be the most wonderful ever found in any part of the world. They would have been scientifically investigated before but for the hardships entailed in reaching the island and remaining there.

On Easter Island are found immense platforms built of large cut stones fitted together without cement. They are generally built upon headlands and on the slope toward the sea. Some of the walls are thirty feet high, 300 feet long and thirty feet wide, while some of the squared stones are as much as six feet square.

On the land side of the platforms there is a broad terrace with large stone pedestals upon which once stood immense stone images carved somewhat into the shape of a human trunk. On some of the platforms there are upwards of a dozen images, now thrown from their pedestals, and lying in all directions. Their usual height is about fifteen feet, but some are as high as thirty-seven feet.

The tops of the images are cut flat to receive round crowns made of a reddish vesicular stuff found at a crater about eight miles from the quarry, where the images were cut. A number of these crowns still lie at the crater apparently ready for removal, some of the largest being ten feet in diameter.

STONE AGE HOUSES.

In one part of the island are ruins of stone houses nearly one hundred feet long and twenty feet wide. These are built in courses of large flat stones, also fitted together without cement. They are lined on the inside with upright slabs on which are painted geometrical figures and representations of animals. The only ancient implement discovered on the island is a kind of stone chisel, but it has

To Realty Men.

EARNEST PLEA FOR FAIR PLAY.

Motion Picture Magnates Speak for Their Industry.

Impressive Figures Show What its Loss Would Mean.

Three of the big men of the film world, Jesse L. Lasky, D. W. Griffith and David Horsley, addressed the members of the Los Angeles Realty Board at the Broadway Department Store cafe yesterday noon on the motion-picture industry in Southern California. Having been asked to discuss with absolute frankness all phases of the business and its operation, they not only summed up the achievements of their stupendous and rapidly-growing industry, but took occasion to state in no uncertain terms and in the case of one speaker, with some evidence of irritation, their grievances against those whom they declare to be placing obstacles in the way of its continued progress in this community.

The facts and figures about the local motion-picture business, as given by these men who help make the pictures, were something of a revelation to many of those present, even as the "come-back" of the film producers at those who have flung criticism at the industry was a bit sensational. The picture men asserted with a great deal of emphasis that all they expected or wanted is fair play and the chance to grow unhampered by prejudice and uncalled-for opposition. Two of the three speakers hinted that Los Angeles is not the only place on the map boasting the ideal "picture atmosphere," although the movie magnates prefer to stay here.

ON "IMMORALITY."

Commenting on the agitation that had grown out of recent charges of immoralities in film plants, Mr. Griffith averred that the "picture of the motion-picture director madly pursuing beautiful Los Angeles girls over the lot" had been greatly overdone, to say the least. The motion-picture people, he declared, were about the busiest workers in the world, with hardly as much leisure for mischief, even were they thus peculiarly inclined, as those in most other professions. The men and women in his business, he avowed, were neither better nor worse than other men and women.

His voice betraying the depth of his feeling on the subject of his calling, Mr. Griffith asserted that the motion picture spoke "as clean and inspiring a language as any spoken since time began." Motion-picture producers, he declared, were in the main aiming at high ideals. They are engaged, he said, in translating in a new and effective way "that something in men which has always demanded expression."

Mr. Horsley was particularly vigorous in his disapproval of what he called the "unfair and ridiculous" attitude of many toward the motion-picture business in Southern California. In the course of his remarks he rebuked the newspapers, the city departments and divers unnamed merchants, not to mention the censors.

Entirely too much red tape, he avowed, was involved in getting official sanction for street and park posings. His grievance against the newspapers was directed at those which insist on making the female culprits in all questionable escapades "movie stars." The public censorship of motion pictures he designated as "class legislation," and without justification on any grounds of expediency or right. He complained that the merchants had a habit of "soaking" movie people who wanted to rent furniture or hangings for scenes.

Mr. Horsley declared that the possibilities of the motion-picture industry in Los Angeles and its vicinity are greater than anyone realized, but that Florida would certainly get many companies that might otherwise come here unless Los Angeles let it be known far and wide that it really welcomed the movies and intended to treat them right.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

Mr. Lasky gave an inspiring array of facts and figures anent the local picture industry, although he, too, sounded the warning that the agitation resulting from recent attacks on the business was doing a great deal of harm. "The expenditures in the moving-picture industry in and near Los Angeles have jumped from $5,000,000 in 1914 to $15,000,000 in 1915," he said. "Your people do not appreciate what the business means in dollars and cents to this city.

"When I say that over 20,000 persons are employed steadily in the industry in Los Angeles at this time I probably understate the truth. These men and women, as is generally known, all draw good salaries and spend their money right here in this city. A large percentage of them have bought or built homes here. Fifty members of my own company bought Los Angeles homes in 1915. The penchant of motion-picture actors for buying automobiles is well known and I'll venture to say they have bought more automobiles in Los Angeles than any other one class of people.

"One can begin to get an idea of what the industry is doing for Los Angeles when it is considered that it has probably resulted in the coming to Los Angeles of 10,000 permanent inhabitants in the past two years alone. Two big eastern concerns, to my knowledge, are planning on coming here this year to establish huge plants. Eventually all the big companies will be seeking some such climate as that around Los Angeles, for it is a demonstrated fact that the business can never reach its greatest efficiency in the East.

"It must not go forth that Los Angeles is making it uncomfortable for the motion-picture industry. Our friends must rally to our support. These uncalled-for attacks that have been directed upon the entire industry every time some member or would-be member of our profession has been in trouble have done us untold harm. They have menaced the industry to such an extent that more than one producer has been tempted to pack up and go to some other location."

At the close of the meeting, which was attended by 150 real estate men, George N. Black, chairman of the day, read a resolution pledging the hearty co-operation of the Los Angeles Realty Board in the efforts of the Motion Picture Producers' Association to advance the interests of the picture industry in Southern California. This was passed by unanimous acclaim.

Unique Point in Domestic Law Raised.

Mrs. Gertrude A. Sands,

Plaintiff in a divorce action against George W. Sands, an oil man, which has presented some curious problems.

Unique.

LIMITATIONS STATUTE APPLIED TO MARRIAGE.

AS THOUGH it were not sufficiently tangled a knotty legal question crept into the divorce suit of Gertrude A. Sands against George W. Sands, a local oil man, on trial in Judge Wood's court yesterday. Mrs. Sands alleged cruelty, and the domestic disturbances appeared from her testimony to have arisen from the fact that her husband's sister and the latter's children lived with them.

Mr. Sands came back with a cross-complaint, setting up that his wife had another husband living from whom she was not legally separated. This allegation became the bone of contention, as Mr. Sands asked that his marriage to Gertrude be annulled. It raised the question whether or not a right of action for annulment is barred by any statute of limitation.

Mrs. Sands denied that she had been previously married. Mr. Sands said her former husband was William Davis. He claimed it was a common law marriage twenty years ago at Santa Cruz, and that there were three children living as the result of that marriage. Mrs. Sands admitted she had three children.

"Before we were married," testified Mr. Sands, "she told me she was a free woman; that she had been divorced. After this suit was filed I learned through a relative that she had not been free to marry me."

Under the cross-examination of Attorney Linney, Mrs. Sands said she married George W. Sands in April, 1909. Her name at that time, she said, was C. A. Onstott. She denied that she had another name.

"Did you ever go under the name of Mrs. Will Davis?" asked Mr. Linney. Attorney Kase, counsel for Mrs. Sands, objected and it was sustained. The court also sustained his objection to the question whether or not she had told Mr. Sands she was divorced. As her three children were not living with her, she was not allowed to tell their names.

"I told Mr. Sands all about it," she said. "I told him of the children I had before I married him. He consulted a lawyer himself.

The night before the break-up Mrs. Sands said Mr. Sands told her he was going to kill her.

"He had not spoken to me for two weeks," she stated. "He said he would kick me out and for me to get out of the house. I never lived with him since."

Mr. Sands denied all of the allegations of cruelty. Because of the nature of the testimony Attorney Kase wanted the witnesses excluded from the courtroom, but Judge Wood refused, thus establishing a new rule for the divorce court.

"It only delays matters," he said, "if there is any coaching, I suppose it has been done before cases are tried. If there are misstatements of fact they can be discovered on the stand."

As the case turns on whether or not Mrs. Sands had a former husband and was not legally separated when she married Mr. Sands the attorneys will bring in authorities on the question of the statutes of limitations this afternoon.

In 1895 the statute respecting marriage was amended requiring a solemnization to make them valid. Before that a common law marriage in this stage was valid. Mrs. Sands's alleged common law marriage took place in that year.

A Foe to Tuberculosis.

The Journal of the American Medical Association (August 8, 1914,) reviewing an article on "The Influence of Calcium Salts on Constitution and Health," said: "They (the authors) report numbers of concrete instances in which patients gained in vitality and energy after taking calcium."

Doctors agree that in tuberculosis lowered vitality and lost energy must be overcome.

One of the constituents of Eckman's Alterative is calcium (lime,) in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. To this, in part, is due its success in the treatment of tuberculosis—a service which even some ethical practitioners have acknowledged to their patients. We make no wholesale claims for it, but since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, a trial is safe.

NO TIME LOST BY CUYAMACA.

Company Files on All Waters of San Diego River.

Spends Large Sums to Develop Corporation Plant.

Experts Testify in El Capitan Dam Hearing Here.

How active the present owners of the Cuyamaca Water Company at San Diego were in securing the water rights on the San Diego River was indicated yesterday in the evidence of W. S. Post, a hydraulic engineer, now in the employ of the company, who was a witness at the hearing in the local Land Office on the application of the City of San Diego for a right of way (for a canal) and the El Capitan dam site on public lands.

The witness said the company had filed on all the water of the river on July 1 following the purchase of the Spreckels water system, in June, 1910. He said the corporation had spent between $140,000 and $800,000 in its plans, and that when the balance of the proposed dams in the mountains were completed there would be no water for El Capitan dam, except about two years in every ten, when the rainfall might be extraordinary.

Mr. Edward Fletcher was recalled, and spoke as to the development work done by the Cuyamaca Water Company before the water filing had been made. He was followed by W. D. Hamilton, who has assisted in his right to the city of San Diego in December, 1911. He testified that the Spreckels water system had been purchased; expensive surveys had been made of reservoir sites purchased at Boulder Gulch and Cedar Creek; the flumes of the flume had been increased, increasing the capacity from 1500 miner's inches; the walls of the diverting dam had been raised and that by concrete walls; the Murray reservoir had been built at a cost of $40,000, and other improvements in the distributing system aggregating more than $100,000 in value. In reply to a query of H. H. Mancha, agent of the Department of the Interior, Col. Fletcher said the Indian reservation land was as good as any in the county that was not farmland. The total area was about 30,000 acres. It was a question of fact as to how valuable the land was for grazing purposes.

Many heavy disputes ensued between the witness and City Attorney Cosgrove of San Diego as to the qualifications of Mr. Fletcher to testify as an expert on grazing land. The witness said he had leased about 70,000 acres of land in San Diego county, and that in the last few years he had leased and sold more than 100,000 acres of land in that county.

Charles H. Lee, a government engineer, familiar with the stream measurements in San Diego county and said to be an expert in the matter of underground waters and streams, said that when the entire flow of the San Diego River was conserved there would be a flow of not less than 20,000 gallons of water daily, but that estimate the rights of the riparian water owners must be met. The Cuyamaca Water Company now had a capacity to deliver 2,000,000 gallons of water daily, he said.

Thomas A. Murray of Butte, Mont., one of the protestants, testified that the company had paid $150,000 for the Cuyamaca plant, and that between $400,000 and $500,000 had been spent in extending the enterprise.

Fred Liebert, president of the San Diego River Riparian Owners' Association, who had intervened in behalf of that body, said 2500 acres of land were being irrigated between the Sweetwater dam and east of El Monte Park, in El Capitan Valley, with water pumping 2500 miner's inches of water daily during the irrigating season. If El Capitan dam was built and no water allowed to reach the riparian owners, in his opinion irreparable damage would be done and the land become worthless except as a farming proposition. The association had made an offer to the Cuyamaca Water Company whereby the company would turn out sufficient water each year to surcharge the bed of the river to the ocean, to raise the level of water up to the riparian owners would insure that the balance of the water should be stored by the water company. The witness said he would rather see the city of San Diego own El Capitan dam than the Cuyamaca company.

Because of the absence of two important witnesses an adjournment was had until today, when the case will be closed temporarily for ten days, after which rebutting evidence on behalf of both the city and the protestants will be heard.

RAILROAD WORK.

Three-two Miles of New Track Laid in State in 1915.

The record construction in California during the low-water mark in 1915, according to figures made public yesterday by the Railway Age Gazette. The total of all construction was thirty-two miles, all first or main track. Only California surpassed both Texas and Texas, the premier railroad states of the country in mileage, in construction during the year. The most pretentious construction undertaken in this State was by the Santa Fe Southern, building four-track line between Blythe Junction and Yuma Hill. It was followed by the Santa Fe in San Diego and Arizona, which built over ten miles of track—the line between the International Boundary and Campo, and slightly more than nine miles between Corriso Pass and Division No. 6. The Minkler Cut-off was built slightly over six miles of track, between Exeter and Orosi, on the Stockton Terminal division, a little less than a mile. Other construction during the year included thirty-five miles by the Santa Fe in Cornelia and Gila Bend, and seven miles by the Mascot and Westside, all first track.

Considerable equipment also established a new low mark during the year. The Santa Fe the only large system among the State's railroads were placed by the Southern Pacific, though its subsidiary, the Pacific Electric, ordered 1000 motors of the Westinghouse company. The Salt Lake's sole order was for four cabin cars from the same company.

The Santa Fe, on the other hand, ordered 1500 freight cars of various capacities, many locomotives.

"Thousands of men went to their fate—but they had only one life to live, and if that can be so given that humanity can be placed in a better position by its giving then it has performed a heroic and useful part.

"The War of the Rebellion gave to this country a patriotic fire that fused into unity all sections, and that demonstrated that a republic could live. I look at the colored man and think that in fifty years after his bondage had been broken, twenty years of which was like a millstone tied about his neck, the colored man owns more land in the United States than would constitute four States of the Union. This is a tribute to those who fell at Lookout Mountain, Petersburg and Gettysburg.

WAR NOT IN VAIN.

"The war between Russia and Japan was not in vain. When Mukden fell and Port Arthur was invested, Japan was lifted a little higher in the sunlight than it had ever been before. And Russia—not an acre of land in Russia was owned by the man who tilled it. This war liberalized the Russian government. The Duma was established, and the people were given an opportunity to choose their rulers. It threw off the shackles of Socialism in Russia by undermining them. Today Russian soil by the hundreds of millions of acres is owned by the men who cultivate it. Socialism disappears from Russian soil in proportion as men own their homes.

"I think the war in Europe has indicated most strikingly that the country which has the most solicitude for its own people gets the quickest results from its people in times of danger. It has no difficulty in finding soldiers to defend it."

The speaker referred to actions of various nations on behalf of their people, and especially to the continuous support of the dikes holding back the sea in Western Europe, for which appropriations are made annually at The Hague.

"If our own government is solicitous," said the speaker, "it will look after its dikes—take care of the employment of its people—and for such a service they will spring like magic to the call of the country in time of stress.

"Oh, the wonderful Pacific Coast! There is no defense that it needs that it cannot and should not rightly ask for, and that it ought not to have. [Applause and cheers.]

"I have said to the Secretary of the Navy, and I say it again here, that our fleet ought to come to the Pacific Coast every year, and that it ought to be a permanent factor in the Pacific Ocean. [Applause.]

"In those little details of government which are sometimes difficult of adjustment, the country determined to do the right thing, but to get the treatment that it deserves, is in a position to get this treatment when it has enough armament to enforce its just rule of law.

"Europe has demonstrated that there is dire need of more practiced officers. We, too, are short of officers in our navy. When I get back to Washington, if I can assist in any way in securing another military academy, and that for California, I shall do it gladly. [Applause.] We need practiced men. I believe, with Maxwell, that we must augment our military forces and not let them rust and decay from inaction." [Applause and cheering.]

Senator Smith closed his address by referring to the harassing of business by legislation. In reference to this he said:

"The American Congress and the Legislature of California, as well as other States, has been spending about all the time it ought in circumscribing the activities of business men of this country. They should take their hands off the throats of the business men of this country. It is little less than criminal to circumscribe a man just because he has been successful." [Applause.]

Speaking of the discordant anarchistic elements that have crept into sections of America, the speaker said: "My advice to those detestable elements who march under the red flag in preference to the American colors is that they had better lower their flag and give their allegiance to the flag of freedom, or leave this country for the country's good."

Mr. Mitchell then introduced Mr. Filene, whose address is reported elsewhere in The Times, and who was heard with the closest attention.

OIL CASES STAND ALONE.

Federal Attorney Denies One Ruling Affects Other Suits.

E. J. Justice, special assistant to Atty.-Gen. Gregory, who is here representing the government in what is known as the McCutchen "withdrawal" case, involving alleged valuable oil lands in Kern county, said yesterday that the decision of the Federal Supreme Court confirming the right of the Honolulu Oil Company to about 2000 acres of oil land would have no effect in these withdrawal cases. "Every case stands on its own feet," he said, "and it is merely a question of fact, as shown in each separate case."

Mr. Justice said it will be the endeavor of the government to show in the pending suits that neither comes under the general law on the subject, applying to those who had discovered oil before the withdrawal order, or under what is known as the Pickett law, where oil men were in good faith trying to develop oil when the land was withdrawn, and before discovery.

TO INVESTIGATE.

Upon the request of Police Detectives Ervin and Hickock, Deputy District Attorney Becker yesterday began an investigation into the circumstances of the death of John Isaac Clement, on December 31, last, who was struck by an automobile driven by Miss Fern Fitch, a school girl, and died from injuries sustained. Mr. Becker has a transcript of the evidence before the Coroner and the Coroner's jury verdict, which contains an arraignment of Miss Fitch and her companion, Harry K. Widup, for reckless driving.

Give Selling Options.

cipal shareholders of that company, which option, however, is not effective until certain conditions have been complied with.

"If and when these conditions are complied with and the option becomes effective, a communication will be made to all the shareholders of the Union Oil Company, the Union Provident Company and the United Petroleum Company, acquainting them with its terms.

"Meantime, it may be stated that it is a condition of the exercise of the option in question that each individual stockholder of the Union Oil Company, the Union Provident Company and the United Petroleum Company shall receive an offer for his shareholdings on exactly the same terms in every respect as the stockholders of the United Petroleum Company, who are placing their shares under option."

A statement signed by John Garrigues, treasurer of the Union Oil Company, attacking the Stewarts, alleging mismanagement on their part in the past, and that they had shown bad faith toward the Union Oil stockholders, in giving the option on their (the Stewarts') holdings, was received by The Times yesterday for placement in its advertising columns. The Times regarded this statement as highly sensational and libelous and therefore declined to print it.

The deal which is under way is the most gigantic ever undertaken and, while in certain circles it may be regarded as an unfavorable move to consolidate so many large competing factors into one organization, especially as the Standard is supposed in some quarters to be back of the deal, it is conceded that the sale undoubtedly will prove very beneficial at least for the stockholders of the Union Oil Company, if carried out as per the statement above by W. L. Stewart, president of the company.

The Union Oil Company has always been a strong and important independent company both in the producing and marketing field under the management of the Stewart interests, and has yielded large returns to its stockholders.

HOPE AGAINST HOPE.

Under the Lash of Laborite "Eloquence" Workingmen Give Up Five Thousand Dollars More for Defense of Schmidt and Caplan.

Indicating that a determined effort will be made to secure a new trial for M. A. Schmidt, convicted dynamiter and murderer, who will appear before Judge Willis next Wednesday to be sentenced to life imprisonment, and that David Caplan, co-defendant, will stand trial, announcement was made in San Francisco yesterday that the United Laborers' Union of that city will appropriate $5000 for the Schmidt-Caplan defense fund.

The unionites decided to contribute the money following "eloquent" appeals made in addresses by Olaf A. Tveitmoe, whose name was often mentioned in connection with the prosecution of Schmidt, and Job Harriman, leader of the Los Angeles "reds."

The Schmidt appeal will be based on the alleged misconduct of the jurors and on technicalities.

COUSINS TO DUCKS?

Breeder Haled into Court for Cruelty to Ostriches Proves they Like To Be Out in the Wet So the Case Is Dismissed.

Ostriches with their backs wet and their feet in the mud are happy and contented and healthy. They don't want a warm nest and a tight roof overhead.

This great truth regarding ostriches was established in police court yesterday when I. A. Moon, proprietor of the Los Angeles Ostrich Farm, was arraigned by representatives of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, on a charge of mistreating his birds.

The complaint recited Mr. Moon permitted his ostriches to get wet and stand in the mud. That, it was contended, constituted cruelty.

Mr. Moon quoted authorities, told of his experience of fifteen years in handling the birds, and introduced corroborative testimony all to the effect the birds were only healthy and happy when living so. Police Judge Chesebro ruled in favor of the muddy feet and wet backs, and discharged Mr. Moon, dismissing the complaint.

EGGS WITHOUT VIRTUE.

Dealers Pay Fines for Selling Hen Fruit of Bad Character.

"Eggs without virtue" were found in twelve stores yesterday, and the merchants were taken into police court to answer a charge of violation of the pure food laws. Agents went from store to store, purchasing a half-dozen eggs labeled "fresh" in each. Then they went to a far place and investigated the condition of the purchase.

They found masquerading under the banner of purity young eggs, middle-aged eggs, and ancient eggs. The prosecutions which followed are part of a campaign to stop the present system of labeling all kinds of eggs "fresh."

Those arrested and fined were H. Engleberg, No. 930 East Ninth street; Lee Kee, No. 530 East Ninth street; I. Mori, No. 700 East First street; Y. Naruto, No. 1051 San Pedro street; N. Y. ENDANGERING POETRY.

It would seem that in India the people are forgetting "the patience of the toiler the tyrant calls content," and so are in the way of destroying a fine line of poetry.

WINTER'S REQUIEM.

Just when we were accustoming ourselves to the idea that this is winter, the organ-grinder with a monkey, both speaking Italian, stops in front of our place to play "In the Good Old Summertime." Winter hasn't a chance.

CANNOT BE HIDDEN.

The marriage license bureau has removed from the first floor of the Courthouse to the sixth floor of the Hall of Records. Mr. Sparks cannot fool anybody. Any time a man is desperate enough to hunt a place like that he is going to find it if it is on top of the moon.

SUNKEN TREASURE.

When the war shall be over there will be plenty of employment for divers, searching for treasure in the Mediterranean, where great ships went down. On the Persia, for instance, were four millions of dollars' worth of diamonds belonging to an Indian Maharajah. Submarines may be made useful in locating sunken ships.

MIGHT ROCK THE BOAT.

Plans are being discussed for a world conference of churches to consider the question of church unity. Any man who believes in organization must also believe in authority and must see the sense in the get-together movement, but it is to be hoped that the people who go to this meeting will not be sent together in a ship.

EFFECT OF THE WAR ON SCHOOLS.

The war has caused the expenditures of the London County Council for education to be cut down nearly two millions of dollars as compared with the previous year. Thousands of children between the ages of 3 and 5 were turned out of school. Thirty-six evening schools were stopped and books and apparatus were cut down. Many instructors, instead of teaching the young idea how to shoot, had joined the army and were themselves being taught how to shoot.

SETTING ITSELF MARKS.

One of the city's visitors says that in ten years Los Angeles will be solidly built to the sea. It was natural that the city should have first moved in that direction, not because the climate was better, the soil more fertile or the view broader, but because men are finite-minded and require a definite objective point. Ever since Sierra Madre became such a point on the other side, the city has also been growing toward Lamanda Park, East San Gabriel and Monrovia. When this distance is covered it will find a new goal and go there.

GETTING IT STRAIGHT.

Julius Kahn is an American paradox inasmuch as he has survived several sessions of Congress and retains his reasoning faculties. He says that he will make a fight to provide for a compulsory military service under certain conditions. The right of any country to demand such service should not even be questioned under the sort of circumstances that Mr. Kahn refers to. Conscription as a question of expediency should never be a question of debate. Our preparedness, however, must go much farther. This country must have men who will be able to do something about it after their enlistment. Swearing a man into service does not make him a soldier.

A BUMPTIOUS RESOLUTION.

At the annual conference of the London Labor party held at Essex Hall a resolution was offered to the effect that the government has no right to demand sacrifices of the people without explaining the object of them, and that the government be called upon to say what are the terms of peace it is prepared to accept.

The bumptiousness of this demand upon Asquith and Lloyd George and other members of the government to give to the labor unions full information of their purposes and plans was a little too much even for the gall of Union Labor Leader Stokes. He said he did not consider they could allow such a resolution to appear on their records. He could imagine what the meeting would be like if they discussed the terms of peace, and for peace's sake they would leave the resolution out.

WILL NIAGARA GO DRY?

The American Civic Association of New York State is opposed to giving permission to the city of Rochester to divert water from Niagara Falls for power and light purposes. The representative of the association before a joint legislative committee investigating the possibilities of the State's hydro power claimed that a dry gray cliff is all that will remain of the most spectacular scenic asset of America, the Niagara Falls, if its waters continue to be diverted for commercial purposes.

The value of the efforts of the members of the American Civic Association to preserve the beauty of the falls by denying to Rochester the privilege of taking water therefrom was impaired by the intimation that they were stockholders in Canadian power companies that took water from the Canadian side of the falls and sold the power to Rochester.

THE DEFIANCE OF UNDERWOOD.

In a speech defending what he calls "Emergency Revenue Legislation," Senator Underwood of Alabama made a futile attempt to justify the extravagance of his party in expending the public money, and their lack of wisdom and of fairness in raising by internal taxation the means to meet the increased expenditures.

He admitted at the outset that the expenditures of government for the fiscal year 1913, authorized by a Republican Congress and denounced by the Baltimore convention as profligate waste of the public money, were $654,553,963, or $87,337,037 less than the Democratic expenditures for the fiscal year 1916 of $741,891,000.

He declared that it is not necessary at this time to discuss whether the Democratic expenditures were made wisely or not. It was sufficient, he asserted, that they were made by the (Democratic) representatives of the American people.

He accused Republican Representatives and Senators of being guilty of contributory negligence by enacting laws for building new railroads in Alaska and by the creation of a Federal reserve bank, and by divers and sundry assaults upon the pork barrel, and he said:

"If you assist by your votes in enacting laws which require the expenditure of money, you must stand responsible for the increased expenditures, or be willing to confess that you voted for legislation in order to embarrass your political opponents."

Senator Underwood in an outburst of candor said: "The Payne tariff law undoubtedly produced more revenue at the customhouses than the present law. It produced in 1913 $318,891,895. In 1914 the receipts at the customhouse for the fiscal year amounted to only $292,128,527, and in 1915 to $212,146,000. This deficiency of $26,763,368 in 1914 and of $36,766,000 in 1915 be attributed solely to the change in the tariff laws in the first year and the increase in the second year he attributed to the fact that factory hands had gone to the trenches in Europe and that the seas had been closed to great nations who were large exporters to our country before war conditions arose.

Senator Underwood concluded his defiant speech by saying: "When the present fiscal legislation was written, the Democratic party in the House of Representatives, where the legislation was inaugurated, reduced taxation at the customhouse deliberately for the purpose of making room in our fiscal system for a tax on wealth. As the chairman of the committee which reported that bill and as the spokesman of my party at that time, I wish to say to you and the country that that change of system was not haphazard; it was not written to meet revenue exigencies; it was done with great deliberation. It was the intention of the men who wrote the new law to decrease the taxes that were raised from consumption and to inaugurate in this country a system of taxing wealth in place of taxing individuals."

The Senator did not add, as he might have done while he was making confession, that it was also his intention and that of his party while the South was in the saddle to ride roughshod over the interests of the laborers on the farms and in the factories and furnaces and forges and mines and shops of the North and West by taking away from them the Republican policy of protection, depriving them of employment, lessening their wages and reducing their standard of life to that of their European brethren.

TONIC FOR JOHN BULL.

"Valiant old men who have clipped their mustaches to hide their whiteness, weedy town-bred lads rejected half a dozen times already, and boys with tin trumpets." So an eyewitness sums up the result of Lord Derby's last attempt to drum up a volunteer army in England after months of parading, exhorting, publicity and posters.

There is an even more tragic side to the picture. Business organizers working from sunrise till midnight to create skilled labor from material not promising at the best, and where partial success was in sight, foiled by the greed and tyranny of the trades-union plunderbund. The true men in England have attempted vainly under the volunteer system to brace up a papier-mache population to meet a foe of steel and iron.

So the manhood of a land that still possesses plenty of red blood has at last revolted from the tiger claws of the labor union agitator and the velvet pads of the lolling single slacker. Conscription has come—conscription where it was most needed—compulsory service to administer the tonic that John Bull needs.

Great Britain thus opens another chapter in the world's epochal struggle between rival systems and opposing dynasties and interests, and in doing so has had to insert a leaf from the records of her strongest antagonist. The volunteer system did not show the spirit of England to be dead, only paralyzed. Over two million volunteers answered to the call, but among them were the too-old and the too-young, too large a proportion of married men and a considerable sprinkling of the hastily-examined and physically unfit. So that in reaching the men most desired, the young and strong, not engaged in any much more strenuous work than attending football matches and moving-picture shows and crooking elbows in public house bars, the volunteer system in England has completely broken down.

Public-spirited men of all ages and all occupations have already gone into the British armies in vast numbers—men no nation can afford to spare—to disappear somewhere in France or Eastern Europe, too many of them never to return. Now the able-bodied but poorly-spirited, having less personal responsibilities and so owing a greater duty to their country, men employed in trifling or nonessential work, will do perforce what as patriots they should have done through honor.

When a nation has hazarded its future in the bloody venture of hellish war conscription is the only fair system by which to fill its armies. The darlings, who supposed their mothers didn't raise them to be soldiers, and so would rather see England perish than strike a blow for her, will feel the indiscriminating hand of compulsory service, a hand that when the flesh is strong will see that the spirit is made willing. France in this respect has set her British ally an inspiring example.

And the labor-union bullies who curtailed the output of ammunition to satisfy the arbitrary laws of local lodges, and so allowed hundreds of their fellow-countrymen to perish for lack of powder, making their heroism a horror, the walking delegates and labor bosses already threatening domestic revolutions if their ghoulish greed is restricted, will at last be brought against a power stronger than their own, the aroused sentiment of a people resolved that their best sons shall no longer die in vain.

These, the conscription should gather in at the first draft, for though they will probably be useless in the trenches, at least they will be prevented from remaining a treacherous menace to their countrymen at home. What has been treated too leniently in the industrial centers of England becomes treason with the armies at the front. And the penalty for such treason is death.

What is the use of Britons from all over the world dying for England if the national life of England is allowed to die on its native soil? Conscription has come none too soon for England.

CLOSER COMBINATION.

The value of close combination between national units is well illustrated in the ability of Germany to carry on an exhaustive struggle for so long a time although practically shut off from her former commerce with the outside world. Centralization of government, such as is only possible under the autocracy of state Socialism or one-man rule—the German system is a combination of both—is the secret of the wonderful Teutonic teamwork.

In wise hands, and used benignantly, close combination is one of the greatest agents for advance of civilized people. Without it the cost of living would by this time have robbed life of its commonest comforts for millions of at present well-to-do people. In trade and commerce wise co-operation and close combination win markets and reduce the cost of production and distribution. How far this centralization should be carried in a purely democratic form of government is a problem for the United States to settle in the near future.

For there is a danger when government is overcentralized that the community will be saddled with a bureaucracy to rob it of its liberties. In view of general world antagonisms and the necessity of the United States being in a position to resist successfully hostile armed attacks, suggestions have not been wanting that our national government should be invested with more power and through this central authority the separate States should be more closely combined.

No doubt a greater uniformity in law throughout the United States would simplify many complex issues: woman suffrage, divorce, prohibition, for instance. In many cases State laws are divergent and confusedly conflicting. No such State legislation as the first Hiram Johnson Legislature attempted to enforce against the Japanese in California, thereby imperiling international relations, should be possible as the act of one unit in a closely combined federation of States. Probably, if national protection is ever to take practical proportions to accomplish that for which it is designed, extra powers for this end will have to be conferred on the central government in Washington.

Our various State militias could be brought to a much higher efficiency if they were more directly in contact with the United States War Office. Each State, whatever is decided upon, will jealously guard its own rights and privileges. We need not fear overcentralization. Our people generally are too intelligent to require any application of the state Socialism that has constructed the marvelous military and managing machine of Germany.

Unless we can attain an equally high standard of national efficiency through the liberal individualism assured us by our Constitution, we confess the principles of democracy to be foolish and its practice to be failure. So far, we see no reason for any such fear or any such confession. But as a solid, unhyphenated, one and indivisible American nation, ready to place the national flag above the rights of any one State, county, city or foreign sympathies, we can never be too solidly fused and welded into a centralized unit.

A CONFISCATORY ORDER.

The Wall Street Journal attacks editorially the ruling of the Railroad Commission of California ordering the Atchison company to rebuild its line through Temecula Canyon a distance of twelve miles. It characterizes it as "an astounding effort to drive foreign capital out of the State."

It will be remembered that this piece of road was, in the spring following its construction, washed out by floods. It has been rebuilt and washed out until "continued washouts kept maintenance cost at such a high figure as to make it practically impossible to operate," and the railroad company abandoned it.

The commission bases its right to order the constant rebuilding of this twelve miles of road upon Section 36 of the California Public Utilities Act. Whether such rebuilding would or would not ultimately bankrupt the road the commission declares with brutal frankness is a matter "of no importance to the commission."

The Wall Street Journal says: "Under this confiscatory law, and the way the commission thus interprets it, the Atchison railroad, regardless of its mortgage obligations, or of its charter, or of its powers under interstate law, or of its credit or the opinion of highly qualified engineers, can be compelled to build, in territory unsuitable for railroading, any lines the commission chooses to designate if a sufficient number of people, who do not find one penny for such construction, or know anything about engineering, say they want the lines."

The action of the Board of Public Utilities is confiscation of property without pretense of justice and without due process of law, and it is unlikely that the Supreme Court of the United States will sustain it.

The Wall Street Journal adds: "Consider the folly of it, so far as all real public interest is concerned; and the litigation which is imposed upon a railroad obviously only too anxious to serve its patrons, the public, if physical conditions, credit and reasonable profit only make it possible."

Kentuckians' Love for Home.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] Needless to say, this story was told by a Kentuckian. A visitor to heaven was being shown around by Saint Peter. After he had made a circuit and admired the streets of gold, and the singing birds, and the beautiful flowers, and was about to go out the gate again, he noticed a group of men over in the corner tied together, looking very disconsolate.

"Why, who are those men over there?" he asked Saint Peter in surprise.

"Oh," said Saint Peter, "those? Those are Kentuckians."

"But what are they chained up for?" asked the visitor.

"We have to keep them tied up," said Saint Peter, frowning. "If we didn't, they'd all go right back."—[Philadelphia Public Ledger.

THE FREIGHT EMBARGO A NATIONAL MENACE.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES]

BY CHARLES HENRY DAVIS, C.E.,

President National Highway Association.

THE recent sudden and arbitrary embargo on export freight by some of the trunk-line railroads terminating at New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore warns us sharply of our "unpreparedness" even in times of peace within our borders. Arbitrary is the proper term, for, had it been the act of government-owned railroads, there would have been instant upheaval of our people and of far-reaching effect.

But this freight congestion is not something new to the public. It occurs and reoccurs at every advent of our great revivals in business activity. Always at such times our railroads are unable to properly handle the business offered to them. Why should they? They are not responsible for the care and well-being of the nation. They are privately owned and run for private profit, and not primarily from the point of view of the public good.

This is no criticism of them, their owners or their management. It is a plain fact, due to the conditions of their existence and their growth. Any manufacturer knows that his plant can only be profitable when run as near to its maximum capacity as possible and for as long as possible. The smaller his margin of expansion the more constant and larger his profits. He cannot afford to have a large, idle plant on his hands. Such a plant would mean great losses. So it is with the railroads. Obviously under private ownership such conditions will always exist and will grow worse as our population increases. The railroads have no inducement to provide for the prompt handling of excessive and abnormal demands upon them that they know only will last a short time.

This being true in times of peace and likely to continue so, is it not obvious that in times of war we would find ourselves absolutely without the needed transportation facilities. Such preparedness is the rock upon which battles are won or lost. The French in 1870 were defeated largely for that reason. Troops held for days where they are not supposed to be, without support or supplies and food, become mobs, and mobs cannot fight. Battles cannot be successfully fought unless the machinery of transportation for men, horses, artillery, equipment, ammunition, supplies and food is on time like clockwork. There can be no waiting, no delays, and promptness in execution depends primarily upon transportation. But our privately-owned railroads cannot be required to spend any moneys for purposes of military defense. Our laws do not even provide or permit such preparation. Our railroads, their location, equipment, tracks and terminals have in no manner been devised with any thought whatever as to utility in time of war. No railroad owner or manager feels any responsibility, therefore, and rightly. Our government cannot even require it of such private capital and property. Such is our pitiable plight should we be compelled to call on our railroads for a service for which no preparation has been made. And it cannot be done in a day or a week or a month or, in fact, within several years. You cannot build a toy candy factory and over night equip it for some real work of the world!

And how well equipped do we find our country in highway transportation facilities? They are worse than our railroads. And yet our highways should supplement our railroads, as well as perform their natural functions. Our system of roads could be made to help out our railroads, both in times of peace and times of war. There is, however, but one way to attain these results within any reasonable cost and time. Just as town or township roads were unable to properly serve a county, so county roads were found inadequate for State needs, and now we are seeing that State roads cannot serve the nation.

We should have a four-fold system of highways—national, State, county and town or township—before we can possibly hope for a road system that will serve our people. As these roads are paid for by the people, owned by the people and free to all the people, they can be located and built primarily to best serve the people, both in peace and in war.

Our States do not permit their counties to dictate the terms and conditions under which State highways shall be built. Our States would scout the idea of leaving to their counties the building of State highways passing through said counties. The nation cannot permit the States to dictate the terms and conditions upon which our national highways shall be built. The nation cannot permit the States to build them piecemeal. The nation must do the work, pay for it and afterwards maintain our great system of national highways that they may "exist to favor, foster and further the development of good roads everywhere in the length and breadth of the United States of America."

RIPPLING RHYMES.

CHILDISH JOYS.

As I went forth, on my ten toes, a snowball hit me on the nose, and knocked that organ out of place, a-spreading it all o'er my face. "My blessings on the merry boys," I cried, "and on their harmless joys! I'd gladly sacrifice a nose, out here among the virgin snows, to see the children glad and gay, as I was on a bygone day. If I had noses by the score, I'd see them all bunged up and sore, if that would make the children glad, and this gray world less grim and sad." And while I spoke these words of cheer, a snowball hit me in the ear. It jarred my spinal column loose, and addled all my vital juice. I leaned against a fence and said, "What though that snowball split my head? Some boy was filled with utter glee, when he let drive that shot at me, and if my ruined dome of thought some comfort to a kid has brought, it surely does not ache in vain; not futile is its grist of pain." And as I feebly tottered by, a snowball hit me in the eye. WALT MASON.

FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

Gift of Thoroughfare by Rimpau Estate for Wilshire Boulevard Institution Means that Work Will be Started in April and Finished in February.

The gift, by the Rimpau estate, of a 100-foot thoroughfare from Wilshire boulevard to Pico street just west of the New Los Angeles High School site, announced yesterday, means that work on the new school will begin early in April. Plans and specifications have been prepared for several months but due to the deadlock between the City Engineer, the Board of Education and representatives of the Rimpau and Mullen estates regarding the construction of roads the Board of Education has refused to open negotiations for work on the school site. It is planned to have the new school, which is to cost approximately $450,000, open in February, 1917.

As a condition to the $55,000 gift of the thoroughfare site the Board of Education agreed to purchase the four and a-half acres of the Rimpau estate adjoining the present sixteen-acre school site. The additional acreage costs approximately $20,000 and is needed for a campus and athletic field.

TAKE LONG CHANCES.

Many Drivers are Reckless of Danger at Railroad Crossings.

Five hundred and twenty-five vehicle drivers on the Pacific Coast did their best to participate in railroad crossing accidents during the two years just ended, according to a report issued yesterday by the Southern Pacific. The report is based on the number of crossing gates broken during the two years.

Recently the Southern Pacific had observations taken at crossings in this State to ascertain the degree of caution exercised by drivers in approaching tracks. These show that of the 17,021 motor vehicles observed, 11,836 drivers, or 69 per cent., looked neither way before crossing the tracks, 2.7 per cent. looked one way only, and but 27.3 per cent. looked in both directions. The almost incredible number of 3301, or 19.3 per cent., of the total observed ran over the crossings at a reckless rate of speed, while but thirty-three drivers stopped their machines before crossing the tracks.

WINS IMPERIAL RANCH.

A seven-year fight for the possession of 160 acres in the vicinity of Imperial has finally been decided by the Secretary of the Interior in favor of Harry T. Riddle, whose right to the farm was disputed by Carrie P. Crawford and the State of California, the question of lieu land script entering into the contest. The first decision was in favor of Riddle. An appeal was taken and the commissioner of the General Land Office confirmed the judgment of local officials. Another appeal to the Secretary of the Interior resulted not only in affirming the former opinion, but denying the further right of appeal on a rehearing.

IMPERIAL VALLEY.

Twenty-acre Tracts and Upwards on Easy Terms.

The new Empire, the present home of scores of prospering people, the coming home of thousands more, because of its immense potential enterprises; its wonderful crop production, its sure income-making possibilities for the small rancher, horticulturist, dairyman, hog and poultry raisers is—Imperial Valley.

Undoubtedly there is no better part of America where rapid success in farming or horticulture may be assured than in this section. With the right climate, the richest known soil, and an abundance of water, crops of every kind are being, and can be, profitably raised.

The chief products of the valley at present are alfalfa, oats, barley, wheat, corn, cotton, all the melons and squashes, grapes, apricots, olives, oranges, grapefruit, lemons, dates, pomegranates and all the vegetables.

Eight tons of alfalfa per acre in eight months are raised here. Stock graze on the fields the other four months. Wheat averages near to 40 bushels, corn up to 80 bushels and barley 60 bushels an acre.

Five-year-old citrus trees yield the orchardists $750 an acre.

Honey already brings in over $150,000 a year to beekeepers.

Poultry is a never-ending source of profit and hundreds of thousands of dollars are made from chickens, turkeys and eggs. The dry, clear climate makes turkey-raising an easy and profitable industry.

Hogs, cattle and in fact all live stock are raised in Imperial Valley to a state of perfection. They grow larger and put on weight rapidly, due to the extra nourishment in the feed and to the all-year-round climatic conditions.

The above is a synopsis only of what may be done on Imperial lands from a dollars and cents point of view. As to the social features, they are "second to none." Although the population is of recent residence, churches, schools and societies, fraternal, economic and educational, are already flourishing. A county free library was established a few years since and has a bountiful collection of all works on its shelves.

Located at different points in Imperial Valley are flourishing towns populated with wide-awake American citizens, who are all prospering and adding to their incomes from month to month.

All the towns are supplied with gas, electricity and every other modern city convenience. The telephone system reaches to all points of the valley, putting the rancher and his wife in constant and immediate touch with business men or merchants in the city.

Hotels, stores, factories, mills and plants are growing up all around the section. Idle days are unknown; everyone is alert and industrious.

One industry which is attracting the attention of the world is the cotton industry of Imperial county. The finest, longest and strongest cotton grown, surpassing the famous cotton of old Egypt, is raised in Imperial Valley, cotton which secured the first prizes at the San Francisco International World's Fair. Thousands of acres are being planted to cotton, the average yield reaching over a bale to the acre. Cotton gins, cotton compresses and oil mills are built to take care of the product. Every variety of cotton is grown in this section and a special variety known as Durango is proving a revelation to the people interested in this big industry.

Throughout Imperial county the Southern Pacific Land Company is offering for sale lands in tracts of twenty acres and upwards, at reasonable prices and on easy terms. For further particulars inquire of C. E. Wantland, 410 Grosse Building, Los Angeles, or Southern Pacific Land Company, 801 Flood Building, San Francisco.—[Advertisement.

CALLS SEVERANCE ECONOMIC CRIME.

FOR WHICH THE PUBLIC WOULD HAVE TO PAY DEAR.

Expert Files Deposition with the Railroad Commission, Discussing Proposed Separation of Southern California Edison Company Properties.

"To separate these properties is an economic crime," says Samuel Insull, president of the Commonwealth Edison Company of Chicago, the world's greatest light and power concern, in a deposition filed with the State Railroad Commission Wednesday by the Southern California Edison Company.

"Economically it cannot be possible," says the deposition, "that any one would recommend that the city and country business should be separated and put into two distribution systems. It would result not only in waste, but it would result finally in the community having to pay for it.

"When I speak of the community," continues the deposition, "I do not speak of any one municipality; I mean the community served by the Southern California Edison Company at the present time. They would either have to pay for it outside of Los Angeles by increased rates, or on the inside of Los Angeles by increased taxes, or by a combination of both. In some form or other it must be borne by the community."

Estimating total severance damages as $10,945,039.87, Mr. Insull says in his deposition: "I divide the damage into four different items: the investment damage due to the loss of diversity; the operating damage due to the loss of diversity; the fixed charges on idle investments; and the damage due to the difference between 9 per cent. net return on investment obtainable without severance and continuation of present basis."

Discussing these elements of damage and giving his reasons for including them, Mr. Insull stated that from his study of Southern California conditions he found that Los Angeles has a very large demand for electricity for lighting purposes in the winter months; that in the territory outside of Los Angeles there is a very large demand for electricity for pumping and agricultural purposes in the summer months; and that during the summer months the demand for electric current in the city is very much smaller than in the winter, which creates a condition of diversity.

A deposition of Henry Carter Adams, professor of political economy and finance at the University of Michigan, on the "going" value of the Edison plant was read yesterday. This value, independent of all others, is fixed by Prof. Adams at $4,606,555.

ASIATIC ENIGMAS.

Children's Exhibit in Exposition Park Museum is a Wonderland.

"Foodstuffs of unimaginable derivation, utensils of enigmatic form, emblems incomprehensible, of some mysterious belief; strange masks and toys that commemorate legends of gods or demons, odd figures, too, of the gods themselves, with monstrous ears and smiling faces—all this you may perceive as you wander about—"

These words written by Lafcadio Hearn in 1903 aptly describe the children's exhibit at the Asiatic department of the Exposition Park museum. From the straw rope of legendary origin, that hangs over the doorway to "keep out demons," to the straw sandals made for Korean baby feet, from the gay New Year bough suspending bright little figures of those same gods, "with monstrous ears and smiling faces," to the fascinating collection of "foodstuffs of unimaginable derivation" in the center case—from the wonderful pair of Baial birds' nests from India to charming little Master Jiro, the baby doll from Japan, everything is full of interest and delight. Visitors who are able to choose Thursdays or Fridays are apt to find members of the Asiatic committee "at home" to all, and the "personally-conducted" tours of the tiny gallery are a veritable visit to Asia.

JEWISH SERVICES.

The present inhabitants knew nothing of the construction of these remarkable works, and the entire subject of their existence has been puzzling explorers ever since the island was discovered.

Capt. Gillan has been a seafaring man nearly all his life. He was chosen to pilot the good ship Mana, which was built especially for the trip, because of his record for carefulness and superior ability as a navigator.

Probably there isn't a woman who won't own to a longing for a handsome silk sweater—unless she is fortunate enough to possess one already! Our purchase of a sample line permits us to offer the very choicest qualities and styles at just about half what you usually find these exquisite things priced:

Smartest Models
Norfolks, V-neck or collars, with sashes; styles with half belts and others with no belts at all.
Sheer and dainty in line, yet firm and durable, no garment is smarter for Country Club and sports wear.

The Rich Colors
Fashion demands that these garments be made in vivid colorings—here they are—purple, American Beauty, greens, blues light and dark, white, and the color combinations that look so well.
Prices are now $10.00, $12.50, $13.50 and up to $22.50—and any one is good value at double!

In view of the very low prices in force, we cannot accept any telephone or C. O. D. orders, nor can we exchange garments, or refund purchase price.

MOVEMENTS IN SOCIETY.

MRS. ROBERT D. FARQUHAR, who leaves shortly for New York to join her sister, Mrs. Frederick MacMonnies and the latter's illustrious husband, who is one of the most noted sculptors of the country, yesterday was honor guest at an informal luncheon given by her mother, Mrs. John Percival Jones, at the West Adams-street home of the hostess.

Only a few intimate friends were invited, including Mrs. James Soutter Porter, Mrs. Ernest Quinan, Mrs. Herbert Langmuir, Mrs. Conway Evans and Mrs. Fielding J. Stilson.

Mrs. MacMonnies, whom Mrs. Farquhar will visit, was Miss Alice Jones, a former popular belle, and when she arrives in Los Angeles to visit her mother her time will be divided with Mrs. Farquhar and the Roy Jones household in Santa Monica. Mrs. Farquhar is too tay in the East until the MacMonnies are ready to return with her.

Back to School.

Hancock Banning, Jr., left yesterday to resume his studies at Cornell, after a gay holiday vacation spent at home. On Tuesday Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner took thirty of young Hancock's friends to the Crags Country Club for luncheon and a matinee dansant in farewell to the popular college boy, and his entire visit was a round of extremely happy affairs.

On account of the illness of Mrs. Joseph Banning, Miss Eleanor Banning and her cousin, Miss Katherine, who were to go as guests of their uncle, Capt. Banning, on an extended eastern trip, including in its itinerary Washington and New York, have postponed the trip until later in the winter.

George Hugh Banning returns to Berkeley on Monday.

Miss Clark Marries.

At the home of Mrs. Susan Goodwin, No. 823 West Seventeenth street, on Wednesday afternoon was solemnized the marriage of Miss Abigail B. Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke of McPherson, Kan., who are wintering in Southern California, and Paul L. Machette of Portland. Rev. Dr. Fishburn of the West Adams Presbyterian Church officiated. Only immediate relatives witnessed the ceremony, which was followed by a dinner of ten covers at the Clark Hotel, the table being artistic in violets and pink rosebuds. A bride's cake was conspicuous in the appointments.

The bride wore her going-away tailleur of gray broadcloth with blouse of white Georgette crepe trimmed in coral and silver. Gray boots and a chic white hat completed the outfit.

The Clarke family has frequently visited Los Angeles and have many friends who will learn of the marriage with special interest. Mrs. Goodwin is a close friend who has entertained them often as house guests.

Ten Years Wed.

In honor of the tenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Grunn, a merry throng of guests were entertained on Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Kopp. Many toasts and felicitations were extended the young couple, and operatic selections by Mrs. Marie Tiffany and Mme. Emilie Cole-Ulrich gave added enjoyment. The host also sang some German songs. The rooms were cleared for dancing and supper was served. The guests numbered Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Blanchard, Mr. and Mrs. Juan De la Cruz, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Selby, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Simonsen, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Ulrich, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Tandler, Mrs. Wilcox and Joseph Greenbaum, in addition to the complimented guests and hosts.

Her Visit Concluded.

Mrs. Edith Newell Van Sittert has returned to San Diego, after a pleasant holiday visit in the parental Thomas N. Newell home on South Mariposa street. Mrs. Van Sittert was accompanied by her daughter, Marjorie. During the stay of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Newell entertained at several dinners, a dance and picnic.

Newly-weds Return.

Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Willis are back from their honeymoon trip, spent at the Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside. They were married Christmas Day at the Second Presbyterian Church, by Rev. Joseph R. Compton and Rev. E. B. L. McClelland. Miss Ruth Larimer was bridesmaid and Carl Ahrends best man.

Mrs. Willis was Miss Gladys Larimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Larimer, and a graduate of the Los Angeles High School and State Normal, while the groom is the son of Judge and Mrs. Frank R. Willis and himself a prominent local attorney.

In New York.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Newman are in New York at the Hotel Astor for a visit of several weeks, combining business and pleasure.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Miss Mary Shaw, the well-known Ibsen student, suffragist and theatrical star, has been secured as a luncheon speaker today at the Friday Morning Club, following the literary hour with Djan G. Mukerji, whose interesting topic is Persian poets.

Mr. Mukerji is a Bengal Brahmin. He is lecturer on Oriental literature at Stanford University and has been conducting private classes in East Indian philosophy and literature among a group of society women of Los Angeles for more than a year. He is especially familiar with his subject for today.

Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith is to be speaker at the Bible literature department of the Ebell Club this morning in the absence of Mrs. W. S. Bartlett. Mrs. Goldsmith will give a programme on poetry of the Bible and will read three of the Psalms of David and some excerpts from Job, which she considers more wonderful dramatically than any of the modern literature. Incorporated in her lecture wherein the spiritual is to predominate she will discuss the Christ-motif of Jerome K. Jerome's "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," one of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson's leading plays and two of Charles Rand Kennedy's dramas, the "Servant in the House" and the "Terrible Meek."

California Congress of Mothers.

The Los Angeles district, California Congress of Mothers, has issued a call for a meeting of presidents, officers and chairmen of Parent-Teacher Associations to be held in the Times Building, Saturday, the 15th inst., at 10 a.m. The day will be given to discussion of plans for making the entire work more effective, and there will be department round tables in the afternoon. Coffee will be served by the Los Angeles Federation to those bringing lunch.

Worthy Organization of Girls.

The Hollywood Girls' Auxiliary of the Children's Hospital met Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Marian McPherron and elected the following officers for the year: Mrs. William Johnston, president; Miss Esther Fry, vice-president; Miss Lulie Beal Beattie, corresponding secretary; Miss Arnie McPherron, recording secretary; Miss Gertrude Hovey, treasurer; Committee on Membership, Misses Marian McPherron Gladys Percy and Irene Kelley; press, Misses Mabelle Lewis, Esther Roen and Mrs. De Ver Gray.

There was great enthusiasm for the society vaudeville which the girls are planning for tomorrow night in Wilcox Hall. Dancing will follow the programme. Mrs. William Johnston is chairman of programme, with Misses Gladys Percy, Marian McPherron and Gertrude Hovey; Mrs. De Ver Gray, chairman of decorating, with Misses Arnie McPherron, Hazel Welch and Ruth Harper; candy, Miss Lulie Beal Beattie chairman and Mrs. Orville Routt, Misses Esther Fry, Mabelle Lewis and Maude McLellan; ushers, Miss Frances Parker, chairman.

Los Angeles Travel Club.

Mrs. Harry J. Slater will talk on the new community property law before members of the Los Angeles Travel Club and their guests this afternoon, in room No. 302 Trinity Auditorium, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

For the Million Club.

Tomorrow evening at the Friday Morning Clubhouse, the beautiful mystery play, "Eager-Heart," will be given a public presentation under the auspices of the Million Club. Miss Harriet C. Palmer, who is teacher of expression in the South Pasadena High School, will direct the production. The "Gloria in Excelsis" will be sung by a hidden choir of fifteen voices during the play. The scene is laid in the first humble home open to Mary, Joseph and the Child, after leaving the stable. The lines are lofty and the whole idea of the play is service. No player's name can be printed and only a nominal fee of 25 cents to cover expenses of production is charged.

Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, president of the club, will hold a reception after the play, with her old officers and those newly elected. Patronesses represent educational circles, churches, D.A.R., Parent-Teachers, and U.D.C. societies and all women's clubs. Hostesses assisting are, Mmes. W. W. Stilson, E. R. Brainerd, D. C. McCan, Edward Winterer, Charles Richmond, E. J. Brent, Ralph M. Burdick, Charles E. Sebastian, C. F. Sayer, W. S. Bartlett, C. E. McKeag, C. F. Hann, Robert Brain, C. H. Peterson, Mattison H. Jones, J. A. Rickard, C. Fur, Fred B. West, C. F. Ward, Thomas F. Cook, Ross R. Hutchinson, Estella Lawton Lindsay, J. F. Hartman, Margaret Mumford, C. John Donovan, D. F. Hatten, J. M. Black, G. W. Kelsey, J. Patterson Moffatt, C. H. King, Florence Howard, A. R. Belton, E. R. Hardin, Katherine Wheatley, Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith, George Bush and Miss N. Updyka.

MINISTER MARRIES.

Bride and Groom Past Their Seventieth Birthdays.

Three score years and ten may be the allotted span of life in less-favored portions of the globe, but not in Southern California, according to the Rev. William Sterling, D.D., and his bride, who until yesterday was Mrs. Elizabeth Grandin. The mystic age of 70 is just the period of vigorous maturity, when youth's rashness has been tempered by the calm reflections of a few added years, according to this happy couple, who ought to know, since each of them recently celebrated a seventieth birthday anniversary.

The marriage, which is the culmination of a long and cordial friendship, took place at the home of the bride's nephew, E. P. Johnson, Jr., No. 333 West Twenty-eighth street. Dr. George Finley Bovard, president of the University of Southern California and a close friend of Dr. Sterling for many years, performed the wedding ceremony. Only a few of the closest friends and relatives were present.

Dr. Sterling is well known in Southern California, where he has held several important pastorates in the Methodist Episcopal Church. For six years he was district superintendent of the San Diego district. He is a graduate of Syracuse University.

CLOSING UP WORK.

The Federal grand jury yesterday cleared up the odds and ends of the July term of the local court, and will submit a final report to Judge Trippet today and be discharged. he case against Henry Lee, a young Chinese, charged with having smoking opium in his possession, was heard yesterday.

Santa Fe Announces New Time Table.

effective January 9. The extra fine, extra fast, extra fare Santa Fe de Luxe will be operated for the fifth season, leaving here 6:00 p.m. Tuesdays.

AT THE THEATERS.

Morosco.

The curtain will rise on the Oliver Morosco Company (heretofore the Burbank Company) at the Morosco Theater, Sunday afternoon. The popular organization will appear in the big Cohan and Harris success, "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

The play is a dramatization of Earl Derr Biggar's novel of the same name, and while on the surface it appears to be pure melodrama, there is a surprise finish which places it in the comedy class. Florence Rockwell, Edmund Lowe, Lillian Elliott, James Corrigan, Grace Travers, Frank Darien, David Butler, Billie Boland and others have excellent roles.

Hippodrome.

The headliner on next week's big bill at the Hippodrome opening Monday, will be the Five Musical Verdis in an exotic revelry of songs, strings and brass, aptly termed "In the Garden of Harmony Land."

Others will be the jolly Josephine Gassman and her pickaninnies in plantation songs and dances; May Nannery and company in "Father's Way;" Longfeather, the Indian, accompanied by Lottie James; Tom Weiss, the "Enchilada man;" Ames and Corbett, novelty steppers, and Grace Darney, the athletic girl.

Republic.

The big combination bill, with the vaudeville end, headlined by Madame Mizpah Selbini and company, who bills herself as "the cleverest woman in vaudeville," and with the film end headlined by Lillian Lorraine, late star of the Follies, in "Should a Wife Forgive?" a sensational film drama, is attracting large audiences to the Republic this week. Next week an all-feature bill will be seen, with the special first-run feature photoplay "Love Unchained," starring Lyda Borelli, who won fame on the local screen by her sensational acting in "The Naked Truth." Among the vaudeville features for next week are Cook and Oatman, refined comedy exponents and singers; Charles Terris and company, presenting "The Preacher and the Man," and Mumford and Thompson in an act called "Humorosities."

CABLES OVERCROWDED.

The Western Union Telegraph Company announces that, owing to temporary shortage of facilities, it will be necessary to suspend for a few days the handling of trans-Atlantic deferred messages. Every effort will be made to restore deferred service and cable letters at the earliest moment, and the public will be advised as soon as conditions permit the restoration of these services. The suspension of deferred service by other trans-Atlantic cable companies some days ago has resulted in a flood of deferred messages to Western Union cables, and it is necessary in order to protect the company's regular patrons and its own expedited service to temporarily suspend all but the regular full paid service.

Fingering Finery.

AMONG THE STORES AND AMIDST THE SHOPS.

Up and Down Our Dazzling Streets, Where Dame Fashion's Shopping is Daily Done.

Now is the time to buy!

Canned fruits are high and, according to the California Fruit Growers' Association, they are going higher. Canned tomatoes are very expensive, as the pack was very light this year and the demand great. The emergency shelf should be stocked before the season, when fresh-grown vegetables are scarce and canned goods in even greater demand than now, and prices higher in consequence.

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away" is an old saying borne out by science and practical application. No food is better for health than apples. According to latest government reports, there were in cold storage in the United States on December 1 5,000,000 barrels of apples. This total is about 500,000 more than on the same date last year. In California, Washington and Oregon the reverse was true, as great quantities of apples from the Pacific Coast have been shipped to the East and Middle West during the past three months. It may be said that no finer apples are grown anywhere in the world than right here in California in the district around Watsonville.

Practical Suggestion.

To prevent rust from accumulating in deep baking pans, drop into them after washing, a little olive oil and rub it carefully along the seams and into the corners.

Spring Harbingers.

Some call it millinery, but even so, it is the first harbinger of spring and as usual this first "nip" as it might be called—if a swallow is called summer—is to be found in the highest class millinery department in town. Guess and guess again and guess seven times if you wish, and still remain on Broadway.

But what I wished to tell you was of some fads and features which the millinery burgeoning of spring brings forth. Newest of all, is the "straw" formed from strands of crepe! The coloring is simply adorable in many of these crepe "straw" creations. One especially was in that delicate, yet strong, blue which I would term plumbago, because of its presentation of the verisimilitude in shade of the plumbago flower. (Now do not confuse this with the ailment which bears a similar name—as did a small child of whom I know!) This adorable crepe hat of blue is set round with formal roses and leaves, the tones of which harmonize perfectly with that especial blue. A girlish face would be beyond resistance, when framed in this charming hat. Some of the crepe productions are faced with straw, and others reverse the matter and have a crown of straw and facing of the woven crepe. Color, color, everywhere characterizes the new millinery; and the colors are far from usual or hackneyed. Every known color and some which have been invented by the fairies, has been pastelled to meet the demand for the softer tints. For, you must know—if you will pass as well-informed—that the pastel shades will have the field almost wholly to themselves during the coming season. There will, of course, be hats of black and the omnipresent ones of white, but these which have for seasons past arrogated to themselves the entire range of millinery, will at last realign in favor of something more decided.

Ornamental.

It is seldom that one sees a catalogue so pretty as to tempt one to retain it upon one's table or desk to look at again and again and to show to friends. This is true, however, of that booklet of rare carved ivories from the Swiss Alps. The cover is as pretty as a picture and is in fact a picture of the Matterhorn in colors and it glimpses, also, the scenery in the vicinity of the great snowy mountain. The story told as to the work of the carvers in the fastnesses of the far off mountains is as interesting as the booklet is beautiful; hence its permanent value as a visitor upon one's desk or shelves. And best of all is the news contained within the covers: A Los Angeles house has obtained the output from one of the finest artists in ivory in those mountains. Artist is exactly the proper word for the producer of these treasures, for not only is the carving perfect in its representation of the floral forms, but the coloring—done by a secret process—is as absolutely correct. Think of obtaining here, such articles! The war has done us the favor of securing them to us.

Said in Silver.

Your always wanteds in silver may be obtained today at such prices as will place surplus silver in your purse for future bargaining—provided you hasten to that big store on lower Broadway to take advantage of opportunity which will there be knocking. Silver bowls on standards, that lovely pierced ware, and many other equally attractive articles will be obtainable at fractional prices of "regular."

Never Say "Can't."

"I simply cannot afford to give Christmas presents"—how often we hear people say this; and yet, one of the prettiest, most interesting gifts I saw this season cost, I'll warrant, but a very few cents. It was a hand-lettered and hand-illuminated greeting upon a sheet of paper enclosed in an envelope which was enriched by a brilliant scarlet line following the shape of the envelope, and the address was hand lettered. Possibly everyone may not be able to do such work, but there is always something which can be done, if the will is there—something individual and interesting and costing but a very trifle.

Your Complexion.

For the sake of that bloomfulness which is dear to the heart (and the face) of women, begin now, that the holiday eatery is over, to give heed to your complexion. Do this not only by means of unguents and preventives against the rough winds of spring, but also by means of diet. Forswear sweets—save the few which you feel as though you could not go without, and also place yourself under restriction as to heavy meat dishes, for awhile at least. Use such vegetables as agree with you, and be certain to have upon the menu plenty of green salads such as lettuce, romaine and celery, never forgetting the onion and the garlic, which, above all else, benefits the complexion. There is quite as much beauty to be extracted from the juices of the foods you eat as from that fabled "beauty sleep," although this is not to be despised.

How to Handle Your Hands.

Have you observed that when the day is cold and rainy you are apt to find your hands rough and chapped? Have you ever thought that this may be because of the gloves which you wear? AUTO'S PLACE IN CONFLICT.

Expert Discusses Machine's Place in War.

United States Dealers Should Give Support.

Auto Show Still Smashes All the Records.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—Alfred Reeves, manager of the new Automobile Chamber of Commerce, in charge of the automobile show here, gave the automobile man's view of what could be done in this country in time of war, at the banquet of the Society of Automobile Engineers, tonight.

He agreed with the other speakers in their statements that the automobile industry should take a large part in the country's programme of preparedness, and told the assembled manufacturers and engineers that they should be ready to show their loyalty by opening their factories to American army, navy and aerial officers.

"The factory representative here who hopes for support of this preparedness plan must be ready in ninety days from now to care for half a dozen engineers and an army officer when they come to his plant to receive instruction in gas engines such as are now used universally in the navy, the army and the aviation corps," he said. "There is need for industrial preparedness as well as for military and naval preparedness.

"Our government officials appreciate the great aid that automobiles will give in mobilizing armies. A torn-up railroad may delay the movement of troops for days, but properly handled, 240,000 automobiles in the State of New York alone can move a million men over the road at an average speed of thirty miles an hour, while in the handling of the wounded, reports from the other side indicate that the great American motor cars there have performed remarkable yeoman service in carrying wounded men from the firing lines to the base hospital at speeds which have saved thousands of lives."

Other speakers were Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, U.S.A., and Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy.

The automobile show is expected to break all records for attendance for any industrial exposition ever held in New York. The average attendance has been more than 25,000 daily so far, and the week's attendance is expected to go above 175,000.

Record shipments of motor cars continued during the month of December, according to reports of the traffic department of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. During that period there were 15,532 carloads of automobiles shipped, an increase of 140 per cent. over December, 1914, with 6378 carloads. Total carloads for the year 1915 will be approximately 200,000, as compared with 140,000 during the previous twelve months.

Already.

TROJANS HOLD A MUDDY PRACTICE.

BEGIN BASEBALL SEASON WITH LIGHT WORK.

Capt. Counts Appears in Overcoat and Muffler—Different Field will be Used Today—Several Football Men Out for Jobs—Harmony and no Recognition of Cliques.

Fifteen Trojans reported for the first Law School baseball practice at Bovard Field yesterday afternoon and were given to understand by Coach "Pat" Millikan that no favors would be shown nor cliques or bunches recognized.

"We're here to play ball," he said. "Nobody is going to make this team because he belongs to one bunch or another. The first fellow that crabs and goes around knocking because a member of his bunch did not make the team will be asked to turn in his suit. Mistakes have been made in the past. But we are going to pull together if it costs us all our stars. This is going to be a ball team."

LIGHT WORK.

The men did not attempt to do anything but play catch and run around about the field two or three times. Bovard Field was too soft and muddy for serious use. The practice today will be held on other grounds. Downey Playgrounds is apt to be the place.

Among those who reported for practice yesterday was Capt. Cad Counts in an overcoat and with a muff wound round his neck. He delivered a "Get-together-boys-address" in a husky voice. It was plain to see that Counts was down with la grippe. Later he excused himself. At last reports he had his feet in a tub of hot water and was pouring steaming lemonade down his throat by the bucketful. Counts believes in burning la grippe out of the system.

There were other old men also present. Clay Holloway was seen playing catch with Harry Hirsch. Stew Miller was also among those present and announced that he was out for second base.

Scow Curry, the demon tackle, is to try out for first base. Scow is said to be even better at glomming a pill than at smearing football players with Oregon reputations.

Three other football men are out for the team. They are Marxen, Dalin and Mallette. Marxen and Dalin are huskies and want to wear the mask. Mallette is an infielder. There will be many more than fifteen men out today. Everybody did not know of the practice yesterday and some were excused because they had to be elsewhere.

A.A.U. CONTESTS START SATURDAY.

The basketball schedule of the A.A.U. begins Saturday night with a game between the Orange Athletic Club and the Normal Hill quintette. This game was scheduled for Tuesday, but both teams preferred an earlier date. Eddie Hoch, coach of the Normal team, will be referee.

LINCOLN SALE IS FULLY COMPLETED.

LINCOLN (Neb.) Jan. 6.—The sale of the Lincoln Western League baseball club and franchise by Hugh L. Jones to the Lincoln Baseball and Amusement Company, a stock company, was formally completed today with the signing of the contracts by the directors of the new concern and Mr. Jones. The sale price of the club was announced at $12,500. George R. Stone, formerly a member of the St. Louis American League steam, now a banker at Coleridge, Neb., is the new president of the club.

"KING" COLE PASSES AWAY.

BAY CITY (Mich.) Jan. 6.—Leonard J. ("King") Cole, pitcher on the New York American League baseball team and formerly with the Chicago National League club, died at his home today.

"King" Cole made his record as a star twirler while a member of the Chicago Nationals under the management of Frank Chance. During the seasons of 1910 and 1911 he ranked among the leading pitchers of the league. In 1913 Cole went from Chicago to the Columbus American Association club. Later he was procured by Chance for the New York Americans.

In the winter of 1913-14 Cole planned to jump to the Buffalo Federals, but changed his mind and came to New York.

FOUR BASKET GAMES FOR NEXT TUESDAY.

Four games will be played in the A.A.U. basketball league next Tuesday evening. Julius Klawans, in charge of the organization, announces the following contests:

At Glendale A. C.—L.A.A.C. vs. Glendale A. C., unlimiteds; L.A.A.C. vs. Glendale A. C., 145 pounds. Referee, Sim.

EASTERN TENNIS DEMON PLAYS HERE SATURDAY.

G. M. CHURCH, one of the best-known tennis figures on the courts of the East, will appear in an exhibition match at the Hotel Virginia Saturday afternoon. He will be paired with Winnie Mace in a doubles match against one of the strongest teams here. It is probable that either Simpson Sinsabaugh and Cliff Herd or Nat Browne and Claude Wayne will be the opposing combination.

The pairing of Church and Mace brings up old memories for both. They were very prominent members of Princeton's strongest tennis team. Church has the distinction of winning the intercollegiate championship from Norris Williams of Harvard. For two years Church and Mace held the National intercollegiate doubles title.

When Mace left Princeton, he came West and the East forgot him. But Church just stuck around. The result has been that he is one of the best-known tennis players in the country and a familiar figure on all the courts of the East. It's a mighty poor tennis tournament on the other side of the Alleghanies that cannot point with pride to Church as one of the entries and make of him a feature in the finals.

This exhibition match with the two old Princeton teammates in the leading role is a happy afterthought of the Southern California Tennis Club's mid-winter tournament. Due to rains the finals were postponed until Saturday. Two finals, one in the singles, the other in the doubles, were hardly enough to complete the tournament. So knowing Church to be visiting here the feature match was added.

For the club's singles' title Eugene Warren and John McCormick are to play. Barber and Hahn of Stanford meet the Barker Brothers for the doubles cup. Hahn is worthy of mention for he is Pacific Coast singles champion.

Joyous.

FANS ARE HAPPY OVER CHANCE'S ACCEPTANCE.

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—The announcement of Frank Chance, the "peerless leader," as manager of the Los Angeles team has been hailed with delight by local baseball men. They look upon it as the biggest addition made to the Coast League ranks in many years.

"Greatest thing that could happen to the Coast League," was Henry Berry's comment. Jack Cook of Oakland was equally as enthused over securing such a national diamond figure for the local circuit. Rowdy Elliott, the transbay manager, and Walter McCredie of Portland, who are in town, welcome the Cub star into the fold.

While Chance will undoubtedly be a big drawing card, if he is fortunate enough to produce a winner, local fans are wondering what effect his presence at the head of the Angels will have on Harry Wolters, the crack outfielder, reporting to the club. It will be remembered that it was Chance who shipped Wolters from the big league two years ago when he took charge of the New York Americans. It is admitted that the Santa Clara star is still good enough for fast company, and he may hold it against Chance.

Friends of Wolters, however, are confident that he will join the Angels and give the best that is in him. The outfielder will naturally be a bit disappointed at not securing the managerial job, but he is too broad-minded a fellow to blame Chance for sending him back to the minors.

FOOTHILL TRACK COACH IS CHOSEN.

J. K. McNeeley has been chosen track and field coach of the Hollywood hillmen. He will have his squad out on the field at the beginning of next week.

Graham Moody, football coach, will give his entire time to handling the baseball team. Hollywood won the championship last year and will not be content without retaining the pennant.

DREW WORKS OUT TO GET READY FOR EASTERN TRIP.

HOWARD DREW was out at U.S.C. yesterday limbering up and getting ready for his trip east to compete in the National A.A.U. championships. The famous negro sprinter will not leave until the fifteenth of the month.

His workout yesterday was very light. He jogged up and down the field two or three times and took half a dozen starts. He said that he felt more like running than he has since he took sick, immediately after the close of the U.S.C. track season last year.

Drew is working on an S.P diner and his run lies between here and San Francisco. His work has given him but little chance to practice.

"Sundays are the only days I'm home," he said, "and I won't practice then. But I'll get down here next Wednesday and trot a little again. I expect to quit work about five days before going east. That will give me enough practice to be in shape."

Drew says that he may stay in the East only two or three months. He does not want to leave Southern California.

"I wish I had a job here in the city," he exclaimed, "where I could work day times and have the nights to myself. I would attend night classes at law school. But whether I have to stay out of college two or three years or not to make a living, I'm going to be a lawyer some day. And I'm coming back to this city, too."

While in the East Drew will run under the color of the Millrose Athletic Club.

According to the sturdy little sprinter a waiter on a diner can never become a millionaire, especially if two or three college athletic teams happen to go over the line.

"Before I began waiting table I used to grab knives and forks and spoons for relics just like the rest of them. But now every time I see a college man reach for a knife my heart stops beating and I gasp for air. The railroad company charges every piece of silver, table cloth and the like, up to the crew. So when we take a college bunch up, we just tell the cashier that we are not expecting any pay and that we'll consider it a great pleasure if he will tell us that we're not in debt to the company."

TRAP SHOOTING TO BEGIN ON SUNDAY.

The Los Angeles Gun Club will begin activities Sunday with a trap shooting programme. There has not been much doing at the club for several months, but regular events are now in order.

BATTLING CHICO IS OFF FOR SAN DIEGO.

Battling Chico left yesterday for San Diego, where he will fight Joe Murphy in a four-round bout tonight. Murphy seems to be about the best that San Diego can offer, but Chico believes that he can handle him.

VICTORIOUS HOME COMING.

PULLMAN (Wash.) Jan. 6.—The Washington State College football team, that defeated Brown University at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's Day, was met at the railroad station here today by all students of the college and the townspeople. Students took the places of horses and hauled the sleighs and bobsleds from the station to the college, where a reception was held. Every business house in Pullman was closed this morning in honor of the returning victors.

NEW FACES ON TRACK TEAMS.

Huns Start, Tigers and the Trojans Wait.

Old-time Champs are to be Among Missing.

Competition to be Close in All the Events.

The collegiate track season in the south started yesterday with Coach Stanton of Pomona giving the Huns their first real track practice, while Coach Fipal of Occidental and Manager Teschke of U.S.C. looked mournfully and idly down on muddy fields.

Coach Fipal had his cross-country men take a hike over the hills and faraway. But Teschke was plainly disgusted and said that there would be little or no track work until Coach Cromwell arrived on the scene next week.

Stanton at Pomona had his Huns jog around the track and take a few starts. A bunch of cross-country men bunched together like a hunt pack hiked across the Claremont hills.

The men that breast the tape winners this year are not going to be the ones that broke the string last season. Practically every race is to see an athlete whose name has done very little blazing finish first.

GONE.

Howard Drew, champion of the sprints, is gone. Fred Kelly, kingpin of the hurdlers, has served his four years of track competition. George Green, the sensational Hun quarter-miler, has taken himself and his fast pair of legs to California. The only races that will see the old-timers in evidence are the long distances.

In the field events the old-timers will be missed, but not nearly as much as in the dashes. Cookman and Bettinger of U.S.C. are lost to the pole vault. Kelly of U.S.C. and Metz of Pomona are out of the shot.

But in the place of those who are gone appear some formidable men. In the sprints there is Bradley of U.S.C., Stone of Pomona, Webster and Lupher of Occidental. Stone, Webster and Lupher are 10-second men. Bradley is a consistent 10 1-5 seconder. In the 220 are the same four.

To be true, none of these is a Howard Drew, who runs yards out ahead like a startled deer, but they will all come into the tape bunched and the outcome will be in doubt until the last few yards.

DUST SHAKERS.

In the 440 are Ohl, Kohler, Lupher of Occidental and Hughes of U.S.C. Ohl and Lupher formerly ran for Long Beach. Kohler ran for San Diego. Every one steps around the 51 mark.

In the half-mile the newcomers that threaten to shake the dust in the others' faces are Adtkinson of Pomona and George of U.S.C.

The mile will find two newcomers in Crippen of U.S.C. and Berry of Redlands. Crippen proved a sensation among the preps running for Poly, while Berry will be remembered as the high school boy from Redlands who broke the prep record in the mile and ran Beeble until the Anaheim boy fainted.

In the high jump both Webster of Occidental and Thomson of U.S.C. figure to go as high as either Creighton of Occidental or Creighton of U.S.C. Thomson was the Long Beach leaper last season.

THE VETS.

In the hurdles Kelly is gone, but in his place is Murray of Whittier. He promises to develop into almost as speedy a man as Kelly.

And in addition to these are many men such as Johnny Cook, Bill Anzin and Paul Pritchard of Occidental, the Sturges brothers of Pomona, Murray, Craig and Watson of U.S.C., who promise to furnish the newcomers some competition for the sake of old times.

COLTON STILL AT BASKET GAME.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COLTON, Jan. 6.—Contrary to report, Colton High School has not dropped basketball from its athletic calendar despite the fact that the locals lost to Corona in the initial game of the Citrus Belt League series.

Saturday the team will play Pomona High at Pomona and after that Chino, Ontario and San Bernardino. Coach Leonard is working overtime with the squad.

LARGE GUARANTY FUND ANNOUNCED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—A guaranty fund of $25,000 for a two-day spring and fall race meeting at Belmont Park was announced at the annual session today of the United Hunts Clubs. Harry Belmont was elected president of the organization.

CHANCE TO PLAY IN FIRST GAME.

The fever germs of baseball have taken hold of Frank Chance.

The P. L. last night stated that he would make his reappearance at first base in the opening game between Vernon and Los Angeles. This was in response to an insistent demand from the fans.

Chance is not in any sense a "playing manager," but he is not averse to getting back on the job for the first game of the season. He also will be seen in the role of pinch-hitter occasionally.

It is regarded as probable that Patterson, learning of Chance's intention, will decide to hold down first base himself in the opening game.

PRACTICE POLO PUT OFF; BEADLESTON COMES SOON.

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 6.—The practice game scheduled to be held today at Coronado by the polo players was called off at the last minute and will be played tomorrow. The next match game will probably be held Saturday. The line-up of the teams has not been decided yet.

Hugh Drury went to Riverside to play yesterday, but will return by Saturday. By that time Beadleston will have arrived from the East, it is said, though the date of the arrival of this star player has been set so many times and then postponed that it is always spoken of now with an "if" by the polo colony at Coronado. The fact that his horses are now here, however, means his early arrival.

ANNOUNCE DATE OF BIG AFFAIR.

ANNUAL TOURNEY COMING OFF IN FEBRUARY.

Riverside Greatly Encouraged by Victories Over Coronado—Four Teams Promise to Show up and Others are Being Treated With. Efforts Made to Bring Play Here.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 6.—February 15 to 22, inclusive, were the dates announced tonight at a meeting of the Riverside Polo Club for the big annual polo tournament to be staged on the local field.

The overwhelming victory won by the locals at Coronado's opening tournament has injected a world of pep into the players and they are out to surpass anything previously attempted.

FOUR SQUADS.

Four teams are already promised and assured—Cooperstown, which with the great Stevenson and Beadleston in the line-up, last year, won the first leg of the handsome Mission Inn trophy offered by Frank Miller of the Glenwood; Midwick, which won the first leg of the equally beautiful cup offered by Walter Dupee; Coronado, which did not appear last year, and Riverside.

OTHERS.

In addition to these four, correspondence has been started with San Mateo, winner of the Pacific Coast Circuit cup in 1914, and with Santa Barbara, to secure the entry of teams from those two clubs; and there is every probability that J. Langford Stack and the Fleischmans, members of the Chicago club already at Coronado, will enter a team under the Chicago colors, particularly if the circuit cup can be secured again for this year.

This cup must be played for on the field designated by the Polo Association Committee, and these "powers that be" have been written to and the request made that Riverside be honored.

That this tournament will be a big event in the polo world is a certainty and the Riverside club members are getting into action early in order to get the finest details into smooth working order.

WORLD MARKS ARE BETTERED.

TWO SWIMMING RECORDS FALL AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 2.—A pair of world's records were bumped out of the books tonight at the Illinois Athletic Club by Perry McGillivray and Michael McDermott of that organization. McGillivray broke the standing mark in the 40-yard swim when he covered the distance in 18 3-5s., while McDermott scraped one and three-fifths seconds off the 100-yard breast stroke with a card of 1m. 11 4-5s.

The new world's marks were made in the annual open swimming carnival of the Illinois Athletic Club. No score points were kept, but if the markers of the I.A.C. natators had been tabbed they would have speared the honors with ease.

McGillivray was the first to put a new page in the ledger. He beat Ken Hussagh to the wall in the 40-yard swim by less than an arm's length, such a skinny margin that the officials also figured that Hussagh had beaten the old world's mark. McGillivray got the best of the start with a long spring into the water and the advantage gained gave him the edge at the finish.

McDermott and A. F. Wickam of Sidney, Australia, dissolved partnership in holding the mark for the 100-yard breast stroke when McDermott set a new record tonight. This event was mainly a battle between McDermott and Herb Taylor of the Chicago Athletic Association.

McDermott led all the way, but it was because Taylor pressed him so hard that a new notch was made possible. Taylor also had the distinction of splashing the old mark, but his performance was overshadowed because of McDermott's work. McDermott also holds the record for the 200-yard swim.

All Set.

DATES OF BIG MEETS CHOSEN.

STATE AND SOUTHERN EVENTS ON Y.M.C.A. FIELD.

Two New Numbers Planned for Trackster—Javelin Throw will be Conducted as Well as a Relay for Ninth-grade Men—Van Patten Working Hard on the Plans.

The Southern California interscholastic track meet will be held on Y.M.C.A. Field April 1 and the State meet at the same place one week later, April 8. The announcement was made last night by Seth Van Patten, in charge of prep track affairs in the south.

Southern California has landed the State meet this year and great pains are being taken to make the affair one of the biggest successes in track history.

Two new events will probably be included in the local meet. One of them is the javelin throw and the other a ninth-grade relay.

Van Patten thinks that an event for the lower grade will get men interested in track when they first enter school and give more time for development. The relay will probably call for a four-man team, each covering 110 yards, and will be open to intermediate as well as high schools.

This year a neat silver cup will be given, in place of the usual banner, to the team winning the relay proper. Unique things in the way of place medals are being planned also.

To Save Time.

TENNIS TOURNEYS TO BE HELD IN CITY HEREAFTER.

THE Southern California Tennis Club will hold its next tournament, which will come some time in February, in this city. The courts of the Hotel Leighton in the Westlake district, have been practically selected for it.

Those in charge have already decided that the club cannot hold a successful tournament so far away as Long Beach. The players claim that they cannot afford to spend the time required to make the trip.

"Long Beach is too far away," complained one yesterday. "If a person is scheduled to play a match there, he might just as well figure on its taking the whole day. Going down to the beach, changing your clothes, playing the match and coming home again takes ten hours—just about. If we are lucky enough to play through a tournament a whole week is taken up. Those of us who have businesses to look after can't afford to go that pace.

"If the courts were only ten or fifteen minutes from Broadway, we could drop out there, play our matches and be back in the office, and at work inside of two hours."

Those in charge say if that is the way the players look at it they can have their tournaments twenty minutes from Broadway.

Henceforth the entrance fee must accompany the entry blank. In all past tournaments the player only paid his entry fee when going upon the court. The reason for the change is an honest effort to put an end to defaults. It is thought that if the players have already paid out their money, they will go through with the play just to get their money's worth. It is the plan employed in San Francisco.

The argument advanced against this is that the players, having to pay up on the spot, will not enter at all, fearing business or something else might interfere.

Interesting.

SIX-MAN TEAMS IN THE RAH-RAH CROSS-COUNTRY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLAREMONT, Jan. 6.—The first intercollegiate cross-country run ever to be held in Southern California will take place January 22 at Claremont, according to the decision reached by the managers of the various colleges forming the Southern California intercollegiate conference.

The only thing which remains before cross-country running is finally adopted as a regular intercollegiate sport is the official sanction of the faculty members of the Executive Committee, and this will probably be secured at their next regular meeting next Saturday.

The conference seriously considered adopting cross-country running last year, but the plan fell through on account of the early beginning of track season. The conference track coaches felt that there was not enough time between the Christmas holidays and the regular track season to bother with cross-country, so the plan was postponed until another year. At a recent meeting of the managers of the conference teams the feeling was unanimous that the race should be attempted for the first time this year, and the final details were agreed upon.

To Coach Stanton of the Huns has been left the task of drawing up the rules for the contest. It has been unofficially agreed that each school will be represented by a six-man team, with everybody eligible for competition except the freshmen. The run will be held over a four-mile course in all probability. Points will be scored by allowing one point for first place and an additional point for each succeeding place, the team running up the smallest total score winning the meet. Medals will be awarded for the men finishing first, second and third.

Coach Stanton is preparing this draft for presentation at the meeting of the league Saturday. It is based largely upon the rules governing the intercollegiate cross-country runs in the East, and will become the permanent set of rules governing the sport here in the south if the conference officials give their sanction to it.

Teams will be entered from Whittier, Redlands, Occidental and Pomona, according to the managers from those four institutions. Throop may enter a team at the last moment, but it is not probable. Only conference colleges will be eligible to enter, although special provision will be made for Arizona in case the desert university should decide to send a team to the Coast.

With the race but two weeks ahead the Huns are already at work in earnest preparing for the contest. The Sagehens feel that they have a certain prestige to uphold in any kind of distance running, because of their record in the past in the distance races, and will leave no stone unturned to produce a winning combination. Coach Stanton has posted a set of training rules for the men out for cross-country, calling for a two-mile practice jog three times a week. He will give his personal attention to the men within the next few days, during which regular track work will be partially put aside.

The Hun team will not be finally selected until three or four days before the race. Coach Stanton will pick his men after a practice run over the entire course, and the first six men to finish will be assured of places on the team.

Pomona is strong for cross-country running as an intercollegiate sport, and feels that by means of it a really strong bunch of distance men for track will be developed in Southern California.

BROWN CHOSEN TO REFEREE THE BOUT.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—Bill Brown has been named refere of the Coffey-Moran fight, to be held in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Billy Gibson, manager, made but one provision, that some sportsman, preferably a newspaperman, count the seconds in the case of a knockdown.

Brown refereed the last Coffey-Moran bout and it is claimed that he gave the decision to Moran in the third round after he had counted but seven seconds.

Joe Thomas of Los Angeles, once lightweight champion of California, will appear in the semifinal of the programme. He is to meet Paul Fredo.

BUNCH OF GAMES FOR SOLDIER TEAM.

WEST POINT (N. Y.) Jan. 6.—The army baseball team will play twenty-two games during the 1916 season, according to the schedule announced tonight. Saturday, May 27, has been set as the day for the game with the navy nine at Annapolis. This will be the only contest played away from the military academy.

BOWLING NOTES.

The Harris & Frank team lost the odd game to the Herald's on the Majestic alleys in a hard fought match. They bowled twenty-three pins more than their opponents. The match was well rounded throughout.

Young with high game, 214, and Farmer with high average of 191, were the features of the play.

Tonight the submarines U-50 will meet the Mariners in the Southern California, and on the Majestic alleys in the Commercial the Norwalk Tires will face the foul line with the Rose-Borah Clothiers. The scores:

The Standard Oil Company won two games from the U. S. Rubber Company and the Williams & Jensen Company took four from the Santa Fe R.R. in the Commercial League Wednesday.

The Northwest Mutual also won three games from the Hamburgers at the Palace alleys. Overstreet was high man, with 207 pins, an average of 182, in the Commercial League. In the Business Men's League, Wright was high man with total of 606, an average of 150. He also had high game for the night, with 210, which wins the special prize for the week. Score:

JUAREZ DESERTED BY MANY HORSEMEN.

EL PASO, Jan. 6.—Thirty-four horses left the Juarez track today to go to Tia Juana, and it is said that more than 100 have deserted since the 1st of December. The cause is dissatisfaction with the way that things are handled at Juarez.

The trouble started over a selling war between the rival stables on the track. It is said that crooked methods were employed in disposing of animals that won the selling races. The plant may be prematurely closed.

BIG TASK.

When Frank Chance took hold of the New York Americans in 1913 he was confronted with an amazing array of athletes and near-athletes. The few real players on the club were deeply involved in the intrigues, which had undermined the team for years, and were past reforming. The youngsters were willing, but were deficient in ability.

That spring the team trained at Bermuda. When the men took the field for the first practice, Chance was overwhelmed with amazement. It was a frightful collection of misfits.

"For the love of Mike how many scouts have been working for this club?" he asked the business manager.

"Only one," he was told.

Frank shook his head incredulously.

"I don't see how it was possible for one scout to find so many poor ball players in one year," was Chance's somewhat caustic comment.

SPECIALIST.

Arthur Irwin did the bulk of the scouting for the club. He recommended a surprisingly large number of players from the New England League. Trout streams were plentiful in that circuit, and Chance got a hunch that Irwin, who was extremely fond of reeling in the speckled beauties, was drawn there more by the lure of this sport than because the league offered unusual scouting possibilities. In other words, he was looking for fish rather than for athletes.

Chance, however, did not say a word until it was time for Irwin to go forth and look for talent. Then he backed the scout into a corner.

"According to reports from New England, fishing is extremely poor this season," said Chance. Irwin took the hint, and the following fall there were a few recruits from other sections. While of no great value, these at least added variety.

SIXTEEN MEN FOR M'CREDIE.

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—Walter McCredie, the Portland manager, is going to outdo his brother-managers in the Coast League by getting along next season with sixteen players. Harry Wolverton and some of the others thought they were cutting down quite a bit when they announced seventeen as the club roster, but McCredie says that sixteen is enough for him.

"I feel the same as Fielder Jones, who says, 'What's the use of having players around who can't work,'" declares the Portland chief.

"I am going to have two catchers, six pitchers, three outfielders, four infielders and one utility man. That's enough, and I will keep well under the $4500 per month limit set by the directors. It's easy enough to have one player who can fill in either the in or outfield. I would give anything for a fellow like Swede Risberg, but I think I have a man in Speas who can fill the bill."

CUBS AND WHALES WILL MERGE IN CORPORATION.

Million-dollar Combination will be Effected in Next Few Days—Value of Club has Increased in Marvelous Manner — New Owners do not Expect to Make Any Profit Out of the Venture During First Year.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—The value of the Chicago Cubs today is $1,000,000.

Within the next few days a new corporation will be formed, probably known as the Chicago National League Baseball Club. It will be the big merger of the former Chicago Federal League ball club and the Chicago National League ball club, the latter known as the Cubs, and the former as the Whales. The amount of stock in the new organization will be an even million dollars.

GREAT INCREASE.

Ten years ago the value of the Cubs was a little over $100,000.

It was just ten years ago that Charles W. Murphy and Charles P. Taft purchased the West Side club from James Hart. The price was $105,000. At the time the general opinion was that Murphy and Taft had paid as much as the club was worth, and many thought they had given too much.

OLDEN TIMES.

The Cubs earned a profit the first season enough to pay the entire price. Anything made after that was velvet. One season—the season of 1908—the profits ran away over $200,000, or more than twice as much as was paid for the club.

Now that club has been sold for $500,000, or, rather, 90 per cent. of it was sold for that amount. All that was obtained by the new owners for their half-million dollars was a franchise in the National League, and the services of the players on the Cub list. That property is to be merged with the Whales, the North Side club, which was incorporated two years ago for $500,000. The new corporation will therefore be for $1,000,000.

STOCK DISPOSITION.

Charles Weeghman, who will be head of the new body, announced tonight that the work of reincorporating has already started. He also stated that all stockholders of the former organization on the North Side would be allotted stock to the amount of money invested in the old club. For instance, if one had $10,000 worth of stock in the Whales, he will get $10,000 worth of stock in the new Cubs.

Regarding the holdings of Harry Ackerland, who owns 10 per cent. of the stock in the old Cubs bought from Frank Chance for $40,000, Weeghman said that Ackerland's share in the new corporation would be based on the value of his stock in the old and that value was established by the price Weeghman and his associates paid Taft. There were 1000 shares in the old Cub organization. A half million dollars was paid for 900 of those shares, which made the price $550 a share.

EVEN HUNDRED.

Ackerland owns 100 shares, so the value of his stock is $55,000. It is understood that he can either sell his holding to the new company for that amount or accept $55,000 worth of stock in the new company.

Ten years ago, when Charles W. Murphy entered as a magnate, the baseball business was looked upon more as a gamble than as a legitimate business. Murphy was willing to gamble and ran the $105,000 into a million. Today baseball is not so much of a gamble and is regarded as a legitimate business.

PERMANENT VENTURE.

The Weeghman crowd have no idea that they are going out next summer and get their $1,000,000 back. They have invested in the concern, believing it a good venture that will yield dividends of anywhere from 10 to 20 per cent. a year, depending upon the success of the team.

If they take in as much money at the gate next summer as Murphy and his associates took in during their first year, the new club would pay only a little better than 10 per cent. If they have a season as good as the Cubs enjoyed in 1908, when they cleared something like $250,000, or more than twice the price of the club, the new body would be able to pay a dividend of about 25 per cent.

BUSY.

Weeghman returned today from Cincinnati, where he made the purchase from Taft, and before noon had started plans for the coming season. He held a conference with Joe Tinker, his manager, and another conference with his stockholders. He received a contractor to talk over plans for putting in about 4000 additional seats at the North Side Park, and he engaged a couple of attorneys to help untangle details regarding the lease on the West Side grounds, and other small matters which are to be straightened out.

The new boss of the Cubs was happy over the prospects for the coming season and declared he was glad the whole thing was over, that peace was made, and that he was to be at the head of the famous Cubs.

SITE OF FISH HATCHERY DISCUSSED AT MEETING.

PROMINENT sportsmen of the San Gabriel Valley, plus a pair of Supervisors and other heavyweights, gathered in Azusa Tuesday night to talk fish hatchery and pass out a word of commendation for Fish and Game Commissioner Connell's programme of spending the Southern California license money in bettering conditions.

The only difference of opinion arose over the site. Some think a location nearer Los Angeles than the Owens Valley would be better. As the Oak Creek site on the Bell property above Independence was selected by Commissioner Connell only after a long and careful investigation in which he followed the judgment of William Mulholland, Fred Eaton, Superintendent of Hatcheries Shebley and every other local or general water expert available, the commissioner takes the ground that sportsmen generally will approve the choice once they understand the reasons for it.

So in pursuance of his new policy of letting the men who pay know what disposition is being made with their funds, the commissioner makes this statement:

"Nothing will help this hatchery along to a rapid completion so surely as a big popular approval of the effort to give sportsmen down here something for the magnificent support that they have so freely given to fish and game work. When all realize why the Icehouse Creek scheme was turned down last year, I think they will realize that we had really no choice about going to the Owens Valley.

"Fish from this new plant can be loaded on the fish car at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, hauled over the desert in the cool of night and at 7 next morning are in the Arcade depot. They used to come down from Sisson in three days, and still arrived in fair shape. We can deliver the fish as quickly as though the hatchery were miles nearer.

"The Oak Creek site has stone enough on it for building purposes and we considered that in the plans, and besides, it is the most sightly place in the whole valley."

WATER POLO ON THE PROGRAMME.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 6.—Long Beach and Inglewood High School water polo teams will clash Friday afternoon at Inglewood in the second league contest of the season. It will be the first time Long Beach will have to engage in the tank pastime in fresh water, hence unexpected difficulties may arise to confront the swimmers.

The Pasadena and Long Beach High School basketball teams will clash in the Long Beach Municipal auditorium Saturday night in a scheduled contest in the Southern California interscholastic basketball league.

HALL WILL NOT COACH RUNNERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 6.—Coach Walter A. Hall of the Santa Ana High School is to be relieved of coaching the track team this season, so that he can devote all of his time to the baseball team. While Hall has only two of last year's team, Irvine at first and Brawn at catcher, to start the season with he is satisfied that he will turn out a good team. He has a lot of last year's subs who will make good first team men this year.

MAHAN TO BE BEAR COACH?

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Capt. Eddie Mahan of last year's Harvard eleven has been offered the job of coaching the University of California next year.

It is reported that Manager Stroud of the western institution is on his way to interview Mahan.

REDLANDS MEN TO BEGIN WORK.

TRACKSTERS CALLED OUT FOR NEXT WEEK.

Not Many Meets on the Schedule, Since Institution is Small One. Interclass Competition to Feature Season—Perpetual Track Cup Donated—A Few Stars Enrolled.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Jan. 6.—Track work comes next on the programme of sports at the University of Redlands, and Coach Cunningham will have his squad out for their first practice next week. The team will get into shape for the interclass track meets, which will be held in a few weeks.

The university will not participate in intercollegiate track to any great extent this year, one reason being that a meet cannot be arranged with Throop College. Throop is the only school with whom such an event would be at all interesting, as the two institutions have about the same number of students.

There are a few good track men at the university, and it is probable that one or two of them will be entered in the Southern California intercollegiate meet. There will be meets with the local high school and other high schools of the Citrus Belt League.

A silver cup, to be known as the Review cup, has been offered for the winner of the interclass meet. It will be a perpetual cup, and the winning class each year will have its numerals engraved. The class track teams will be formed soon and begin training for their meets, the dates of which have not yet been announced.

MIGHTY SENIORS ARE VICTORS AT BASKETS.

The mighty seniors of the Los Angeles High School bested the juniors in a furious basketball contest held in the Hilltop gymnasium yesterday afternoon. One lone point decided the victory, the score being 14-13.

Play was rather rough throughout the whole contest. The seniors were mostly football men and often seemed to forget that they were not on the gridiron. The ball was on the floor most of the time. Hesson and Sherman were the stars of their respective teams.

Seniors.		Juniors.
Scott	Forward	Hesson
Roth	Forward	Sherman
Sherman, Wilbur	Center	Swan
Scott	Guard	Child
Smith, Cummings	Guard	Atwood
Referee, Keppen.

Mississippi "Aggies" will in addition to basketball devote much time to soccer football and cross-country running.

BARNEY WILL LEAD PARADE.

A record-breaking crowd is predicted for the opening here between the Tigers and Angels. Not only is the rivalry between the two local clubs keen under normal conditions, but the fact that each club has a new leader will tend to enhance the interest.

On the opening day the Los Angeles club will be the "home" team, technically speaking. President Powers announced last night that the parade will be led by Barney Oldfield and Frank Chance in the latter's Benz. Barney will be at the wheel.

Hamilton Patterson said that these arrangements were satisfactory, everybody being neutral in the parade. He conceded the honor of leading the pageant to the Angels, but asserted that once the two teams were on the field it would be a fight down to the last man. Chance agreed with him.

Really, Truly.

WILLARD-FULTON FIGHT FOR MARDI GRAS WEEK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—The Jess Willard-Fred Fulton twenty-round fight for the heavyweight championship of the world has not been called off, as announced last week.

It will be staged in New Orleans as originally planned and will take place during Mardi Gras week. This fact was learned today when it became known that the Porky Flynn-Fred Fulton match scheduled for the latter part of this month was but a means of introducing Fulton to southern fans.

It was because Crescent City people did not know Fulton's ability that the announcement of the postponement was made. Fulton, of course, will have to beat Flynn to secure the big fight, but this, it is thought, will not be hard for the Minnesota giant.

Further proof of the above statement can be had from the following facts: Both fighters turned down a big offer for a ten-round fight in Milwaukee. They also refused to meet other men in shorter bouts in the East. Mike Collins, Fulton's manager, has rented a cottage for the winter in New Orleans and has sent for his and Fulton's families.

Champion Willard started training yesterday, this being the week he was scheduled to begin work before the postponement was announced. Special train service has already been arranged.

The promoters' object in keeping secret their plans is to "build" Fulton up to a point where fight fans will understand that he is the real challenger. Tommy Burns, who is behind the club, picked Flynn as Fulton's opponent in the elimination contest after trying to get Jim Coffey, Frank Moran and several better-known men.

Emphatic.

HAL CHASE NOT WANTED BY SOUTH SIDE CLUB.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Hal Chase, the first baseman who leaped from the White Sox to the Buffalo Federal League team, is not wanted by the South Side club. Manager Clarence Rowland made the positive and definite announcement following a conference with President Comiskey.

"We don't want Chase and there isn't a chance of his coming here," said Rowland, who wants a finished, clouting third sacker to round out the 1916 White Sox. Moreover, he announced he would start angling immediately for the services of Eddie Foster, veteran guardian of the far corner for the Washington team, all of which may be interesting reading for the athlete in question who kills the off-season at the old homestead on the South Side.

"I came to Chicago for a conference with Mr. Comiskey relative to shaping the team for the coming season," said Rowland. "And after going over the ground, feel confident that with a man of Foster's ability added to our infield the Sox could win the pennant. We are heavily fortified with choice trading material and if Clark Griffith can be induced to talk swap, I think a deal can be arranged whereby both the Sox and Senators would benefit.

"Mr. Comiskey has authorized me to go the limit to land the man I want and negotiations will be started immediately. The recent acquisition of George Moriarty by no means is an assurance that George will be assigned to cover third base. Moriarty is a great player, even though he was not worked as a regular by Detroit last season. He is naturally rated a third sacker, but he has done service with credit to himself on the first base."

FACULTY SWAMPS THE SCRUB BASKET TEAM.

The poor little scrubbies of the Los Angeles High School walked onto the basketball court with a dignified team composed of faculty members and found themselves at as much disadvantage as if they were in the classroom. The score was 12 to 10.

Every time that one of the little fellows got hold of the ball he found himself hedged about by menacing giants. They did not have a chance during the entire afternoon.

Ralph Noble received most of the plaudits for the faculty members and incidentally made most of the scores. All that he has to do was pick up the ball, walk over a scrub or two and deposit his burden in the basket. In the second Coach Featherstone got started and showed a burst or two of class. Van Patten at forward proved to be a regular demon at rushing around the court.

The line-up:

Faculty.		Pupils.
Van Patten	Forward	Bishop
Featherstone	Forward	Gilbert
Noble	Center	Gilbert
Goddard	Guard	Sherman
Davidson	Guard	Hoyle

Kenneth R. Curtis, captain-elect of the Syracuse University track squad, has won about 115 medals in the last few years.

FROM STAGE TO STUDIO.

Latest Facts and Fancies of Theater Lane.

New Problem Drama is to be Given Premiere Here.

De Wolf Hopper Stars on the Baseball Diamond.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

"Motherhood," Charles I. Bolles's striking new drama, is to be given here first, after all, instead of in New York. It will be produced at the Little Theater. The piece is said to discuss somewhat frankly the problem which the name suggests, and a somewhat novel view of the subject of the duties of parents toward children is promulgated. Mr. Bolles declares, however, that the play is not highbrow, but just "sensible." If this proves true it will be refreshing.

Sarah Truax, the noted Broadway actress, who appeared in the Nativity Play with so much success, will play the leading role.

Casey Hopper at the Bat.

De Wolf Hopper is a real baseball player. He played the other day in the City Council-Fine Arts Studio game and made eighteen first-base putouts.

Versatile Guy.

William Dietz, possessor of a paradoxical set of talents, numbered among them the ability to paint in oils in a way to bring tears to your eyes, and the talent for coaching a football team so that it will whale the pie out of the other fellows, visited the motion picture studios yesterday. Dietz is a Sioux Indian with a college education and is best known as "Lone Star."

Dietz is considering engaging in motion-picture acting, as he has done some work in this line and has a wealth of Indian tradition at his fingers' ends.

Sweet's New One.

Sincere Jap.

The Japanese papers used by Walker Whiteside in "The Typhoon" are really covered with Japanese writing, and were presented to the famous actor by a noted oriental diplomat. They contain a Japanese poem supposed to bring luck.

Votes for Women.

Mary Shaw, who will appear at the Orpheum next week, is a suffragist, being one of the prime workers for votes for women, and one of the most active of American clubwomen.

For years Miss Shaw has helped to legislate, write and produce plays calculated to further the work of woman's suffrage.

May Play Lady Macbeth.

Constance Collier may play Lady Macbeth in the forthcoming Beerbohm-Tree production of "Macbeth" for the Fine Arts Film Company. Miss Collier is one of the most famous women of the English stage. She has played Shakespearean roles in London and would appear to be ideally suited for the role.

Versatility Note.

Mantell Reels Long Reel.

Dorothy's New Splash.

Dorothy Gish is being featured at the Fine Arts studio in a new picture play, "Katie Bauer," with Owen Moore playing opposite her.

Good for Otto.

Henry Otto, Universal director, who recently completed "Undine," has been sent to New York by President Laemmle, where he is to direct feature productions for the "U" organization.

New "Spoilers" Great.

All we can say of "The Spoilers," after having attended a preview yesterday at Clune's Auditorium, is that it is "bigger and better than ever," as they say of the Ziegfeld Follies.

Some Stars.

Who'll Win?

Gaby Deslys is to present a gold bracelet to the first girl baby born to actor parents in 1916.

Soft for Bob.

Bob Webb, first tenor of the Primrose Four now playing the Orpheum circuit, draws a pension from New York City for having served twenty years on the Gotham police force.

Nice Place to Go.

The new Sherman Theater on Main street between Fifth and Sixth streets, had a most auspicious opening yesterday, large crowds attending every one of the six performances given, from 11 o'clock in the morning until near midnight.

Five-reel features are to be the order of the day at this cosy little theater.

Liveliest Star.

Virginia Richdale Kerrigan, daughter of Wallace Kerrigan, superintendent of the Universal ranch, and who was born at Universal City six weeks ago, already has made her appearance in several pictures. Director Dowlan says she has behaved splendidly. Not once did she attempt any silly dialogue; she did not insist on "kissing the camera," and she did not complain at the role assigned her. Neither is it on record that she tried to flirt with the director for the sake of obtaining promotion.

Featured in attractions.

Coming next week. Above is Adele Rolland, playing the leading feminine role in "It Pays to Advertise," the great George M. Cohan comedy success, opening at the Mason Monday night, and The Crisps, unique artists of the dance, who also supply clever stories and pretty songs in their act, which is a part of the Orpheum Road Show beginning Monday afternoon.

This year young lawn tennis players of Philadelphia, New York and other eastern cities will be encouraged and instructed and helped on their way by the tuition, gratuitous at that, of the older players of the clubs. Practice boards or courts are to be built and professionals are to be imported with the idea of developing youngsters.

Affording a Ford.

Roy Clements took his Universal comedy company into Los Angeles the other day to film a number of scenes in "Affording a Ford," written by himself and in which "Slim" Victor Potel plays the leading role. Three times was Roy taken for a jit driver; thrice did he refuse the nickels from the public.

Habit.

IS UP ONCE A MONTH.

For Third Time in Three Months Defendant in Alleged Bribery Case is Held for Trial in Superior Court—Attorney Charges Plot.

George Bitten was held to answer to the Superior Court yesterday, for the third time in less than three months, by Justice Hinshaw, on a charge of attempting to bribe a witness in another of the cases pending against him. He was held on $2000 bond, in lieu of which he was taken to the County Jail.

The case yesterday, the same as the other cases in which Mr. Bitten has figured, bristled with bitter personalities and invectives between Attorney Frank Allender and Deputy District Attorney Shelley.

Attorney Allender called Deputy Shelley as a witness for Bitten, and attempted to prove that his client was the victim of a plot. He endeavored to show that the District Attorney's office had issued a complaint previous to the time that Mr. Bitten had met William Bruton in San Francisco, and any evidence against him had been obtained to substantiate the subornation of perjury charge.

After making his decision Justice Hinshaw was bitterly assailed and threats were made to sue him for damages on the ground that he realized there was not sufficient evidence to hold Mr. Bitten on this last charge. Attorney Allender tried to prove that the testimony of Police Lieutenant Layne of San Francisco and that of Mr. Bruton differed widely and did not agree even as to the principal facts.

On leaving the courtroom the attorney declared that he will today apply for a writ of habeas corpus in an effort to get his client free.

RANDALL SIGNS UP WITH OAKLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 6.—Randall, the outfielder purchased by the Oaks from Milwaukee, sent in his signed contract today and Manager Elliott was around with a broad smile. The newcomer is figured on for a fixture in one of the outer gardens. Last season in the American Association Randall hit for an average of .278 in 144 games and was up with the leaders in the fielding department. He banged fourteen doubles, eight triples and three home runs and stole nineteen bases. Rowdy says contracts will be arriving regularly from now on.

STUDENTS TO PARTICIPATE.

Will Aid in Campaign of Money Raising for Occidental.

A student rally was held at Occidental College yesterday in the interest of the forthcoming two-weeks' campaign wherein it is proposed to raise $1,000,000 for this college. Dr. John Willis Baer reviewed the general plans for the campaign; Dr. W. D. Ward told of what this fund would mean to Occidental—that it would make Occidental College to California what Williams and Amherst are to Massachusetts; Arthur G. Paul, college registrar, gave statistics of college life.

Fred McLain, president of the Student Association, pledged that body to earnest work in the campaign, and Margaret West, president of the associated woman's organizations, gave the pledge of the girls to this movement. The programme closed with a talk from Joseph A. Pipal, physical director, who stated that all social affairs of the college would be cancelled until after the campaign, and that the cost of those planned would be applied to the campaign fund.

Immediately after the rally the Student Association selected its Organization Committee, composed of Misses Margaret West, Jennie Galley, Ernestine Kinney, Frances Geoding, Park Davidson, Messrs. John Creighton, Benejah Potter, Baptiste Batz, Henry Boice and Kenneth Smiley.

PIONEER WOMAN PASSES.

Resident of California Since 1857 Dies in this City.

Mrs. L. Agnes Miller, one of California's pioneers, passed away in this city early this morning. The remains will be taken to Visalia, the old home of the Miller family, where interment will take place tomorrow morning from the residence of Mrs. J. A. Hannah, a daughter of the deceased.

Mrs. Miller came to California from the South in 1857 and settled with the family of her father, Dr. T. O. Ellis, at El Monte. Later the family moved to the San Joaquin Valley.

Mrs. Miller was the mother of the late Senator E. O. Miller of Tulare county, who died in this city in 1912. The surviving children are Miss Elisabeth Miller of the art department of the Los Angeles city schools; Clinton E. Miller, a member of the Sixth District Agricultural Association, with offices in the Grosse Building; Herman T. Miller, an attorney-at-law at Visalia; Mrs. J. A. Hannah of Visalia and Mrs. Omar Phillips of Berkeley.

Wild.

COYOTE RUNS AMUCK ON STREETS; FOUR BITTEN.

MOSE, a blade-nosed coyote, who watched for six months for a chance to get his liberty, slipped his collar yesterday and when he found himself free became so terrified he snapped and bit and raged his way to his death at the hands of a policeman.

Four persons were his victims and at the close of his short and sensational career he was pushing his head against the back door of a home that was barricaded against him.

In August, R. E. Homer, No. 2924 Normandie avenue, went into the hills on a hunting trip, and found Mose as a blind pup whining for his mother. He took him home, trapped him in the back yard, and watched Mose grow into eyesight, and then into hardy coyote-hood. Every day when Mr. Homer fed the pup he tried to make friends. He petted, he fondled and pampered the wild little tramp from the hills, but could never establish amiable relations. Mose was always sulky, snapping and surly.

He ate cooked food, in fact, liked hot cakes with maple syrup, his Sunday morning treat, and Mr. Homer considered him a worthy pet. He grew into his collar until it choked him, and yesterday the strap was expanded to a new hole. Half an hour later, Mose had slipped the collar and ran away.

Never had he been out alone. He raced to Budlong avenue and Twenty-fourth street, when Nellie Margolin, No. 2633 Budlong avenue, 13 years old, was on her way to school. She saw the odd-looking dog trotting along with tongue hanging out, and as he passed, she snapped her fingers at him. Mose, bound for the open, snapped at her four times, cutting her arm and shoulder.

Then he ran the faster. A. Keller, a tailor, No. 1419 West Twenty-fourth street, was in front of his shop when Mose came along, heading for the hills and scared into a passion. He bit the tailor, and when three other men, who had been warned of the danger, attempted to get out of his way, he attacked them, too. All hurried away to a doctor before their names were secured by the police. So Mose started in to chase Dwight Smith, a Western Union messenger. He ran him two miles.

Then Mose didn't know where to go nor where to hide. There was nothing ahead of him but the street, and his legs were getting weary after his long run behind a bicycle. When he reached the home of J. M. Regan, No. 1454 West Twenty-fourth street, he turned in, went to the back door, where he had been accustomed to get his food when at home. He was there with his head pressed against the threshold, when Policeman Sidney Hickok, who had been summoned from the University Station, arrived with a sawed-off shotgun, and that was the end of Mose.

His brain was taken to the city chemists, where an examination was made for symptom of rabies. But Mose was sane, normal and healthy. Liberty had been too shocking.

Pacific Light.

MORE THAN MILLION TO IMPROVE POWER SYSTEM.

ASSURING approximately $1,200,000 for extensions and betterments to the plant, authority was granted the Pacific Light and Power Corporation by the State Railroad Commission yesterday to issue $4,000,000 face value 6 per cent. general mortgage serial convertible gold bonds, and $4,120,000 par value of 7 per cent. prior preferred stock.

"Mostly small items," said a statement on the proposed betterment expenditures, which was issued from the office of General Manager Davis of the power company. It was also pointed out that a market is yet to be found for the bonds.

The bonds, which will be secured by a mortgage or deed of trust, are to be issued, under the commission's orders, at not less than face value and accrued interest, less than usual 3 per cent. commission.

Of the sum realized from their sale, $2,724,639.28 may be used to pay notes, of which $795,550 are due to H. E. Huntington, $220,000 to the Security Trust and Savings Bank, $50,000 to the Security National Bank, $500,000 to the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, $308,084.28 to the Huntington Land and Improvement Company, $900,000 to the Marine National Bank of Buffalo, $100,000 to the Bankers' Trust Company of Buffalo, and $300,000 to William Salomon & Co.

Under the order, the corporation is also to file with the commission a copy of its amended articles of incorporation, authorizing $14,440,500 of par value 7 per cent. prior preferred stock, before any bonds are issued under the authorization.

The issue of 7 per cent. prior preferred stock may be marketed any time before January 15, 1921, in exchange for the bonds authorized by the order. This prior preferred stock is common stock previously authorized but unissued, which, by the amendment of the concern's incorporation articles, is changed into the 7 per cent. prior preferred stock specified.

The $4,000,000 face value of bonds, which will ultimately be refunded by the $4,120,000 stock issue, are in five series, as follows: $400,000 maturing January 15, 1917, and four others of $900,000 each, maturing each following year. The bonds may be converted into the prior preferred capital stock at the rate of $1030 for each $1000 bond, after May 15, 1916, and before January 15, 1918, and at proportionate rates thereafter.

FLOCK TO SEE PRIZE FLOCKS.

Poultry Show Attracts Throngs from Three States

Ribbons are Awarded; Special Prizes Given Today.

Club Meetings to be Center of Interest for Fanciers.

The eleventh annual exhibit of the Poultry Breeders' Association of Southern California continues to be a magnet that is drawing lovers of fine birds hither, from not only all parts of Southern California, but from adjacent territory. Yesterday there were parties of visitors from Arizona and Nevada and from points in Central California, as well as interested spectators from as far south as San Diego.

The awards of the ribbons were completed by the judges last evening. The blue ribbon, red ribbon and white ribbon fowls appear prouder than ever because of these badges of superiority. Yet there were many pens where the ribbons did not flutter that easily held before them many visitors. Every strain of poultry exhibited has its special admirers—and the unique show windows hold a constant throng much of the day.

These show windows are well worth seeing. In the north section six peafowls, three of them young birds, proudly parade their gorgeous coloring. In the south window there are cages of vari-colored pheasants, canaries and other cage birds, and for contrast some very lively small monkeys, while half of this section is converted in a runway for small chicks and ducklings.

Among the special features that attracted constant attention yesterday was the exhibit of white African guinea fowls, shown by Mrs. B. Hocking of Guasti. First and second-prize ribbons adorned these cages. Beside them are also exhibited the speckled guinea hens more generally known.

FROM OWENSMOUTH.

The exhibit of bantams is especially attractive at this show and occupies one long section. Here are to be seen aristocrats of the smallest family, in size, of the poultry yard, and they find many admirers. From the smallest to the largest—the turkey exhibit—is but a few steps. The exhibit by the Elliott-Brant rancho, Owensmouth, is one of the big features here. This is of bronze turks, and they also have the first and second-prize ribbons. The pen of one cockerel and four mammoth hens of the Rhode Island Red strain was a point of interest to many visitors, and it also boasted the blue ribbon. Honors were divided between this exhibit and that of Emerson & Mumford, who showed White Leghorns that were prize winners.

Today the special awards—those other than the ones made by the association—will be made by the same judges that have passed upon the exhibits for the association. There will be eighty of these special prizes. Among them is the offering of the Los Angeles Times Illustrated Weekly cup, offered to stimulate a keener interest and a broader appreciation for the great American class of pure-blooded poultry. This cup is for the best male and female bird in the American class owned and entered by one exhibitor.

CLUB MEETINGS.

A feature of much interest in connection with this great poultry show is the meetings of various poultry clubs. Two of these will occur today. The Plymouth Rock Club of Southern California will hold its seventh annual meeting at 8 o'clock tonight on the second floor of the exhibition building, the old Boston Store Building, opposite the City Hall. Mrs. D. N. Doyle of No. 169 East California street, Pasadena, is the secretary. The Rhode Island Red Club of California will meet in the same place at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The secretary is J. F. Blanchard, No. 2230 Huron street, Los Angeles.

The club meetings scheduled for tomorrow are those of the Buff Minorca Club of America, which will hold its fifth annual session at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, and whose secretary is W. P. Williams, No. 1102 West Fifty-second street, Los Angeles; and the Wyandotte Club of California, which will have its fourth annual session at the same hour. John Mead, No. 7281 Hollywood boulevard, is the secretary.

The Pacific Minorca Club will meet Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Its secretary is W. P. Williams.

WOMEN RALLY TO SUPPORT OF BUNKER HILL PROJECT

THE FIRST big rally in favor of the proposed Bunker Hill open cut was held yesterday afternoon at the Alexandria and a permanent organization of property owners who are supporting the movement in favor of the project was established with officers and committees.

There were more than 100 women at the meeting. The principal speakers were Miles Gregory and E. P. Clark, who told of the many benefits to be gained as a result of the improvement in this particular section of the city.

"The Battle of Bunker Hill is still on" was the slogan of the meeting and the committees formulated definite plans for crystallizing sentiment in favor of the project. Now that an organization has been formed frequent meetings will be held to keep public interest in the project and support the progress of the work according to the schedule of the Campaign Committee.

Miss Jessie Rorick, president; A. W. Francisco, secretary; Miss Bessie Stoddard, treasurer; president; Mrs. Fred Baker, treasurer; Mrs. N. D. HOARDERS OF MONEY.

Eastern Orator Designates as Traitors Those Who Store Away in Safe Deposit Boxes Gold Which Should be Kept in Circulation.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 6. — Charles Warren Pickell of Detroit poured out some hot shot for the hoarders of money in his address before the Business Men's Association last night, on the occasion of the annual banquet of the organization. One hundred and sixty members were in attendance at the function, which was held in the Mission Inn.

"A man is a traitor to his country who converts his securities into gold and locks it up in a safety deposit box in some bank or trust company," said Mr. Pickell.

"No less is a woman a traitor to her country if she puts her savings in an old stocking or sock and buries it under a brick in the mantel."

The speakers of the evening were introduced by A. E. Thresher, president of the organization. Judge J. H. Ellis told of the success attending the launching and financing of the Riverside District Fair Association, which has had the backing of the Business Men's Association from the first.

SANTA MONICA, Jan. 6.—G. G. Bundy and A. M. Montgomery, business men of this city, have returned from the San Bernardino mountains where they had to walk through snow drifts waist deep to bring back their snow-bound families from Thousand Pines. They managed to get within two miles of the camp in an auto. The rest of the distance they walked and helped their families back to the auto.

ORGAN DEDICATED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLAREMONT, Jan. 6.—The new $12,000 Mueller organ that was installed last fall in the Bridges Memorial Hall of Music of Pomona College received its formal dedication last evening, when Prof. Walter Hartley of the music department faculty gave the first organ recital of the year. The concert was the initial event of a series of four recitals that have been arranged by a committee of the Pomona College faculty under the name of the "Artists' Course," which has attracted many lovers of music from near-by towns, as well as from Claremont itself.

Chamber of Commerce Names New Officers.

Autoists Made to Observe New Traffic Laws.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 6.—Committed to the policy of popularizing the organization and aiding plans for greater civic and industrial development, officers of the Chamber of Commerce were elected by the directors today. They are: President, Clinton J. Curtis, president of the Los Angeles Dock and Terminal Company; first vice-president, Richard Loynes, brick manufacturer; second vice-president, Lynn W. Ballard, furniture merchant; treasurer, E. J. Wightman, banker. The secretary is to be named January 13.

In an address delivered shortly after his unanimous election over his own protest, President Curtis declared that the chamber is not as popular as it might be and that it is his intention to try to make the people of Long Beach believe in the organization and get behind it. He also declared that the opportunity is ripe for making this city a great industrial center through the harbor, which has during the last three days received such a boost through the recommendation of the army engineers regarding the connecting channel and flood control.

Lynn W. Ballard was elected president of the Finance Committee, to succeed himself. A. C. Malone, a new director, was also elected to this committee. Four of the directors refused to serve—Llewellyn Bixby, A. H. Farnham, C. A. Buffum and W. H. Wise. They all gave as reasons for their action that they had not the time to give to the boost work.

NEW AUTO LAWS.

Constables of this city are giving the autoists little chance to adapt themselves to the new laws regarding dimmers and new numbers. More than twenty have been haled before Justice Underwood by Constable Newell and his deputies, and almost all have paid $1 fines. J. H. Flagg has asked for a jury trial to determine whether he was guilty of violating the law regarding dimmers, and this suit will probably be the first of its kind tried in Southern California.

Justice Underwood says he has the approval of his course of early arrests from attorneys of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Owners of cars carrying old numbers have been told to keep their machines in their garages until they procured their new licenses, after being fined.

FOURTEEN HORSES BURNED.

OXNARD, Jan. 6.—About $7000 loss was sustained by Joe and Peter Cloyne when the abrn on their Las Posas ranch burned last night. Fourteen head of good ranch horses were burned to death. Two more were so badly injured that they had to be killed. One horse escaped. A new touring auto, all the ranch harness, a best wagon loaded with sixty-five sacks of barley and seventy-five tons of barley hay were consumed. The origin of the fire has not been learned. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

SUPPOSE THEY'D LYNCHED HIM?

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 6.—Identified by Pearl and Ozra Macy, brother and sister, who were wounded in an attack by two Mexicans at Elsinore on the night of December 16, when their father, C. P. Macy, a storekeeper, was killed, as one of the pair and bound over to the Superior Court of Riverside county for murder, Jesus Rameris proved that he was not the man by persuading Sheriff Wilson of Riverside to bring him to this city.

Chief of Police Shay recognized in Rameris the Mexican who was in jail here for being drunk on the night of the killing at Elsinore. Rameris maintained during the preliminary examination at Riverside that he could prove an alibi and described Police Court proceedings in San Bernardino that day. Proof of his statements were found in local court records.

When Rameris was caught there was strong talk in Elsinore of lynching him.

Sierra Madre Board of Trade Refuses to Encourage the Movie Companies to Locate Plants in City.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SIERRA MADRE, Jan. 6.—The Board of Trade reorganized by the election of Capt. J. A. Osgood as president for a second term. Newman Esick, well-known banker and resident here, who has been considered a "live wire" in civic matters, was elected a member of the board of directors. J. N. Hawks, real estate man, was chosen secretary in place of E. F. Ballou, who recently resigned after several years of service.

Among the many important issues before this body has been a solution of the sewage question and the safeguarding of the water sheds supplying this region. Committees are now handling these propositions for the purpose of petitioning the municipal authorities along proper lines.

The board refused decidedly giving any support or encouragement to concessions by the city for the establishment in this region of motion-picture film-producing companies. The question arose over an application for a concession.

After considerable argument it was decided for the upholding of the moral standard of the community no such enterprises should be encouraged. Many of the "movie" concerns visit this place and the adjoining canyons, owing to the picturesque scenery and unusual opportunities for good productions.

By the sentiment expressed at the board meeting their actions have not encouraged any desire for their permanent location here.

BODY LIES FROZEN IN MOUNTAIN SNOW.

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 6.—The body of Frank Krames, 50, who perished in the snow, has been found after persistent search and brought to Piute tonight.

Krames, who leaves a wife and two children, started from home at Amalie a week ago for his mine on top of Piute mountain. When he failed to return search was made.

His tracks showed he nearly reached the summit and started back, retracing his steps for a distance of two miles before he lay down in the snow, which was three feet deep.

C. A. Webster, formerly coach of Hollywood High, has been heard from. He has given up athletics entirely and is in the grocery business at Oxford, Mich. When he first went East he started a buttermilk store. In a letter to Wallis Robb he says: "Am coaching a grocery business. Hope to turn out a winner."

FOUR-TRACK SYSTEM.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Jan. 6.—Rumors that the Pacific Electric is contemplating the building of a four-track system by enlarging its present two-track system, were current today following a special meeting of the Venice City Trustees. Application was made to the board for extra right of way paralleling the present Venice Short Line. This, however, is only from Tokio to Lincoln avenue, Venice. A strip ten feet in width is sought.

The reports that the railroad company contemplates the building of a four-track system have been current for some time, but the application for the right of way is said to give color to the rumor, especially as property owners along the line desired are said to have been approached by agents of some company.

BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Santa Barbara Police Draw Net About Residence District and Surround Man Who had Looted Many Homes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 6.—A three-weeks' hunt for a thrifty daylight burglar ended today in a climax of excitement when Chief Ross and his men captured Louis Tholdorf, charged with the burglary of scores of houses in all parts of town. Cards found on him show he had worked extensively in Los Angeles.

Tholdorf would call at a house ostensibly to rent rooms or buy the premises and when unmolested would ransack the place. He kept careful track of his burglaries, jotting them down in a notebook under the heading "Calls made today." His average was eight a day.

The police made the supreme effort to apprehend him today. Every officer, in citizen's clothes, was sent out in a district where it was believed he would begin operations. Officer Randolph accosted him and he took to flight. The officer impressed City Attorney Rickard and his automobile and took up the chase.

Officers were signalled from every quarter. Revolvers were discharged as the fugitive leaped a fence. There he faced another officer and leaped back to fall into the arms of Randolph.

Chief Ross stated tonight he believed investigations in Los Angeles will link the prisoner up with the numerous burglaries there.

LANCASTER, Jan. 6.—While suffering from melancholia N. K. Hawk of Hawk Bros., local general merchants, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself.

Hawk rose this morning at the usual hour apparently in good spirits. During the progress of breakfast he suddenly began crying. His wife tried to pacify him and thought she had succeeded.

Finishing the meal he requested her to take the key of the store to his brother that he might open up for business. Mrs. Hawk complied and returning shortly afterwards was shocked to find her husband on the floor in a dying condition. The bullet entered his mouth, coming out the upper part of his head.

The deceased, who was 41 years old, was an active member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and leaves, besides his widow, an 8-year-old son. Hawk, who formerly lived at Bakersfield, entered business here about two years ago and had prospered.

COURT CLERK DIES.

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 6.—Isaac L. Miller, clerk of the court in Kern county for seventeen years, a faithful official and a beloved and respected pioneer of this county, died at 1 this morning of heart failure. He was a Native Son, being born in El Dorado county in 1854, and had lived here for thirty-five years. He was at his desk yesterday and news of his death was a distinct shock to the community. All departments of the Superior Court have adjourned until next week through respect for the deceased official and the Clerk's office is closed until the Supervisors appoint a successor, which will be done after the funeral.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DINUBA, Jan. 6.—Petitions were placed on file with the City Council today asking for a special election at which property owners will pass on the proposal to enlarge the city with the addition of the so-called Millsap and Park additions, estimated to include a population of about 400. It is pointed out in the petition that, in the present circumstances, with the large outlying population it is difficult to efficiently handle the problems of civic sanitation.

Supervisors and Ranchmen Reach Argument after Lawsuit had Made Trouble over Ventura County Right of Way.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Jan. 6.—The Board of Supervisors and the residents of the Mound district have come together for the control of the storm waters and all difficulties have been fully settled. A lawsuit begun by the George C. Power interests along the route selected by the State Highway Commission for the State road has been withdrawn and the Power people will give deeds to the county assuring right of way, and the State road work can now be begun at any time. The county long since paid the State for the completion of the road by the purchase of $250,000 of highway bonds and wants the road completed.

Storm waters in this district have been doing a great deal of damage to the roads and caused a great deal of friction between Supervisor Chrisman and residents of the section. The Supervisor did all he could to keep the water off the roads and the farmers did all they could to keep the floods off their lands.

Yesterday, however, the matter was brought to a head amicably. The county on its part promises to unite the people of the entire district in a plan for the control of the storm waters by the formation of a drainage district. The bulkheads put in by Supervisor Chrisman will be removed and all parties will unite for the formation of a district to care for the storm waters.

TO BUILD ROAD.

The Board of Supervisors will immediately take steps to build a good road into the Matilija Canyon, which will give the outside world access to the many resorts located there. Twenty thousand dollars has been appropriated for the work. It has been held up for a time by failure to secure up for a time by failure to secure of the Matilija, but this has now been deeded to the county.

San Diego.

BUILDS HUGE TRIPLANE FOR MILITARY PURPOSE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 6.—A huge triplane equipped with six 160-horse-power motors, armed with a battery of high-powered rapid-fire guns and capable of flying more than 2000 miles at maximum speed without replenishing its fuel supply, is under construction at the Curtiss factory at Buffalo, and upon completion will be shipped to San Diego to be demonstrated to United States Army aviators. Word to this effect was received here today from Glenn Curtiss.

The new aircraft is a triple-screw triplane flying boat, which will weigh, fully equipped, 21,670 pounds. The three wings will each have a span of 133 feet, with a cord of ten feet. The three wings will be placed ten feet apart, giving a total supporting area of wing surface of 4000 square feet.

The new machine will be practically seven times larger than the famous trans-Atlantic flyer America.

Its propelling machinery will consist of a battery of six 160-horse-power water-cooled motors coupled in two units of 320 horse power to each unit, driving a fifteen-foot propellor.

An auxiliary motor of forty horse power will enable the pilot to start the motors from the conning tower by means of an electric starter. The smaller motor also will be used for generating the current required by the electric automatic stabilizer, the drift indicator and other air and water navigation instruments. The craft will carry a complete equipment of pneumatic life preservers, fire extinguishers, anchors, ropes and a collapsible mast for the wireless antennae.

The fuel tanks of the new triplane will have a capacity of 800 gallons of gasoline and seventy-five gallons of lubricating oil. The triplane will have a speed of seventy-five miles an hour and, flying at a maximum rate, could cover approximately 2000 miles without having to alight to replenish its fuel supply.

"The new triplane is being built expressly for military purposes," said Raymond V. Morris, instructor at the Curtiss School of Aviation at North Island. "According to the best information I have at the present time, the triplane will be shipped to San Diego and given its speed, weight-carrying and other tests here. The new aeroplane, I believe, will carry from fourteen to sixteen passengers."

NAVAL BASE CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED AT HARBOR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Jan. 6. A campaign for a naval base on the Southern California was launched today by the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce. John T. Gaffey and H. M. Storer were appointed a committee to solicit the co-operation of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

In the prospect of an enlarged naval base here, there is much activity along the Pacific Coast for the location of naval bases, and it is believed co-operation among the commercial interests will accomplish much.

Congressman Washington bring Secretary Daniels and Admiral Phelan has indicated his favor for a naval academy on Puget Sound interests are making a strong demand for the location there.

The Harbor offers many advantages for harboring navy vessels. There is no bar to cross and the harbor is available without danger at all times since the dimensions are such that the range of Dead Man's Island offers the finest practice ground for submarines and torpedo boats there has been a strong demand here among the officers on the vessels for better facilities of repairing and coaling their vessels.

The first heavy shipments of merchandise for Honolulu were made today by Los Angeles manufacturers and wholesalers on the steamer Great Northern, which sailed this afternoon. The steamer took over 400 tons of merchandise from this port, including heavy shipments of soap, paper, bed springs and mattresses and other merchandise.

The Great Northern also took a large crowd of passengers from Los Angeles. C. E. Stone, traffic manager of the Great Northern Steamship Company, came down from San Francisco on the steamer to look after the interests of the line in Southern California. He is greatly pleased with the business offered by Los Angeles.

Chairman Gary's Statement on the Aspects of the Steel Industry is the One Engrossing Feature of the Session—German Exchange is Sold at New Low Marks.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The one engrossing and overshadowing feature of today's highly irregular and at times unsettled market was the statement issued by Chairman Gary of the United States Steel Corporation bearing upon present and future aspects of that important industry. Steel common opened at a slight advance over the preceding day's final quotations of 86⅝, but soon fell off to 86¼, from which it recovered to 87¼. After that it lost ground more or less steadily. Other leading issues were at lowest prices in the final hour. General Motors fell 45 points to 440; Bethlehem Steel, 24¼ to 425, and International Agricultural preferred, 6 to 64. Rails were under constant pressure. Total sales of stocks amounted to 810,000 shares. Further depreciation of German and Austrian exchange to new low records occurred, demand remittances to Berlin declining to 72¾ cents, and kronen to 12¾ cents. This reduces the local value of the German mark, ordinarily quoted at 23⅝ cents, to 18⅝ cents. The bond market in general was decidedly irregular. Total sales, par value, aggregated $5,325,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Buyers Show Preference for Low-priced Oil Issues.

Bank stocks were to the fore yesterday, when 30 shares of the Home Savings Bank changed hands at 137.50. The remainder of the trading was divided more or less evenly between the oil and mining issues. Union sold at firm prices, and Associated registered a slight advance. Traders' Oil made the most marked advance, as sales were recorded at 50.00, a net gain of 5 points over night. The cheap oil issues were in exceptionally strong demand, and a large number of transactions were noticed in National Pacific and Jade, with a few scattered sales in United, White Star, Globe and Perseus. There was no new feature to the Oatman market, all the listed stocks selling on practically an unchanged basis. Among the more important transfers were the sale of 500 shares of United Eastern at 3.85, and the sale of a like amount of Tom Reed at 1.98. Big Jim sold up as high as .99, and closed firm at 1.00 asked.

HIGHER FREIGHT LOWERS WHEAT.

RISE IN A DROP OF TWO AND A QUARTER CENTS.

Advance in Ocean Rates Causes Big Market Leader to Sag and Gives Impetus to Bear Attacks. Corn Finishes Stronger and Higher, with Oats Trailing Along.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—The wheat cut- was a steady close at ¼@¾ to 2¼ Dollar, with May 1.26⅝@1.27, and ly 1.19⅝@1.19. Other leading sta- all scored gains—corn, ⅝@⅞ to ; oats, ¼@⅝ to ⅜, and provisions 5 to 20¢. The wheat market sagged from yesterday's closing figures. Ad- ces in ocean freight rates from the Gulf ports was among the bearish influences on wheat. Corn showed strength throughout the day. Oats went with wheat in sympathy with corn. Higher prices in hogs and corn put firmness into provisions. Packers realized heav- profits on the advance.

BANK DEPOSITS GROWING FAST.

STATEMENTS SHOW INCREASE OF MILLION AND A HALF.

Thirteen Local National Institutions Report Splendid Condition in Answer to Call from Comptroller of Currency—Must Tell Rates of Interest Charged.

Statements of the thirteen national banks of Los Angeles were called for yesterday by the Comptroller of the Currency, showing their condition at the close of business on December 31, 1915.

The statements show an unusually heavy increase in deposits since the date of the last call, November 10, amounting to approximately $1,500,000. Loans and discounts evidence a healthy growth, totalling well over $900,000, and the available cash column has also advanced during the past fifty days.

Interesting features of the comptroller's call were the questions asked relative to the rates of interest the banks are charging patrons. He asked for a list of all loans made during the year 1915 upon which interest was charged or collected at rates which would total more than the equivalent of 6 per cent. per annum.

The call stated that "Banks are cautioned to prepare this statement with care and accuracy. If errors or discrepancies should be discovered which may seem to make it necessary to verify the reports submitted by all banks, the bank examiners will be given instructions accordingly."

Following are the comparative figures for the last two calls:

New York Cotton Market.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Our market made a feeble response to the sharp advance at Liverpool, and longs consequently were more disposed to reduce their lines. Added inducements to this course were found in the apprehensive dispatches from Washington over the political difficulty and the reports of a probable increase in freight rates. Exports for the day were little larger than for any single day this week, the day's shipments approximating 25,000 bales. Spot market prices were unchanged.

Liverpool cotton cables, due 2 up an January, March and July, 1 up on May and October, came 5 better than due on January, 5 better on March, and 6¼ better on May. Good business in spots: prices steady; sales, 10,000; receipts, 14,000; American, 13,700; middlings, 8.35; futures opened quiet.

PLANS FIGHT FOR NATURAL GAS.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BOARD TO WORK WITH MAYOR.

President Lane Issues Statement Referring to Official Message, Announcing that Contest will be Carried to State Railroad Commission. Bonds for Jitney Men.

Commenting on that portion of Mayor Sebastian's message urging support for a movement to compel the distribution of natural gas at fair prices, President Lane of the Utilities Board issued a statement yesterday saying that the Utilities Board will endeavor to prosecute the matter before the State Railroad Commission as soon as important legal points are settled in the gas litigation now pending in the Federal Court.

The Mayor's message expressed the opinion that the city has power to compel distribution of natural gas by ordinance and Mr. Lane's statement yesterday says:

"With regard to whether the City Council could or should pass an ordinance requiring the distribution of pure natural gas, or a gas of a high heating value, I do not feel, at this time, justified in expressing an opinion. This is one of the principal elements in the pending litigation, and will be defined when the cases are decided.

"It is our desire to obtain for the public the best quality of gas that can be obtained.

"This matter was submitted to our department with instructions to proceed along these lines, and we shall endeavor to make such presentation before the Railroad Commission as to bring about these results. However, we are very glad to have any additional assistance in any way whatsoever, and we are very much pleased to see the interest shown by the Mayor and other city officials, as well as the various organizations, and we wish to encourage, rather than discourage, any ideas which will throw additional light on this subject."

Mr. Lane said yesterday that although the Public Utilities Board has not completed its report on the natural gas situation as requested by the Council two months ago, the investigation has proceeded far enough to ascertain that if the local gas companies cared so to do they could supply Los Angeles with natural gas today. This gas, he said, would cost the companies from 6 cents to 14 cents a thousand cubic feet, delivered at Los Angeles.

In the case now pending wherein the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and the Southern California Gas Company attacked the rates authorized last summer, the Public Utilities Board has filed a brief asking these companies to define the quality of gas they are willing to guarantee; this quality to be a basis for a ruling on rates. It is believed that this question will be decided so that the city may appeal to the Railroad Commission for a decision as to natural gas rates within the next sixty days.

THOSE TAXI BONDS.

NEW SYSTEM PROPOSED.

General revision of the city's policy with reference to exacting bonds from jitbus drivers and also from all other drivers or owners of vehicles for hire was foreshadowed yesterday when the ordinance providing for bonds from interurban busses, taxicabs and sight-seeing autos was presented to the Council and referred to the Public Utilities Board. Councilman Conwell proposed that the ordinance go to the Utilities Board, saying that most of the taxicabs are owned by corporations which already carry general indemnity policies and the enactment of the proposed legislation would mean double taxation. His motion to refer the matter for investigation and report from the Utilities Board was carried without opposition.

President Lane of the Utilities Board said that it will be the policy of the board in exacting security from all for-hire vehicles, to provide for indemnity to the amount now required of the jitbus drivers, but this protection will not be required to be in the form of an insurance policy where other and equally good security can be furnished.

In view of the fact that the Public Utilities Board does not take official charge of jitbus and taxicab regulation until a new ordinance is passed, the Council yesterday instructed the Police Commission to issue licenses to all applicants who comply with present ordinances.

ONE VOTE SHY FOR SALARY RAISES.

Ralph Davis and H. Rosenthal, deputies in the office of the City Assessor, lacked one vote in the Council yesterday in their attempt to get $25 a month more pay. Their request was based on the claim that they have been doing the work of chief deputy in the office while A. B. Conrad, City Tax Collector, is on leave of absence from that position. The report of the Finance Committee of the Council denying the request for a raise was the eleventh similar report on the same subject, and those who disagreed with the Finance Committee counted on Councilman Roberts to support them. The Finance Committee report was rejected by a vote of 5 to 4, but it takes six votes in the Council to pass a salary ordinance, so the Finance Committee took its parliamentary spanking and claimed victory in one of the warmest fights seen on the floor of the Council in recent months. The vote against the Finance Committee was cast by Councilmen Brain, Conwell, Langdon and Topham and Councilwoman Lindsey.

Chairman Wheeler of the Finance Committee had a neatly-written resignation from the committee all ready to present, but Councilman Topham paused long enough in his remarks to tear up the resignation and throw it in a waste basket.

NEED MONEY TO BEAUTIFY LOTS.

Success of the lot beautiful movement depends on completion of arrangements with the Public Service Commission for water connections and service and in order to carry out the programme as proposed, the Lot Beautiful Committee must have at its disposal a $10,000 revolving fund to finance water connections and necessary expenses. This sentiment was expressed at a meeting of the committee yesterday and a special committee headed by G. W. Foreman will present the request for an appropriation to the City Council.

With this revolving fund available, the committee proposes to pay for water connections to vacant lots and, when the lots are improved, the owner will be required to refund the cost of the connection. The committee will also ask for a secretary at $100 a month.

E. C. Pentland, who informed the committee that he has made an extensive study of the lot beautiful movement, addressed the committee and presented tentative plans for organizing "Lot Beautiful Clubs" in various parts of the city. He said there are three essentials necessary to the success of the movement, these being co-operation of the press, a system of prizes, properly managed, and assurance that the right class of people are induced to participate.

MISSING LINK.

VENICE WANTS IT FORGED.

Completion of the Short Line boulevard to Los Angeles is urged by the Venice Chamber of Commerce in a letter to the City Council, which says that annexation of the Palms district should not be permitted to interfere with completion of road projects previously started by the county. The Venice business men point out that this boulevard between Pico street at Vineyard Station and Venice is now built all the way from the beach to the National boulevard at the east boundary of Culver City, excepting a short stretch through the Palms district. Residents of Venice and property owners along the road have contributed liberally to its cost and the city is urged to finish the little gap now within the city limits.

Germ-hunting Again.

The Health and Sanitation Committee of the Council succeeded yesterday in resurrecting the anti-roller towel ordinance, which was pigeonholed last summer, and it will come before the Council today with a recommendation that it be passed. Instead of being with the City Attorney, the ordinance was found in the committee's files. The committee also recommended that the City Attorney be instructed to draw an ordinance prohibiting the use of public drinking cups within the city limits.

Traffic is Delayed.

Faster work and less obstruction to traffic in paving repair work in the business district is sought by the Public Works Committee in a report filed with the Council yesterday. The committee believes that the street railway companies may be compelled to prosecute the track repair and paving jobs night and day until they are completed and the City Engineer will be asked to make recommendations.

Mayor Remains at Home.

Mayor Sebastian was confined to his home yesterday by a severe cold that developed symptoms of influenza. His condition was not regarded as alarming, and he may be at his office this afternoon or tomorrow.

City Hall Brevities.

Tideland rental values at the municipal harbor were fixed yesterday by the Harbor Commission at $1200 an acre a year. This value was recommended by Secretary Matson and it is estimated that within a year the rentals will be on a basis of $25,000 a year income to the city.

Edward Filene of Boston, who has been identified prominently with civic improvement work in that city in recent years, will address the City Club tomorrow noon. George Dunlop, who was scheduled to speak on the proposed new charter at this meeting, will address the club next week.

FORGETS SANTA CLAUS.

Chauffeur is More Mindful of Second Favor and Escapes Jail.

After pleading for a Christmas present of time in which to pay a fine of $10 for speeding, M. J. Summers, a chauffeur, forgot his benefactors, Justice Forbes and the latter's clerk, who allowed him liberty on the promise that he would come in with the money on the Monday following the holiday. Yesterday morning Constable Woodbury was sent to ascertain the reasons for Mr. Summers's failure to return, and, there being none, brought the man to court. The chauffeur was committed to the County Jail to serve ten days in lieu of the cash. When the trusty in charge of the desk drew a woeful picture of the chain gang, clanking through puddles of slush and mud, Mr. Summers asked for a loan of $10 and got it. In a few hours he was back at the jail with the $10 and a substantial amount of interest. "That's better than swinging a pick or shoveling mud," he remarked, departing happily.

MOTHER'S LOVE WINS CHILDREN.

COURT RESTORES LITTLE ONES TO YOUNG WIFE.

Grandfather Surrenders Son's Babies, Denying He had Refused Them to Daughter-in-law—Judge Hears Story of Alleged Kidnaping by Father.

James E. Depue, a stock broker, the grandfather, and Mrs. Cecile M. Depue, met in Judge Taft's court yesterday in a legal contest for the custody of her babies, Viola and James E. Depue. Mrs. Depue had the children brought into court on habeas corpus proceedings, through Attorney Iva J. Angier. At the conclusion of the hearing the court gave her the children. She clasped them convulsively to her bosom.

In her story to the court, Mrs. Depue said she was married three years ago, when she was 15, to James E. Depue, who was 33 years old. The couple separated in October, 1915. The following month Mr. Depue came to the home of her parents, where she was staying with the children, she said, continuing:

"He told me he wanted to have the children visit him. I went with them, but not to the house. He said they would be returned in about two hours. They did not come back and I went after them. My father-in-law would not let me see them. But I did see them, and tried to bring them back. I have made attempts to recover them, but in vain."

Mrs. Depue lives at Downey. She said her husband is in Arizona.

Judge Taft asked the grandfather if he had refused to let the mother take her children. He said he had not.

"Let her take them now," ordered the court.

PITIFUL CRY.

BABY IS PARENTLESS.

"Tell mamma I can't understand why she went away and left me."

This cry of a broken-hearted little boy touched the heart of Miss Margaret Parker, assistant probation officer, yesterday. The little boy is Clarence Harris, 6 years old, whose parents have separated. The father, Herman Harris, went to Chino, but he has not been located since he left there. The mother left the child at Santa Monica.

Clarence was given a home at Juvenile Hall, but while every attention is being paid him, he wants his mamma. He pleaded with Miss Parker to find his mamma and papa.

"They must come and get me," he said. "I want them. Will you tell them?"

Miss Parker promised. Meantime, Clarence looks hopefully for mamma and papa to come and take him home.

VALUED RELICS

DISPOSED OF IN WILL.

Keepsakes and results of his work as a lawyer were disposed of by Selden Bingham Kingsbury in his will, which was filed for probate yesterday. Mr. Kingsbury died in this city December 19, 1914. The estate, valued at $6000, is given to the widow, Mrs. Katydid J. Kingsbury of the Palm Crest apartments.

Nathan C. Kingsbury, a son, is given a set of speeches. Frederick C. Kingsbury, a son, receives briefs in cases his father had argued. Lieut. Ross S. Kingsbury of the navy, is bequeathed a gold watch worn by his father. Mrs. Helen L. Humphrey, a daughter, is given a history of nations. Elizabeth Humphrey, a granddaughter, is left $100.

ON A CAR STEP.

CONDUCTOR'S TESTIMONY.

An episode in a Pullman car was the feature of the second day's trial of the separate maintenance suit of Mrs. Gertrude M. Burt against W. J. Burt, before Judge Rogers, yesterday. H. C. Chittenden, a Southern Pacific conductor, testified to witnessing a passage of love between Mrs. Burt and a fellow-passenger on the platform between two cars, en route from San Francisco to Los Angeles, in January, 1914.

Mr. Burt is contesting his wife's suit with a cross-complaint. The custody of their son, Le Roy Burt, aged 6 years, is one of the principal features of the sensational trial. He testified to missing a diamond from his bedroom which was missing from his bedroom just before the separation. Mr. Burt said he saw the prints of a woman's foot in the soft earth outside of his window, and dust marks from feet in the hall leading to his bedroom. The prints measured the same as the shoes worn by Mrs. Burt.

Mrs. Burt answered that on the night in question she had gone outside to witness an eclipse of the moon, and had stood by Mr. Burt's window. The case will be continued today.

SEEKS CUSTODY.

OLD CASE REOPENED.

Frank A. Leavitt, the grandfather of Henry and Esther McCashin, who have an estate of $10,000, reopened the fight yesterday for the custody of the boy, who is 14 years old. Mr. Leavitt appeared before Judge Reeve of the Juvenile Court and made a statement with references to charges brought affecting his career in Boston.

The court originally appointed him the legal guardian of the children, but later they were taken away from him and placed in the Boys' and Girls' Home in Pasadena. The Hellman Trust and Savings Bank is trustee for the children's estate.

Mrs. Louise McCashin sold newspapers on Spring street. She was killed in the Ivy wreck and the children recovered $10,000 damages. When the estate came into the probate court Mr. Leavitt turned up, saying he was the children's grandfather. He was required to make proof of this, and according to Elmer McDowell, who represents the children, he has done so.

IN AND OUT

ABOUT THE COURTS.

MUST BE CAREFUL. A wig-wag signal at a railroad crossing does not relieve the driver of a vehicle from the stop, look and listen duty, ruled Judge Myers yesterday, in the suit of Walter A. Vernon against the Pacific Electric for $10,000 damages. Mr. Vernon's truck was struck at Sixteenth street and Western avenue by an electric car several months ago. He said he was watching the wig-wag, which did not wiggle until the car was upon him. The jury found for the Pacific Electric.

INCORPORATIONS. Societa Italia of Los Angeles, incorporators Alexander Bucci, Pasquale Pirri, Leonardo Aquilino, Gabriele Monteleone, Giovanni D'Amico, Nicola Desimone, Morris Orsatti, C. Morris, capital stock $10,000, subscribed $15; Pacific Coast Amusement Company, incorporators Walter F. Lineberger, Otis Hoyt and James H. Daly, capital stock $25,000, subscribed $200.

RECORDS AGAINST THEM. Francis Guye and A. C. Hazzard, two young men who robbed a lunchroom one night last June, were sentenced by Judge Craig yesterday. Guye was given three years in San Quentin, and Hazzard, who is a minor, was sent to the Preston School of Industry at Ione for a year, after which he is to be returned to the local court for final sentence. Probation was denied the young men because of previous records in Seattle.

PLEADS GUILTY. Andrew Kelsat yesterday pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, when brought before Judge Craig. He admitted having killed Arthur Wragg, a fellow-laborer, in Camp No. 8 on the Los Angeles Aqueduct about three months ago. The shooting followed a quarrel over a wrestling match. Kelsat will be sentenced on next Monday.

FOR SLAYING DETECTIVE. Calagero Finocchio will stand trial for the murder of Detective Sergeant Browning on Nov. 29. Judge Craig set that date yesterday morning, when the alleged Italian "blackhander" was arraigned. Finocchio, through Attorney Lightfoot, entered a plea of "not guilty."

Grave Problems.

each other. Herein lies an element of danger, is the decision of the speaker. He stated that he believes all indications point to a rising prosperity in America until the end of the war. As a result of this and the heavy importations of gold, and of the reductions recently made in the reserve requirements of national banks, there is probability of great expansion of credits, eventually making American business more vulnerable from foreign competition both here and in foreign markets.

Added to this, said the speaker, will be the reduction of the purchasing power in non-warring countries, and there is probability of hostile protective tariffs on the part of fighting countries. He suggested that we can meet these dangers by raising our tariff duties in the United States, but that this might have to reach a point that was simply prohibitive of imports in order to be effective; and that this would seriously reduce the income of the United States, so that deficits would have to be met by increased taxes.

SHORTAGE OF CAPITAL.

The speaker declared that all indications point to a shortage of the world's available capital, due to sheer destruction, to the great uncertainty as to the future, to the need of settling certain war debts, and to the cost of preparing for further wars. He argued that the high rates warring nations are paying for their loans will raise the price for money the world over and that if there is a bad settlement of the war and capital is higher there may be a reaction seriously affecting American investments.

Under conditions such as indicated, said the speaker, the United States is likely to have a period of great industrial unrest, accompanied by strikes and lockouts, as American manufacturers would have to meet the conditions imposed by European action; that there is a possibility of the growth of a revolutionary spirit among the masses in Europe, with the danger of a reaction on certain sections of American labor.

If a bad settlement of the war is made, continued Mr. Filene, the United States may be forced into an abnormally great expense for armament.

"I have been converted to 'preparedness' by my study of conditions since the war began," er. "I am therefor plea against prepared calling attention to the being forced to a greater than our Judg rant, greater than the of our country would
